Cease 'All Acts of War' Firm Line of N. Vietnam

Next Session Set Saturday

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam demanded in talks here today that the United States and its allies halt all attacks across the so-called demilitarized zone into North Vietnamese territory and withdraw from the area.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy in a statement directed at U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman specifically demanded that the United States stop all firing of artillery across the six-mile-wide zone separating the two Vietnams.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said Thuy linked the demand with North Vietnam's insistence that the United States must halt the rest of the bombing of the North and stop "all other acts of war" before the talks here can go on to other issues.

The United States and South Vietnam have forces just south of the zone to counter North Vietnamese Army regulars who U.S. and South Vietnamese commanders say infiltrate through the zone and around its western end via Laos.

In his opening remarks at the first full session Monday, Harriman called for a restoration of the zone as a non-military buffer zone.

The two sides met for 3½ hours today and Harriman described the discussions as extensive and active. He did not elaborate. The negotiators decided not to meet again until Saturday.

Harriman spoke first today for an hour and Thuy for an hour and a half, each time including translations.

Returning to the U.S. Embassy, Harriman was asked by correspondents whether the United States favors a coalition in South Vietnam as one measure to bring about a peaceful settlement of the war.

"We have never been for a coalition government," he said, "and we will never be for a coalition government."

While the North Vietnamese briefing was under way on the Left Bank of the Seine, an American report to correspondents by spokesman William Jordan was given at the U.S. Embassy.

Harriman, Jordan said, told Thuy that there are "some specific and urgent steps which are vital to peace, and on which it should be possible to agree."

Restore Neutral Zone

Harriman, in renewing his proposal of Monday that the warring countries could make a demonstration of peaceful interest by restoring peace to the demilitarized zone, said:

'Certainly one of the prime steps toward the strict observance of the military provisions of the 1954 Geneva accords should be to restore the demilitarized zone in its original and proper status. We agree on the legal existence of that zone and its prescribed boundaries.

"We propose that we agree now on making it function the way it should. Are you prepared to join in achieving this? The prompt restoration of the demilitarized zone as a buffer is an essential step."

Harriman said that the North Vietnamese on Monday referred to the 1962 agreement on Laos, and he proposed "that we agree now that all parties should comply meticulously with the 1962 agreement on Laos."

"Let us call upon the two co-chairmen (Britain and the Soviet Union) and the three countries which are members of the International Control Commission (India, Canada and Poland) to make prompt arrangements to assure that these accords are respected."

Harriman asked for a prompt answer from Thuy and then brought up the issue of Cambodia.

"We propose that all armed elements from outside Cambodia should fully respect the territorial neutrality and integrity of Cambodia. Let us join in requesting the International Control Commission to strengthen its functions in this regard."

Harriman said there are five areas in which both sides have similarities of interest:

—An independent, prosperous, neutral South Vietnam.

—Peace on the basis of the Geneva agreements of 1954.

—Settlement of the affairs of South Vietnam by its own people.

—Eventual reunification of North and South by peaceful means.

—Strict respect for the military provisions of the 1954 Geneva agreements.

BILL 33 PRAISED

Socred Vote Rally Held On 'Safe Side' of Picket

(Special to The Times)

VANCOUVER — A Social Credit election rally was held on the safe side of a picket line Tuesday night while Labor Minister Peterson praised Bill 33.

Premier Bennett, several cabinet ministers and almost 750 Vancouver South residents held the rally outdoors.

It had been scheduled for a high school auditorium but was diverted to the nearby field because janitors were picketing the school, along with 21 others in Vancouver, as part of a wage dispute with the school board.

STABILITY

Mr. Peterson said Bill 33 was designed to bring stability to labor-management relations and represent the public interest.

He said the NDP and Liberals opposed the bill so they "must of necessity be in favor of a monopoly of labor or monopoly of management being able to paralyze the economy of this province.

"Those who oppose this bill must of necessity say the government has no right to protect the interest of the public or the welfare of the people of this province.

"It's as simple as that."

NO 'SPLIT'

He also denied reports of a cabinet split.

"When there is strong leadership there is no rift in the cabinet," he said while Premier Bennett looked on.

"There is no rift in Social Credit," added Mr. Peterson.

"We are satisfied with our leadership and other parties wish they had W. A. C. Bennett to lead them."

Mr. Bennett repeated the theme that his government represents all people and not just labor or management. He said 16 years of his administrations had brought B.C. from a "have-not province" to "No. 1 have province in the whole of Canada."

"Today we have the highest standard of living in Canada," Mr. Bennett said.

"Tomorrow we'll have the highest in the world."

Mr. Bennett told a heckler that the government has for-

CAMPBELL TO SEEK MEDIATOR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Mayor Tom Campbell said he will ask British Columbia Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today to appoint a mediator in the six-day-old strike of engineer-custodians in city schools.

"The schools can't stay open much longer," said Mr. Campbell. "If they close down, the time will have to be made up by extending the term into the summer holidays," he said.

PERRAULT
. . . resigns B.C. post

Perrault-Douglas Battle Looming

Ray Perrault, leader of the Liberal party in B.C. for the last nine years, resigned his post today and announced he will seek the party's nomination to oppose NDP leader Tommy Douglas in the federal election.

His announcement at a press conference in Vancouver, confirmed earlier speculation of his intentions and leaves the provincial party leaderless for the next several months, until a convention can be held.

The Liberal nomination meeting in Burnaby-Richmond, where Douglas is a candidate, takes place Thursday night.

The riding includes 8,000 voters in the North Vancouver-Capilano provincial riding which Mr. Perrault held.

Mr. Perrault, 42, became the youngest political leader in the province in 1959 when he was elected party leader — but without a seat. At that time the Liberals held only two seats in the legislature in which Premier Bennett's Social Credit party has held sway since 1952.

But the following year Mr. Perrault took on Newton Steacy, the Social Credit government's agriculture minister, and beat him in the Vancouver area riding.

That year the Liberals increased their number in the provincial house to four. They now occupy five of the 55 seats, with a sixth, a former Liberal seat, vacant.

Asked what he would do if he did not get the nomination he said he would have to make a decision whether to maintain his North Shore provincial seat, however he would not reconsider his resignation as party leader.

"Should I become a candidate," Mr. Perrault said, "I will resign my provincial seat, and my formal resignation as leader of the party of British Columbia will be tendered at the next leadership convention of the provincial party."

3 Million Strike In U.K. Wage Row

LONDON (CP) — Three million British engineering workers went on a 24-hour strike today, delivering a warning to Prime Minister Wilson of more trouble if he pushes through his wage restraint policies.

The strikers demanded wage increases in excess of the 3½-per-cent ceiling laid down by the Labor government. They paralysed large sections of Britain's motor and other industries and kept the big national newspapers from printing their usual 10,000,000 copies in London. The Communist Morning Star was the only national newspaper to appear.

The strike followed publication Tuesday of the government's bill to hold down increases in prices, wages and dividends for 18 months at least.

Scores of plants came to a standstill in the Midlands, Scotland and Wales.

All vehicle production by the newly formed British Leyland Motor Corp. was halted and 110,000 workers were idle.

Work on parts of the British-French Concorde supersonic airliner stopped at the British Aircraft Corp's plant in Weybridge when only a handful of the 4,500 workers turned up.

The one-day token strike was called by leaders of 30 labor organizations in the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions. They are demanding across-the-board wage increases and longer vacations for all classes of engineers.

'Sovereign State' Idea Condemned by PM

Johnson's Aide Joins Tory Team

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Bureau

MONTREAL — Marcel Faribault, until this week a constitutional adviser to Premier Daniel Johnson, carried his opposition to the policies of Prime Minister Trudeau into the federal election campaign Tuesday.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield announced here Tuesday that Mr. Faribault would be a Conservative candidate and Mr. Faribault lost no time in getting into the fight.

He attacked Mr. Trudeau's policies as "unduly socialistic," "unduly centralizing," and "bad for the country."

"The future of Canada is at stake, directly and indirectly," he said.

He attacked the federal government's record as "pitiful" in social and economic matters as well as constitutional affairs but said the constitution was the fundamental question.

"The modern constitution is not something imposed from on high," he said.

Reflect Realities

It must reflect the human realities of the country and must recognize the existence of "two nations, in the sociological sense."

Mr. Stanfield was received warmly at the party's provincial campaign here but he won his most enthusiastic applause when he announced that Mr. Faribault would be a candidate.

The Conservative leader spoke only briefly to his Quebec workers. He told them that Quebec held the key to the election and a "reasonable number" of successful Conservative candidates in the province would put the party in power.

He said later that a "reasonable number" meant "as many as possible."

Mr. Faribault said that the "presence of Mr. Stanfield seems to me an unquestionable guarantee from the constitutional standooint."

Mr. Stanfield, who had formerly rejected an invitation by John Diefenbaker to become a Conservative candidate, said that he did not think Mr. Diefenbaker's decision to run again threatened the party with division. He said the party was big enough to leave room for differences.

Mr. Diefenbaker is as firmly opposed to the "two nations" principle as Mr.

JOHNSON ROLE PASSIVE – PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today he did not think Premier Johnson of Quebec would take a personal part in the June 25 federal election "and risk a humiliating defeat".

"After all, Mr. Johnson is the leader of a provincial party which makes it a point not to take part in federal elections," Mr. Trudeau told reporters after a cabinet meeting.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Tuesday blistered the theories in international relationships held by Premier Daniel Johnson and his constitutional adviser Marcel Faribault.

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Johnson's theories could lead to the "disintegration" of Canada and Mr. Faribault's to the "disintegration" of major international agencies.

Mr. Faribault later announced his candidacy as a Progressive Conservative for the federal election June 25.

Mr. Johnson believes that Quebec has an international role to fulfil and Mr. Faribault believes the provinces must become full members of great international organizations like UNESCO, Mr. Trudeau told a luncheon organized by the Montreal district Chamber of Commerce.

That meant Quebec could act as a sovereign state and each province could set up its own foreign policy in those fields within its jurisdiction, ignoring Ottawa.

SEVERAL POLICIES

Mr. Trudeau said in an off-the-cuff French speech the first consequence of this theory is that Canada could have several foreign policies, each contradicting the other.

"If Canada has several contradictory foreign policies, that means the disintegration of Canada because then one country speaks with several voices."

Canada has certain restrictions against Rhodesia, but since Quebec could undertake direct relations with Gabon—which no longer has diplomatic ties with Canada—then Ontario could deal with Rhodesia.

British Columbia could decide to undertake regular relations with Peking, capital of mainland China, which is not recognized by Canada.

Mr. Trudeau said the consequence of Mr. Faribault's theory is that international or-

WAITED 15 HOURS TO TREAT 'ABRASIONS'

5 Bullets in His Head—He Didn't Know It!

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An Alaskan public health official was shot five times in the head early Monday, a physician disclosed Tuesday, but did not seek aid until 15 hours later because he thought he had only been mugged.

Dr. Ralph B. Williams, 57, of Juneau, director of laboratory services for the Alaska health and welfare department, was listed in serious condition Tuesday night at St. Mary's Hospital.

An attending physician said he and police pieced together this story:

Williams was walking home Sunday night and apparently was accosted by two men. He said he was knocked to the ground, but could not remember what else happened.

Williams hailed a cab and was taken back to his hotel.

The next day Williams saw a doctor to treat what he thought were oozing abrasions.

The doctor said he, too, first thought his patient had been beaten only, and sent him for x-rays which disclosed the bullet wounds from a small-calibre weapon.

The doctor said one bullet entered beneath the left eye and lodged in Williams' neck between the jugular vein and carotid artery. Another entered the top of his head and lodged in the right lobe of the brain. A third bullet penetrated the roof of the mouth—the gun having apparently been put in Williams' mouth—and lodged at the base of the skull. A fourth bullet entered near the side of the right eye and came to rest where the jawbone attaches to the skull. The fifth shot entered under the right nostril and went into the hard palate.

"Anyone of those bullets could have killed him," said the doctor.

. . . CEASE ACTS OF WAR

Harriman accused the North of aggression in the South—a charge which a Northern spokesman told correspondents was defamatory—then Harriman said: "The path toward restoration of the 1954 accords is clear.

"It is to abandon the resort to force, to re-establish the demilitarized zone and systematically to withdraw all forces other than those of South Vietnam from its territory, and for the issue of reunification to be settled peacefully by the people in North Vietnam and the people in South Vietnam."

Following Harriman in the meetingn Thuy accused the United States of aggression and waging "a ferocious war against the people of South Vietnam."

After giving his version of the history of the war, Thuy said, his spokesman reported cthat President Johnson's March 3 limitation on the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam had failed to respond fully to Hanoi's call for an end to all the bombing and other acts of war.

The spokesman quoted Thuy as saying his government, nevertheless, showed its goodwill by agreeing to send representatives for talks and then proposing the time and date.

It was due to this action, he said, the conversations were able to start here.

Whether any progress can be made Thuy said, now depends on the United States. The world is waiting to see he said whether American acts will carry out expressed American desires for peace. He said he had found in Harriman's basic statement Monday "no new elements . . . in a sense favorable to peace."

He accused the United States of clinging to aggressive intentions, distorting facts and trying to deceive world opinion.

AMERICAN REBUTTAL

Harriman said:

'Of the many violations of the Geneva accords one stanads out in its callousness and disregard for the innocent men, women and children who wish to live their lives in peace in the South —that is the relentless and ruthless acts of terror by North Vietnam and by its agents in the South against the civilian population.

"At this very moment, terror attacks directed against the innocent civilians of Saigon are taking place."

Harriman said introduction of regular North Vietnamese Army units preceded introduction of U.S. combat forces into South Vietnam and the U.S. bombing campaign against the North, both in 1965.

"As regards to the situation in Laos, the responsibility for its deterioration falls clearly on the shoulders of Hanoi," Harriman said. "The North Vietnamese did not observe their obligations under the 1962 agreements and it seems clear that they never intended to.

"While Soviet and American military personnel presented themselves to the ICC and withdrew as required, only a handful of North Vietnam's forces did the same. The rest cynically, flagrantly and illegally stayed in Laos and violated the peace and territorial integrity of that small, neutral neighbor."

FIND COMMON GROUND

Jordan said Harriman's proposals constituted an effort "to get on the table some element of common ground—that could get us moving closer to ending the war." He said he thinks the North Vietnamese have not 'reciprocated" the American action.

Jordan told correspondents the United States had suggested meeting again on Friday but that the Hanoi delegation had asked for Saturday and the Americans agreed.

The U.S. hope was said to be that in the two free days in the talks here North Vietnam could produce some constructive responses" to Harriman's proposals.

Of today's session Harriman commented: "We had an active discussion. We are going to meet again on Saturday. There is nothing more I can say at this time."

AMBASSADOR MUM

At the Lutetia Hotel on the Left Bank, North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy declined to reply to reporters' questions.

Asked whether he found anything positive in Harriman's remarks in the meeting, Xuan Thuy smiled faintly, waved his hand and went on without speaking.

The two sides returned to the conference table for the second full session since Monday to see if they can begin work on an agreed basis for ending the fighting in Vietnam.

Before going in to the meeting, Harriman indicated that secret discussion is his preferred way of trying to arrive at some accords with Xuan Thuy.

Harriman repeated Tuesday that all American attacks on North Vietnam could end quickly "if our restraint is matched by restraint on the other side." But a spokesman for Xuan Thuy replied "no ransom will be paid to the American aggressor" in exchange for a bombing halt.

Students Protest New German Law

FRANKFURT (Reuters) — The radical Socialist German Students' League blockaded Frankfurt University today to protest the second reading of a bill which would give the West German government emergency powers during periods of crisis.

The bill, which began its second reading in the Bundestag (lower House), has aroused spirited opposition among students and trade unionists.

The students set up pickets and barricades at the entrances to university buildings, preventing other students from getting to their lectures. A few glass doors and windows were smashed in scuffles.

The debate got under way in Bonn after a 90-minute delay for last-minute consultations by the Christian Democrats' partners in the grand coalition, the Social Democrats.

Dr. Carl Otto Lenz of the Bundestag legal committee said the laws would not pave the way for dictatorship as its opponents charge.

The Christian Democratic deputy said the legislation is needed to remove the right of the three Western allies, in Britain, France and the United States, to take over supreme power in West Germany in emergency.

BITTERLY ATTACKED

First presented to Parliament in 1958, the bill has been revised, supplemented and amended more than a dozen times in the face of bitter attacks from labor unions, liberal organizations, students and intellectuals.

They fear that the laws could pave the way toward dictatorship in a country with a long history of the misuse of exceptional powers. Legal experts, however, insist that the draft compares favorably with emergency powers in any other Western democracy.

The laws envisage the use of soldiers as police, conscription of all males over 18 into civil defence units and the establishment of a restricted Parliament in times of external aggression or "internal danger."

The legislation would also provide for authorities to assume the rights to tap telephone calls and open mail.

. . . SOCRED RALLY

mally returned the controversial Lear jet aircraft to the manufacturer and has negotiated its way out of paying a $25,000 penalty clause in the contract arranged by ex-highways minister Gaglardi two years ago.

"It (the plane) went in the last few days," he said when asked when it was returned to the manufacturer.

The premier is scheduled to make the Socreds' wind-up speech in the by-election campaign Thursday night, at another high school but the location may be changed if pickets are still up. Vancouver South goes to the polls Tuesday.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Bennett spent several hours "mainstreeting" to drum up support for the government candidate.

He pleased 77-year-old Mary Young, a teetotaller he met in a senior citizens' development, when he suggested Anglican Archbishop Sexton is a heavy drinker whose call for open bars on Sunday should be ignored.

She recalled the Anglican archbishop's suggestion to Mr. Bennett and put it down to the fact that he "enjoys a wee drop."

"He likes a little gallon," replied a smiling Mr. Bennett.

"But he's retiring soon and he has a sense of humor. The papers, of course, picked up what he said.

"I was in the cathedral when the archbishop tried to explain it all away.

"He said if we can have a drink on Monday, why not on a Sunday?

"I said to him: 'Do you mean there is no difference between the Sabbath and any other day?' — and he couldn't answer."

Premier Bennett concluded the brief conversation by kissing Miss Young on the cheek.

He also kissed 76-year-old Mrs. Rose Cohen in a Jewish home for the aged.

AN AMATEUR

Mr. Bennett told reporters that Prime Minister Trudeau — who has been besieged across the country by young women wanting to kiss him — "is an amateur. He'll soon find out a professional is better than an amateur any day."

Earlier, he had told reporters he wouldn't go around kissing ladies during the campaign because he was so popular with women it wouldn't be fair.

"I have so many ladies, I couldn't kiss them all, so why show a few preferences," he said.

The premier also called on NDP candidate Norman Levi — believed the likely winner by some observers — and the two shook hands.

"I thought you may have come down to concede the byelection," joked Mr. Levi.

"I have — I concede you second place," quipped Mr. Bennett.

Cardiologist Speaks Friday

One of British Columbia's leading heart specialist, Dr. Philip Ashmore of Vancouver, will address Victoria doctors Friday on advances in heart surgery.

A clinical assistant professor at University of British Columbia's research centre, Dr. Ashmore will share the lecture session with Dr. James Burnell of University of Washington and Dr. Cecil Couves, University of Alberta.

Their appearance here is part of a continuing series of talks in a medical education program sponsored by Victoria Medical Society.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The mercury dipped to a chilly 28 at Quesnel and Williams Lake early this morning. Elsewhere in the interior minimum temperatures were generally in the mid thirties. Low readings along the coast were in the mid forties.

A ridge of high pressure which is continuing to build over the B.C. coast will produce mainly sunny weather and warmer temperatures in most sections Thursday. A weak onshore circulation, however, will cause patchy night and morning cloudiness over the outer coast and the lower mainland.

FRENCH PREMIER PUTS BLAME ON PEKING

Student Riot 'Plot' Charged

PARIS (AP) — While rebellious students carried on their sit-ins at most of France's 18 universities, Premier Georges Pompidou said Tuesday night that the rebellion is part of a widespread international plot. But he offered the students more concessions.

Pompidou told the National Assembly the student uprising against French educational policies "involved individuals backed by important financial means with materiel adapted to street fighting, apparently belonging to an international organization."

"I do not think I am straying in thinking they are aiming at not only creating subversion in Western countries," he added, "but at causing trouble in Paris even at the moment when our capital has become the meeting place for peace in the Far East."

It was assumed that Peking was his target, since the Chinese are the only Communist force who have expressed opposition to the talks between the United States and North Vietnam that opened in Paris

The premier admitted there are basic causes for the student unrest, particularly a lack of jobs for liberal arts graduates.

He said he would form a "committee for reflection," made up of representative professors, students, parents and others to "propose, if not solutions, at least experiments."

NEBRASKA TRIUMPH

Kennedy Turns Campaign Guns On Humphrey

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Senator Robert F. Kennedy marched to victory in Nebraska's Democratic presidential primary and turned his campaign guns today toward Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey—with a suggestion that battered rival Senator Eugene J. McCarthy join him.

The New York senator received 51 per cent of the vote for a majority over McCarthy, President Johnson and write-ins for Humphrey.

McCarthy, with 31 per cent of the ballots, absorbed his second defeat by Kennedy in a week.

McCarthy ran third in the Indiana primary May 7 with 27 per cent of the vote compared with Kennedy's 42 per cent. Gov. Roger D. Branigin was second in that race. However, the Minnesota senator said he would campaign through the primaries ahead and was not interested in an alliance with Kennedy.

Richard M. Nixon collected 70 per cent of the Republican vote —a victory of greater magnitude than he had anticipated.

Governor Ronald Reagan of California, who polled a surprising 22 per cent, said he was gratified and would not refuse the Republican nomination if it were offered.

But Reagan said he is not going to become a candidate, and will not campaign for the nomination.

TEST PUBLIC SUPPORT

Primaries in the U.S., are held to test public support of politicians seeking presidential nominations. The candidates are chosen at national nominating conventions. Some states have laws committing state party delegations to primary winners on the first ballot at conventions. This is not the case in Nebraska. However, Tuesday's primary also included voting for convention delegates.

Write-in votes are given to candidates not on the ballot.

Sixteen Republican nominating votes were at stake in separate balloting, and candidates who favor Nixon won all of them.

The Democratic delegate picture was more clouded, with candidates listed as uncommitted or pledged to Johnson crowding the lengthy ballot.

Twenty-eight Democratic nominating votes were at stake, two more go automatically to the national committee members, who favor Humphrey.

But in the delegate contest, as well as the presidential preference poll Kennedy led the way.

Candidates who have expressed a preference for him led for 16 delegate spots. McCarthy-pledged candidates led for three. Nine uncommitted delegates who have expressed no preference filled out the list of leaders for Democratic delegation posts.

POLL NOT BINDING

With 1,980 of the 2,133 precincts counted this was the vote in the Democratic popularity poll, which is not binding on delegates:

Kennedy 76,628 or 51 per cent; McCarthy 46,069 or 31 per cent; Humphrey write-ins 12,643 or 8 per cent; Johnson 8,405 or 6 per cent.

Johnson's rejection of candidacy came too late for his name to be taken off the ballot.

In the Republican count, with 1,851 predincts counted, this was the situation:

Nixon 114,834 or 70 per cent; Reagan 35,766 or 22 per cent, write-in votes for Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, 9,214 or 6 per cent.

Reagan's name was on the ballot, which automatically lists all potential nominees who do not file denials of candidacy.

N-Arms Pact Draft Draws India Protest

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — India declared its opposition Tuesday to a proposed treaty to bar the spread of nuclear weapons because it fails to place restrictions on further production of nuclear arms.

Indian Ambassador Axim Husain told the General Assembly's main political committee that the world is unlikely to be more secure with the treaty than without it.

He also expressed dissatisfaction with the promises of three nuclear powers—the U.S., the Soviet Union and Britain—to seek further disarmament accords, the absence of Communist China from supporters of the treaty, provisions for the development of the peaceful uses of nuclear energy and a lack of balance of obligations between nuclear and non-nuclear states.

India is one of the major opponents of the proposed treaty, introduced jointly by the U.S. and Russia.

Husain reaffirmed that his country has no intention of manufacturing nuclear weapons.

Canoes Needed

TORONTO (CP) — Instead of sending text books, the white man should send canoes and snowshoes to Indians at residential schools in northern Ontario, an Indian principal suggested last week. Colin Wasacase of Cecilia Jeffrey residential school in Kenora told the women's auxiliary of the Ontario Medical Association that his school was near a lake but students can't afford canoes.

Down the Hill From Toronto

THE PROLONGED ECLIPSE which followed Mr. Stanfield's spectacular choice as leader of the Conservative Party last fall was confidently explained by Conservative supporters as a planned familiarization period designed to permit the Nova Scotia provincial leader to convert to the federal scene. This appeared to be a logical enough step, and adequate explanation for the parliamentary silence which generally cloaked Mr. Stanfield during the last session. He was learning, planning, assessing, it was said, and this balanced up the loss of the nation-wide public attention and enthusiasm with which he had been launched at Toronto.

* * *

Occasionally Mr. Stanfield surfaced to charge that the Liberal government had no policy on this or that matter, without enlarging on what his own party's might be, but the general feeling was that very soon he would emerge in the strong, man-of-action image which had been glimpsed at Toronto and make a telling impact on the country.

That time has come. It has been here, in fact, for several weeks, and if ever Mr. Stanfield is to make his impact it is now, as the national election contest gathers momentum. But somehow the swing of the spotlight is missing Mr. Stanfield. The consensus seems to be that Bob is a very decent fellow, honest and all that, and very conscientious — but where is he at the moment, what is he saying, what has he done that is new? And the answers become confused.

One matter on which the Conservative leader has been quoted is in connection with the controversy over the Quebec demand for direct representation abroad. But Mr. Stanfield's tentative toe-dipping in this swirling pool produced mainly some accusations that the federal government had been tardy in arranging constitutional talks which would have avoided the hassle. It has been shown, of course, that on the contrary it was the provinces which had delayed their arrangements, and that in addition Premier Johnson had avoided answering urgent Ottawa messages on the matter. On the vital question of water exports, Mr. Stanfield speaks vaguely of a "collective approach" to all resources, apparently based on the idea of sharing them jointly with our ten-times-larger neighbor to the south.

* * *

On his only three concrete proposals Mr. Stanfield has wandered far from the image of sound financial responsibility with which he began his federal career. As the guardian of the taxpayer, he has not yet explained how the country would pay for his proposed guaranteed income, his national pollution control authority, or his housing land banks. Such plans may have merit, but they are not economy moves, and they should be accompanied by some suggestion as to how they would be paid for.

So much for Mr. Stanfield's campaign to date. The lights of Toronto are far behind, and the lights of Ottawa are pretty dim ahead.

The Struggle Continues

APPARENT AGREEMENT AT committee level between the two houses of Congress on a taxation increase—spending decrease bill may be the break in the log-jam of fiscal policy which President Johnson has been seeking for almost a year. But the legislation as it stands now—imposing a tax surcharge expected to yield $10 billions, and spending cuts to be applied by the executive totalling $6 billions—is still deficient considering the changed circumstances from a year ago. And there is still no certainty that it will be passed by Congress.

The President's request for a $10 billions surtax was primarily to finance the heavy budget deficit resulting from the Vietnam war. It was recognized, at the same time, that a great deal of money was going to be needed for domestic programs, particularly the pressing needs of providing aid to economically depressed areas. But the conservatives in Congress by insisting on the $6 billions budget cut have effectively torpedoed any domestic initiatives while by their delay on the surtax they have helped the country's economy into a near-runaway inflation. Although interest rates are at a hundred-year peak, consumer and corporate spending is rising. Prices are going up at a rate of 4 per cent and wages at 6 per cent while, with nearly full employment, productivity is slipping.

The present crisis, which has had a depressing effect on the Canadian economy and threatened a chaotic international monetary situation, cannot be entirely blamed on Congress since President Johnson, more than two years ago, turned down the advice of his economic advisers that taxes should be increased immediately. The long-term result of this has been a grim battle between Congress and executive over assignment of the blame for the present situation.

Insistence that spending be cut by $6 billions when Mr. Johnson says that $4 billions is the top acceptable limit is only part of the battle. The legislation directing that the President shall be responsible for deciding what parts of the budget program will be pared down is designed to shift responsibility from the Congress—sensitive about many areas of spending in this election year—to the President. A spending cut of $6 billions is a potential cause of considerable unemployment and few legislators want the responsibility for that.

"... what makes you so sure that you're enjoying it less than I am ...?"

Cross Purpose Problems in Government

THE prime minister's statement of Friday on regional development is a further indication that the parties, for lack of policy, are being forced to improvise in this election campaign. One of the difficulties with big government—not peculiar to Canada—is that it tends to be mindless government. Responsibilities overlap; effort is dispersed through a variety of departments and agencies. It is difficult to secure effective co-ordination and what is attempted by one branch may be neutralized by the work of another with a different set of values and priorities. This is no new discovery. Mr. Pearson was never satisfied with the structure of government and was constantly attempting to reallocate functions for greater efficiency. While some improvements were probably effected, the most visible result of this experimentation was that the government got bigger and bigger. Thus it was thought advisable to create a new department of energy with the quite absurd consequence that a line had to be drawn through Hudson Bay to separate the responsibilities of Mr. Pepin from those of Mr. Laing.

Western

Whoever wins the election, it is now clear from the pronouncements of Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Stanfield that there is to be a new effort to rationalize the sprawling federal administration.

Mr. Stanfield, mercifully, has not proposed a new department to deal with pollution. His long paper on the subject — less policy than approach to policy — calls for an agency to co-ordinate the work of the various scattered branches now directly or indirectly concerned with pollution problems. This might be helpful although it is perhaps worth noting that Mr. Pearson got nowhere when he attempted in a similar fashion to organize the over-publicized "war on poverty."

New Department

On Friday Mr. Trudeau proposed a new department to deal with problems of regional disparity. At the outset, the minister responsible would take over ARDA and FRED from the department of forestry and the area development program from the department of industry. The prime minister also suggested that the Atlantic Development Board and Cape Breton Development Corporation might form part of the same grouping.

If the proposal was that the department of forestry (a Conservative innovation) and the department of industry (a Liberal contribution) should be liquidated at the same time, there would be more to be said for this idea. Mr. Trudeau said nothing, however, about dismantling existing departments.

The essential difficulty would in any case remain. Mr. Trudeau seems not to have reconciled the general and particular. The first three of these programs are applicable to any under-developed region anywhere in the country but the prime minister's thought is directed so specifically at one region that he spoke at one point of a ministry of Atlantic development roughly comparable to the ministry of northern development.

There is a case here and Mr. Trudeau made it; in a sense he over-made it. Even in generally prosperous provinces there are problem areas but they are not so serious that they cannot be dealt with primarily by provincial action. On the other hand, the whole of the Atlantic region may be said to be a problem area with a few isolated centres of relative prosperity.

In fact, surely, there are more gradations than this suggests. Manitoba, for example, contains not only the ARDA inter-lake region but almost the whole of the north; a huge area characterized by under-development and all the economic and social problems that go with it.

One of the first regional development programs in this country was PFRA. It is not excluded that this may ultimately come within the new department. But although PFRA (and later MMRA) was limited to a particular area, it was administered by the department of agriculture which had nation-wide responsibilities. It would seem unsound to have the exact contrary; an essentially regional department supervising programs with application in many provinces.

Mr. Trudeau left the impression that his plan was still tentative in the sense that the department is still under study. But he left no doubt that the responsible minister would be expected to speak in cabinet from the specific standpoint of Atlantic development. (Presumably each province will also have its own minister as in the past). In addition, the statement spoke of "some decentralization of federal government services to the areas where their effort is committed." As Mr. Trudeau emphasized that the largest commitment is in the eastern provinces, this would tend to give the new department even more of an Atlantic coloration.

SPECIAL REPORT FROM PARIS — By WILLIAM R. FRYE

Asking Price Before Negotiations

THE United States' approach to peace in Vietnam, as outlined here Monday by W. Averell Harriman, President Johnson's special negotiator, envisages two basic steps:

1. Quarantining the war in the south, all outside intervention being removed.

2. Attempting a political settlement through national reconciliation — i.e. apparently through denatured coalition.

Frye

Harriman proposes to restore the demilitarized zone (DMZ) on either side of the 17th Parallel as an effective buffer area, thus shutting off infiltration of men and supplies through that route. He further asks that the Laos accords of 1962 be fully observed, which would dry up the flow of North Vietnamese men and supplies over the Ho Chi Minh trail. Revivified inspection mechanisms, with Asian participation, would, he suggests, police the new arrangements.

The combined effect of these measures, if fully implemented, would be to render impractical a support action by Hanoi in the south. The Viet Cong guerrillas would thus be left to fight on their own.

In return, echoing the Manilla Declaration of October, 1966, Harriman has promised that when the North Vietnamese have removed their influence, and the level of violence thus subsides, American forces would be withdrawn. South Vietnam would be left to deal with remaining terrorism on its own.

This, in Harriman's view, would make possible a political settlement in which all elements of South Vietnamese society would be brought into the political process.

"All individuals, regardless of their past actions, may receive the full rights of citizenship," he said. "All" was taken to include Communists.

Harriman was careful not to use the word "coalition," which is an anathema in Saigon. But "rights of citizenship" obviously would include the right to hold office.

Harriman implied, but did not explicitly say, Communists would have to win office in a free election.

This is not the only element in Harriman's program which is unlikely to appeal to Hanoi.

Peaceful Participation

The "Governor", as he is still called, spoke as if he were confident Saigon would spontaneously open its arms to full Communist participation in South Vietnam's future, provided only it were peaceful participation. Even Washington does not believe this.

Harriman is known to feel a political settlement should in fact be hammered out primarily, if not exculsively, by the South Vietnamese themselves, the Saigon government negotiating with the southern Communists. The present Saigon regime insists is will never do so.

This may or may not be an inflexible stand—steps are being taken to broaden the base of the government in Saigon—but even so, Hanoi seems unlikely to be tempted by that distant a prospect of political compromise.

At the very least, observers believe after studying the remarks of Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's negotiator, Hanoi will want the egg of a political settlement to precede the chicken of reduced and geographically-confined warfare. Harriman proposed the opposite sequence.

To Great Lengths

What Thuy said he wanted was much more sweeping. He demanded, in effect, that the United States pull out and let Hanoi achieve its aim of overthrowing Saigon. He went to great lengths to argue the virtue of this objective.

Thuy took a similarly sweeping position on virtually every other major issue. He professed to be monumentally uninterested in a two-sided reduction of the fighting.

"Mutual de-escalation," he said, is "unacceptable." The United States had escalated unilaterally, and must de-escalate unilaterally, he contended.

Western observers did not consider this even a particularly good propaganda effort. Each side was putting forth an asking price at the outset of a bargaining process, but Harriman, they thought, had made his appear much the more reasonable.

Letters

Letters will be considered for publication only if the writer is clearly identified to the editor, who may permit pen names at his discretion. Submissions will be edited and may be condensed. Short letters are favored. None will be returned.

Lord Mayor of Victoria?

~~Our former Premier~~ has transmogrified into a Prime Minister. The Reeves of every backwoods hamlet have blossomed forth as Mayors. Is it not an opportune time for the chief citizen of this fair capital city to ascend to the dignity and magnificence of a Lord Mayor?

What makes a city distinctive is a combination of such subtleties and nuances which, woven together, express its unique character. As the seat of both a parliament and an archbishop's throne, as the home of Her Majesty's personal representative in this Province and by its unique nature and inheritance, surely Victoria is worthy of a time-honored title which no other city in North America could carry so graciously and naturally.

What a splendid piece of Victorian one-upmanship this would be. And what a genteel shot-in-the-arm for our dainty tourist drum-beaters!

The courteous, able gentleman who now occupies the mayoral seat would be the last man to advocate such a distinction. Yet he would also be first to grant that it would be an honor paid not to himself but to the uniquely "different" city he represents.

After all, we do have a precedent of sorts right here on our doorstep. Is not the correct, formal title of that venerable local leader whose recent words gave such comfort and renewed hope to so many thirsty hearts ... The Most Reverend His Grace the Lord Archbishop of British Columbia? — James McCrossan, 1424 St. Patrick.

Plaid Cymru Rising

NOT LONG AGO THE PLAID Cymru Party—the Welsh nationalists who speak their native tongue—was generally considered a joke in Britain, particularly in London. Now Plaid Cymru has one member in parliament and, in the opinion of some analysts who have studied the position of the Labor Party in Welsh affections recently, the nationalists could sweep away Prime Minister Wilson's formerly safe seats in Wales.

Plaid Cymru leaders show a buoyant confidence. They report the strong age group in their growing membership to be Welsh between 18 and 35 years of age. Their awkward amateurism in politics is giving way to more efficient performance and they expect steady change eventually to bring about independence for Wales.

At this distance from the scene of their operations, two alternatives explain their current popularity. They could be beneficiaries of the winds of change blowing in strongly nationalist directions in various parts of the world. Or they could represent a localized Welsh disillusionment with a British Labor government suffering general loss of public appeal.

The Welsh need no instruction on the waning health of their formerly busy coal and steel industries. They recognize a need for some other employment field to replace them — perhaps in petrochemicals. And, throughout the area, there appears to be a restless resentment against the government in London that is unable to produce the alternative which could lead to a measure of Welsh prosperity.

Looking Back

From the Times, May 15, 1908.

Ald. Gleason's Sunday closing bylaw got through city council last evening somewhat reduced in scope, it is true, but still enough left in it to entitle it to be called a Sunday closing bylaw.

At it stands now it provides that all billiard and pool rooms, skating rinks and other places of amusements, shall close at midnight on weekdays and remain closed until 6 o'clock the next morning and shall remain closed all Sunday.

'Giving No Consideration'

Calgary Albertan

It is reassuring to note that the drive to boost exports has not prompted the province to consider selling water to the United States. Agriculture Minister Harry Strom said last week that Alberta is "giving no consideration" to the export of water to the U.S. He said he believed the same is true of Saskatchewan. But, he could not say what Manitoba's thoughts are on the subject.

Accessibility to large quantites of water is becoming increasingly important. Rapidly expanding urban centres, for example, require extremely large water supplies daily. Urban water consumption is especially high during the hot summer months and it is important that reserve supplies be available.

Then there is the question of agriculture. The importance of the prairies as a vital food supplier is well known. The prime prairie products are dependent upon an adequate water supply. By and large this is obtained through normal rainfall and winter snows. But, what happens when the rains fail? A prolonged period of drought would turn the prairies into a vast dust bowl as happened in the '30s. Water must be available for extensive irrigation.

It is quite possible of course that Alberta and other provinces could afford to export some water to the U.S. But, before there can be any commitment to export water, extensive surveys will have to be made to determine the extent of the existing supply, and to predict possible supply trends and needs of the future. Even then, any decision about water exports will have to take into consideration the effect water diversion to the south will have on the over-all prairie water pattern.

The fact that the three prairie provinces and the federal government are awaiting the completion of the jointly-sponsored Saskatchewan-Nelson River study before diverting any water south would seem to indicate that caution will be the watchword in water dealings. We hope it stays that way.

Man, the 'Naked Ape,' Can't Live Alone Nor Leave Alone

By ARTHUR KOESTLER

(Arthur Koestler received the $24,000 Sonning prize for his "contributions to European culture", a prize set up in 1959 by a Danish newspaper and previously awarded to Bertrand Russell, Sir Winston Churchill and Sir Laurence Olivier. This is the text of his acceptance speech at Copenhagen University.)

If one looks with a cold eye at the mess man has made of history, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that he is afflicted by some built-in mental disorder which drives him toward self-destructeion.

We know that among social animals fighting is a ritual which stops short of serious injury. The prey that the predator kills always belongs to a different species.

Murder within the species, on an individual or collective scale, is a phenomenon unknown in the whole animal kingdom, except for man and a few varieties of ants and rats.

Evidently something must have gone wrong at some point in the evolution of homo sapiens. But when we ask what it is that has gone wrong, we usually get the dusty answer that all evil stems from the selfish, greedy, aggressive tendencies in human nature.

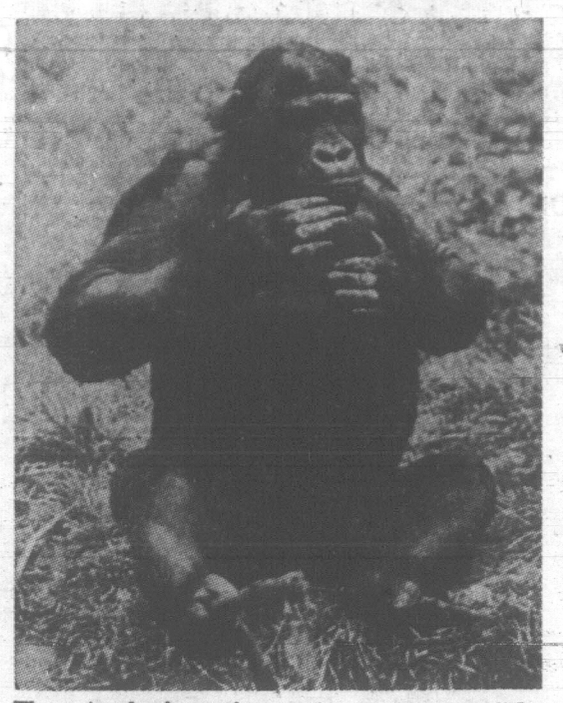
That is the explanation that has been offered to us for the past 3,000 years by Hebrew prophets, Indian sages, Christian moralists and contemporary psychoanalysts; but, speaking in all humility, I find this answer unconvincing and unsupported by the historical record.

What the record indicates is that in the major disasters in our history, individual aggressiveness for selfish motives played an almost negligible part compared to unselfish loyalty and devotion to tribe, nation, religion or political ideology.

Tribal wars, national wars, civil wars, religious wars, world wars are waged in the purported interest of the community, not of the individual, to decide issues that are far removed from the personal self-interest of the combatants.

No doubt the lust for rape and plunder provided delightful incentives for a minority, but for the great majority the primary motive was fanatic loyalty, to the point of self-sacrifice to king and country, leader or group.

In other words, the main trouble with man appears to be not that he is an excessively aggressive creature, but an excessively loyal and devoted creature. He seems to have a stronger biological need than any other species to belong, to attach himself to a person, a group or idea, to transcend the claustrophobic confines of his self. He cannot live alone and he cannot leave alone.



The natural sciences in recent years have created a revolutionary change in the way in which man looks at himself and his social habits. A flood of books, "The Naked Ape", "On Aggression", "The Territorial Imperative", "African Genesis", and others, have brought man face to face with his animal nature and, particularly, his inheritance from his anthropoid ancestors. Some of the philosophical and practical implications of geological, zoological and palaentological findings in the heart of Africa, now generally recognized as the cradle of the human race, are reflected in the accompanying article by Arthur Koestler.

Infant Dependence

One possible reason for this tendency may be the protracted helplessness and dependence of the human infant. Another reason may be the increased dependence on solidarity and co-operation of our primate ancestors when they took from the forest to the plains and turned into carnivorous hunters of prey bigger and faster than themselves.

Primate societies living in the wild are also held together by strong bonds, and groups of the same primate species living in different localities may also develop different traditions and customs. But the cohesive bonds within primate families do not grow into neurotic attachments, the cohesive forces within primate groups do not attain the intensity and fervor of tribal feeling, and the differences between primate groups of the same species do not lead to violent conflicts.

Only in homo sapiens did the cohesive forces within the group develop into fanatical loyalty to tribe, totem and its later symbolic equivalents; and only in our species did the repellent forces between groups develop into intra-specific warfare.

What I am trying to suggest is that the aggressive, self-assertive tendencies in the emotional life of the human individual are less dangerous to the species than his self-transcending or integrative tendencies.

Most civilizations throughout our history have been quite successful in taming individual aggressiveness and teaching the young how to sublimate their self-assertive impulses. But we have tragically failed to achieve a similar sublimation and canalization of the self-transcending emotions.

The number of victims of individual crimes committed in any period of history is insignificant compared to the masses cheerfully sacrificed, majorem gloriam, in blind devotion to the true religion, dynasty or political system.

Attachment Urge

When we speak of "blind devotion," we implicitly recognize the uncritical nature of the self-transcending urge in forming attachments to a person, group, race, flag or system of beliefs.

Every man is an island, craving to become attached to the mainland—or an atom with a free valency in search of a chemical bond.

A privileged minority may achieve self-transcendence through the oceanic feeling of the mystic, or the cathartic experiences mediated by the pursuit of science and art. But history shows that for the vast majority of mankind the only outlet for this longing to belong is a primitive form of identification with a social group and with the system of beliefs which it represents.

There is an essential difference between such primitive identification and the mature forms of social whole; identification implies a partial or total sacrifice of both, a surrender of the critical faculties and of moral responsibility. In some respects it represents a regression to infancy or even to the "womb" of the Church, as the saying goes; in other respects it resembles the hypnotic rapport; in extreme cases it produces the phenomena of mass hysteria in overt or latent form.

One need not by a physically present in a crowd to be affected by crowd mentality; it permeates the whole intellectual climate, like radioactive fallout, even in the privacy of one's bathroom.

Thus during the most of human history, the self-transcending urges of the individual could only express themselves through devotion to a narrowly defined group, with which he identified himself to the hostile exclusion of other groups; as a result, the disruptive forces have always dominated the forces of cohesion in our species as a whole.

The main peril of self-transcending devotion is that it frequently acts as a vehicle for a vicarious, unselfish kind of aggression.

We enter into an identificatory rapport with the hero on the movie screen, and as a result hate the perfidious villain; our anger is a vicarious emotion experienced on behalf of another person who does not even really exist, and yet we produce all the physical symptoms of a true emotion.

Unselfish Emotion

Similarly, the emotion displayed by a crowd of demonstrators is an unselfish type of emotion derived from the identification of the individual with the group.

When alone, man is inclined to act in his own interest, regardless of others; when identified with a group, the situation is reversed. The egotism of the group feeds on the altruism of its members.

Human history is pock-marked with the scars of this infernal dialectic. As to its origins, some clues are perhaps provided by the biological factors previously mentioned—the long infantile dependence and strong social interdependence characteristic of our species.

There is also the peculiar ability of the human brain to sustain belief-systems, rooted in emotion, which are incompatible and in frequent conflict with its reasoning faculties. The result is the split-minded, quasi-schizophrenic mentality, which seems to be inherent in man's condition and is reflected in his absurd and tortured history.

Let me mention briefly two further factors which seem to be equally basic to the human predicament. The first is the emergence of language as an exclusively human blessing and curse.

Language promotes communication and understanding within the group, but it also accentuates the differences in tradition and beliefs between groups, and erects separative barriers between tribes, nations, regions, social classes.

The Tower of Babel is an archetypal sympbol of the process which turns the blessing into a curse and prevents man from reaching into heaven. According to Margaret Mead, among the 2 million aborigines in New Guinea, 750 different languages are spoken in 750 different villages, which are at permanent war with one another.

Even more dangerous, however, than the divisive effect of different vocabularies is the power of language to crystallize the implicit habits and ways of life of different communities into explicit doctrines and moral imperatives.

If the citizens of Lilliput had not been blessed with language, they could not have fought a war on the question of which end to break the egg because they would not have been able to transform a habit into an ideology.

Equal in importance to the discovery of language and of the use of tools is man's discovery of death. But we should rather say: the discovery of death by the intellect and its rejection by instinct.

Instinct takes existence for granted and cannot conceive of non-existence. The refusal to accept death as a natural and final phenomenon became a dominant motive in all human cultures, and a paradigm of the split mind. It populated the atmosphere with invisible presences, most of them malevolent or at least capricious and unpredictable, who had to be propitiated and appeased at a heavy price.

Human Sacrifices

The institution of human sacrifice is a phenomenon curiously neglected by anthropologists, although it is found in every part of the world at the dawn of civilization, and even at the height of pre-Columbian cultures. It is epitomized in one of the early chapters of Genesis, where Abraham prepares to cut the throat of his son out of sheer love of God.

The ubiquity of human sacrifice is one of the earliest manifestations of the paranoid trend in the human psyche.

The forms changed, but the trend persisted throughout the holy massacres of history, culminating in the genocidal enterprises of our time.

Even the promise of eternal life was offered only to a small minority of mankind, at the price of eternal torment for the vast majority. Paradise was an exclusive country club, but the gates of hell were open to all.

There is, of course, a reverse side of the medal. Devotion is not always misguided, language produced the treasures in our libraries, the discovery of death is the foundation on which pyramids and cathedrals were built.

However, we are now concerned not with the glory of man but his predicament, and today that is the more urgent subject; it has achieved an urgency as never before.

History is accelerating at an unprecedented rate, like the molecules of a liquid that is coming to the boil. The contemporary equivalent of the Writing on the Walls are the diagrammatic charts of the exponential curves representing the various explosions that surround us: population explosion, knowledge explosion, and explosion of explosive power.

We may have seen these curves in learned magazines, but none of us has seen a curve representing progress in theoretical and applied ethics. The reason is, presumably, that there is no progress to report since the days when Buddha sat under the banyan tree, waiting for his oxcart.

In contrast to the exponential curve, which shows at first a slow, then an ever steeper rise until it seems to rocket into the sky, the missing ethical curve would show a blurred, wavy line with inconclusive ups and downs, and would never get off the ground. This contrast provides us with a simple over-all view of our history; it reflects the consequences of the split mind.

Fault in Circuitry

Evolution proceeds by trial and error, so we ought not to be surprised if it turned out that there is some construction fault in the circuitry that we carry inside our skulls, which would explain the unholy mess we have made of our history.

The ultimate cause may be the exceptionally rapid growth of the hominid brain in the course of the past half-million years — a phenomenon which seems to be unique in evolutionary history.

The brain explosion in the second half of the Pleistocene seems also to have followed the exponential curve which has become so familiar to us — and there may be more than a superficial analogy here, as both curves reflect the phenomenon of the acceleration of history on different levels.

But explosions rarely produce harmonious results, and the evidence seems to indicate that in our case the result is insufficient co-ordination between the psylogenitically new areas of the brain and the new, specifically human areas of the neocortex, which were superimposed on it with such unseemly haste.

A distinguished neurophysiologist, Professor Paul MacLean, has coined the term "schizophysiology" for this disorderly state of affairs in our central nervous system.

While our intellectual functions are carried on in the newest and most highly developed part of the brain, he says, our affective behavior continued to be dominated by a relatively crude and primitive system, by archaic structures in the brain whose fundamental pattern has undergone but little change in the whole course of evolution from mouse to man.

The consequences of this built-in schizophysiology range from so-called normal behavior, where emotional bias distorts our reasoning only within tolerable limits, through neurotic and psychotic disorder in the individual, to the collectively held beliefs in irrational causes to which we are emotionally committed in blind devotion and militant enthusiasm.

The question is, as Bertrand Russell once said, how to persuade humanity to acquiesce in its own survival. The thermonuclear reaction, once invented, cannot be disinvented, and the Pandora's boxes of biological warfare are just waiting to be opened. One cannot play Russian roulette for long.

The biological evolution of man seems to have come to a standstill, at least since Cro-Magnon days; since we cannot in the foreseeable future expect a change in human nature to arise by a spontaneous mutation, our only hope seems to be to discover techniques which supplant biological evolution and provide a cure for our collective ailments.

Recent advances in the sciences of life seem to indicate that once man decides to take his fate into his own hands, that possibility will be within his reach.

Fall-Out Problem Solved?

By THOMAS O'TOOLE

WASHINGTON — Two recent American underground atomic tests have demonstrated that an almost-fallout-free nuclear explosive is within the grasp of the United States.

Long talked about, a super-clean atomic explosive has eluded U.S. atomic experts for most of the past decade. Now, after years of patient struggle, the U.S. has apparently been able to build an atomic explosive that releases so little radioactivity that people nearby would not be harmed or equipment contaminated by it.

What this means, atomic experts claim, is that a harbor could be excavated or a canal dug with nuclear explosives. "We've been talking about doing it for years," said one expert, "but now we could really get down and dig a second Panama Canal with atomic explosives."

What has convinced them are the results of two nuclear excavation tests carried out early this year at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site, 100 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The first was the explosion Jan. 26 of a single 2.5-kiloton device code-named Cabriolet, which was buried 170 feet below the desert floor and which produced a crater 125 feet deep and 400 feet in diameter.

Big Ditch

Nicknamed Buggy, the second shot took place March 12 and involved the detonation of five-kiloton explosives buried 135 feet deep and spaced 150 feet apart. This row experiment dug a ditch 80 feet deep, 300 feet wide and 900 feet long.

What pleased the AEC about both shots was not so much the size of the holes they dug but the small amount of radioactive debris they both threw out.

"Fallout was confined in both cases to an area no more than a few hundred yards from the craters," said one source, "and radiation right at the source could not even be detected three days after the shots."

The key to what one AEC official calls the "Ivory Soap bomb (99 and 44-100ths per cent pure)" has been the small size of the explosives used.

"What we have now," a source said, "is a very small thermonuclear explosive triggered by a really tiny fission device," which is the source of most radiation in atomic energy.

The details of both the bomb and its trigger are secret, but one official said the U.S. can now construct a 100-kiloton (equal to 100,000 tons of TNT) device less than a foot in diameter that, if exploded just below the ground, would release no more than 20 tons of radioactive dirt, dust and debris to the immediate surroundings.

The next step in the AEC's Plowshare program (as the excavation tests are called) will come early next year when a 100-kiloton shot dubbed Schooner is set off at the Nevada test site.

For Digging

If Schooner works to the AEC's satisfaction, it might not be much longer before the AEC goes to the nation with a plan to use atomic explosives for digging purposes.

Just what that plan might be is anybody's guess right now, but schemes mentioned in the past include digging a rail and highway through the Sierra Nevada Mountains into California's Mohave Desert and trenching out a harbor at Cape Thompson in northern Alaska.

What most friends of Plowshare want to see is the use of atomic explosives to dig a sea-level inter-oceanic canal through the American Isthmus.

A second canal has long been needed to take the growing burden off the Panama Canal, which is not only out of date because of its complex locks system but also because it is simply not wide enough to accommodate the world's growing armada of huge ocean-going tankers.

A nuclear excavation through the Panamanian Isthmus would cost almost $1 billion, but a conventional trench dug across the same route might cost three times that and take five times longer.

Politics and emotions aside, the main drawback to an atomic-dug canal has been how to contain radioactivity, especially in the narrow American Isthmus where winds could blow even small amounts of radioactive debris across national borders in a violation of the limited test ban treaty.

But AEC officials feel now that their "Ivory Soap" bomb is the answer, at least to this problem. "We could really get to work on a canal," an AEC source said, "in less than five years."

A Long Love Affair With A Canary Yellow Sweetie

By ART STOTT

My affair with the canary yellow sweetie has been going on more than 30 years. I was newly married at the time we met and indiscreetly, I brought her home for presentation to my child bride.

Stott

The child bride eyed the canary yellow sweetie as a jealous wife might look at a too attractive secretary and had nothing to do with her from the start. The canary yellow sweetie is a Swedish bucksaw.

We spent our weekends and vacations at the lake in a one-room shack with a wood stove in those days and, in the tenderness of early matrimony, I thought the six-foot crosscut I owned was too heavy for the child bride. She thought so too.

★ ★ ★

But right from the beginning, the canary yellow sweetie and my lady have been incompatible. Separately, I get along with each just fine. Perhaps it is better this way. A wife should not hear the endearments I pour out to the canary yellow sweetie when its blade binds in a log that is too thick, or when, holding it low on its steel bow, I jam my fingers against the wood I'm cutting.

My effort to make married life easier for my partner and helpmeet by providing for her a light saw that sings its way through small stuff has been a failure. The lady has never properly embarked on wood-cutting. Instead, perhaps in pique, she has installed an oil range in the cabin which has now grown to several rooms. Still, we need wood for the open fire, and the canary yellow sweetie is not neglected. We have developed our affair.

As the attachment has grown over the years, I have sung the praises of this aid and comfort to a fuel harvester. On one occasion I delivered my eulogy to an expert Shawnigan woodcutter who does some writing on the side. From boyhood to middle age he was a six-foot crosscut man, glorying in the manly exertions of heaving his heavy saw through trees blown down by high winds at the lake.

A six-foot crosscut buff, with a half a lifetime of this hard labor behind him, is difficult to convince. He listened to me with growing disdain and when I had finished my tribute to the canary yellow sweetie, he said "Ha." He can make "Ha" sound like "Faugh," so I never mentioned the subject to him again.

Fifteen years after rebuffing me, he came into my office with a rare enthusiasm reserved usually for international crises, and announced a great discovery. He had found the perfect instrument for cutting up small firewood: I ought to get one. It was a Swedish bucksaw his wife had bought him and it went through small logs with one-quarter the effort expended on a six-foot crosscut. For a reason he may never understand, my reaction was restrained. The canary yellow sweetie and I had been going together for a decade and a half—and anyhow, his Swede saw was painted red.

More years have fallen away, like rungs sawn from small logs, since he made his discovery. And the attachment between the canary yellow sweetie and me has grown to a rich maturity. The pine tree has dropped its dead, and when they were branches, I've sawed them up.

We have been undisturbed, she and I, in the deep woods, sharing the whispered conversation of a highly-tempered steel blade and the gentle murmuring of a man who never learns to avoid jamming his fingers betwixt wood and saw handle.

To pun it up a bit, it has been the old saw of two's company—until last weekend.

On the better day that is supposed to produce the better deed, I wandered to a pulled stump in company of the canary yellow sweetie and a growing six-year-old red-headed helper. When I started my cut, he very gravely explained that two people sawing were better than one. He took hold of the other end of the bowed frame. The explanation of benefits from two men on a bucksaw became dubious as he twisted and bent the blade at each pull.

We co-operated competitively for a short time before I suggest some of the small stuff lying around should be taken down to the cabin. Having sawed for a full two minutes, he agreed, shouldered a light branch and went of singing: "Heigh-ho-heigh-ho, we'll work all day and then we'll play."

I was left alone again with my canary yellow sweetie, ruminating on the changes wrought by the years. It would be proper, it seemed to me, to teach the six-year-old red-headed helper the satisfactions of a workman alone in the woods with a Swedish bucksaw—part of the guided process of growing up for him. A little irreverently, I found myself quoting Sydney Carton's famous lines: "It is a far, far better thing that I do than I have every done, it is a far, far better rest that I go to than I have ever known."

But I question the propriety of bequeathing my aging inamorata, the canary yellow sweetie, to a grandson.

VOLUNTARY CURBS ON WAGES OPPOSED

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL-CIO president George Meany said Tuesday he will tell President Johnson the United States labor movement opposes voluntary wage restraints, but will accept wartime wage-price controls if the government considers them necessary.

"Voluntary controls just don't work," Meany told a news conference. Johnson's council of economic advisers has been suggesting a renewed attempt at voluntary wage-price restraints.

LONDON MARKET

Selling Forces Gold Hike Back

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold hit an all-time high in London today of $40.30 U.S. an ounce, then sellers drove it back to $40.10. Even this was 30 cents above Tuesday's price, and trading among bullion dealers was the heaviest since the free market in gold opened in London April 1.

The cause of the jump was not immediately clear.

At the usual morning price fixing session, the price started at $39.30, but heavy buying forced the level up to $40.30. Then sellers emerged to settle the price at $40.10.

This was $5.10 highr than the official price at which the U.S. buys and sells gold to the central banks.

Soaring prices could threaten the international two-tier system for gold arranged in Washington in March.

The two-tier agreement provides for the United States to continue selling gold to the central banks at $35 an ounce, while private dealers trade on a free market where the price is allowed to fluctuate.

Th pound closed Tuesday night at $2.39 U.S. This morning it moved up to $2.3909, and the market was the busiest in several days. Some speculators who sold sterling before devaluation six months ago were buying because of the current low level.

Th price of gold on the Paris market rose to the equivalent of $40.20 an ounce, the highest since March 27, but there were few sellers.

French dealers generally were unable to explain the sharp rise. One suggested it reflects both the increase in London and the scarcity of sellers.

The all-time high price in Paris was $44.36 March 15, when the French market was the only free market operating in Europe.

MARKETING EXPERT ON RECOGNITION

China Trade Would Jump

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal marketing expert says recognition of Communist China would help increase Canadian-Chinese trade and "add to the degree of goodwill" that already exists between the two countries.

Bruce Mallen, chairman of the marketing department at Sir George Williams University and chairman of the university's graduate studies department, announced at a news conference Tuesday he is planning a two-month visit to China.

He said he did not want to get involved in political matters.

Prof. Mallen, a distribution expert who holds a doctorate from New York University, said he would study China's system of distributing manufactured goods from factories to the consumer.

He is making the trip under a Ford Foundation grant and will carry out the study jointly with Barry M. Richman, Montreal-born professor and divisional chairman of the department of management at the graduate school of business, University of California.

Prof. Mallen leaves Montreal May 31 and will visit manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing establishments in Canton, Shanghai, Peking, Wuhan, Hangchow and Wusih.

"What we want to find out is how a pair of shoes from a Chinese factory gets on the feet of the Chinese worker," said Prof. Mallen.

Despite Communist arguments that marketing is an unnecessary and costly capitalist invention, he said, "marketing must go on" regardless of the system of government in power in a country.

Advertising must go on and there must be some means of mass communication in a country the size of China to inform the consumer of the products available to him.

A study will be made of the "marketing middlemen" to see what kinds of middlemen there are in China, and what are their functions.

Canadian businessmen trading with the Chinese must deal with about two dozen major export corporations, Prof. Mallen said, and this is a key barrier because of such problems as unreliability and delay.

He said he believes that the effects of the cultural revolution are subsiding and that economic and marketing experts who had been replaced by party officials are coming back to their jobs, resulting in a return to a more efficient economic system.

U.K. Railways Still in Red

LONDON (Reuters) — The state-owned British Railways ended last year £153,000,000 ($397,000,000) in the red, its annual report disclosed today. This was £9,000,000 ($49,400,000) more than the loss the previous year.

The board blamed a recession which cut down passengers, low production in heavy industries for which it acts as carrier, and the refusal of the government to authorize fare increases.

Neon Products Planning Another Merger

VANCOUVER (CP) — Neon Products of Canada Ltd. and the ANC group of companies have announced merger plans.

A joint statement by Wesley Van Dusen, president of ANC, and Jim Pattison, president of Neon Products, issued here today says merger has been agreed subject to approval by directors of both companies and regulatory agencies, and subject to an extraordinary meeting of Neon Products shareholders to increase the company's authorized share captial.

The merger will involve a straight transfer of about 315,000 common shares of Neon Products. The joint statement said the deal is expected to increase Neon earnings by more than 30 per cent. It estimated the market value of the transaction at $7,000,000.

The ANC group, with head office in Edmonton, includes Van Dee Investments Ltd., Van Dusen Bros. Ltd., Van Dusen Properties Ltd., Acme Novelty (B.C.) Ltd., Acme Amusements Ltd., and Sunco Distributors Ltd.

Neon Products recently acquired Northern Paint Ltd., and has announced plans for a merger with Overwaitea Ltd.

Car Production

OTTAWA (CP)—Motor vehicle production in Canada in April totalled 107,134 units, well up from the 84,444 produced in April, 1967, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

By the end of April, production for the year stood at 346,939 units—an increase over the 324,694 units a year earlier.

Drain on U.S. $ Slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The international drain on the U.S. dollar slowed to about $600,000,000 during the first quarter of this year, a three-fold improvement from the previous three months despite a deteriorating trade picture.

This was reported Tuesday by the commerce department.

The department said a strike at the New York port, the copper strike and increased imports of steel in anticipation of a possible steel strike this year may have reduced the trade surplus by as much as $500,000,000 in the first quarter.

Despite the improvement, the deficit in the U.S. balance of payments is still running at an unacceptable pace for the administration which hopes to cut $3,000,000,000 this year from last year's total deficit of $3,570,000,000.

At the first-quarter rate the deficit for 1968 as whole would come to $2,400,000,000.

The U.S. runs a deficit in its international payments when it spends more in other countries than foreigners spend in the United States.

The U.S. has run a deficit in 17 of the last 18 years.

The frain rose to $1,850,000,000

The drain rose to $1,850,000,000 year as a result of British devaluation of the pound. U.S. officials had earlier projected a substantial improvement for the first quarter of 1968 based on preliminary data from the country's banks which operate internationally.

The first-quarter deficit is the lowest since the $553,000,000 drain during the second quarter of last year.

Economy Praised

KELOWNA (CP) — Economic conditions in the Okanagan are better than in any province in Canada, possibly excepting Alberta, John Van Luven, Vancouver Stock Excahnge president, said Tuesday.

In a news conference after the VSE Board of Governors met here, Mr. Van Luven said the Okanagan area has "great impact" on the stock exchange.

Mr. Van Luven termed a five per cent additional tax on mining and forestry imposed earlier this year by the provincial government "a completely regressive step."

He said small operators need every incentive possible and stated he was against a capital gains tax when a country is developing.

Taking part in the discussion were Mr. Van Luven, VSE chairman George Tapp and Bruce Smith, a Kelowna director of the Vancouver exchange. It is the second time VSE directors have met outside Vancouver.

Mr. Smith said Peachland would experience a boom because of Brenda Mines Ltd. development.

Real Estate Sales

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dollar volume of real estate sales through the multiple listing service of the Greater Vancouver Real Estate Board increased nearly 50 per cent in April to a record $15,500,000 from $10,300,000 a year ago, it has been reported.

The number of transactions climbed 28 per cent from 588 to 757.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted today at 1.08¼ for cheques, $1.08⅜ for cash and $1.05⅝ for silver. Sales were $1.07½ for cheques, $1.07⅝ for cash and $1.05⅝ for silver.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was down 1/32 at $1.07 13/16. Pound sterling was up 1/16 at $2.57⅝.

NEW YORK (CP) — The Canadian dollar unchanged at 92 49/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling up 7/64 at $2.39 7/64.

Slugging by Athletics Gets Catfish Off Hook

Hunter Staggers to Win; Indians Extend Win Skein

By The Associated Press

Oakland pitcher Catfish Hunter and Cleveland manager Alvin Dark were far from perfect Tuesday night. But, though neither was around at the finish, their respective ball games had the perfect endings.

In his first appearance since his perfect game against Minnesota last week, Hunter was jolted for five runs in the first inning but staggered to victory as the Athletics outslugged the Twins 13-8.

Dark was thrown out by umpire Bill Valentine for protesting two called balls as the sizzling Indians beat New York Yankees 4-2 for their fifth straight victory and 11th in the last 12 games.

Cleveland took over undisputed possession of second place in the American League when Baltimore bowed to league-leading Detroit 4-0. It was the Orioles' seventh straight setback following an eight-game winning streak.

In other action, Boston edged Washington 5-4 in 10 innings and Chicago nipped California 7-6 on Duane Josephson's seventh-inning homer.

Hunter was lifted after allowing the Twins eight runs and the same number of hits, including four homers, in six innings. But he got credit for the victory as the As overcame a 5-0 Minnesota lead.

Rod Carew belted Hunter's second pitch over the fence and Tony Oliva and Rich Rollins added two-run homers before the first inning was over.

"After those three homers I think I woke up," Hunter said. "I think I was just trying to get the ball too close to the plate. But I got the win and that's all that really counts. My goal is to win 20 games and I'll take them that way (the perfect game) or this."

Alvin's Words 'Shocked' Umpire

The As forged ahead with six runs in the fourth inning, highlighted by Bert Campanaris' two-run triple and Jim Pagliaroni's two-run double.

Two errors by Yankee shortstop Gere Michael helped the Indians push across the tying and winning runs in the seventh inning. Dark was ejected an inning later when he challenged two calls by Valentine on relief pitcher Eddie Fisher.

"Dark charged on the field and I was shocked at the language he used," Valentine related. "He's supposed to be an elder in his church. He suggested there had not been a marriage in my family for three generations. He questioned my moral fibre. He said my supper had not been fully digested."

Willie Horton drove in three runs with a pair of homers and Earl Wilson pitched a four-hitter as Detroit drubbed Baltimore. The Tigers have a two-game lead over Cleveland.

Boston trailed Washington 4-0 as Fank Howard socked two homers and Ron Hansen hit one.

But Ken Harrelson hit a two-run homer in the sixth and the Red Sox tied it with two more in the seventh. They won it in the 10th on a bases-loaded throwing error by Washington catcher Paul Casanova.

Howard, who homered in his last two at-bats Sunday, made it three in a row. But the 6-foot-7 giant missed his chance for a record-tying fourth straight homer when he hit into a force play his next trip. He came back his next time up with his 11th homer of the season.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH

(The Washington Post)

BALTIMORE, Md. — Not for the whole world would Chuck Lang, the director of racing at Pimlico, which has a Preakness coming up, suggest that the holiness of the Kentucky Derby has been defiled by the way things are run down there. After all, Churchill Downs, Pimlico and Belmont are brother tracks under the triple crown, and must voice no disrespect for each other.

"It is just odd," said Lang, "that down at Churchill they take away the Derby purse from a horse that flunked his urine analysis test and give it to the owners of a colt that never was asked to take the test." Thus did he choose to comment on the Dancer's Image-Forward Pass contretempe on the afternoon of May 4.

Pimlico's racing director indicated he could find it in his heart to be forgiving of the Churchill Downs people because, after all, their race was only 94 years old, and they would learn with more experience. Lang's Preakness is an older race by two years, and the first Belmont Stakes was run eight years before the first Derby.

●

The fact is that the Pimlico and Belmont people have never been wholly content with a sort of lofty attitude the Kentucky people have adopted under the triple crown brotherhood. A couple of years ago, for instance, Churchill Downs snooted a request for a common nomination form for the Derby-Preakness-Belmont.

Lang said "It was our idea, Pimlico's and the Belmont's, that everybody's interests would best be served if the triple crown events were grouped in one nomination blank instead of bothering the owners with separate papers. Churchill turned it down." That is why a Derby colt not originally entered in the other triple crown races must pay a supplementary fee of $10,000 in the Preakness and $5,000 to get into the Belmont, instead of being an automatic triple crown entry.

The happenstance that it was a Kentucky-bred, Forward Pass, which profited from the disqualification of a Maryland-bred could please the Kentucky breeding industry, which had begun to feel the competition of Maryland and Florida farms and now pays for large billboards that advertise "seventy-four per cent of Kentucky Derby winners are bred in Kentucky."

No matter what the decision of the fate of Dancer's Image's trainer, Lou Cavalaris, in the hearing on the drugging that is expected to end today in Kentucky, Lang is certain the colt will go in the Preakness. And perhaps for the greater glory of the Maryland breeding industry.

●

It was widely reported that Peter Fuller, the owner of Dancer's Image, would not consent to running the colt in the Preakness if Kentucky handed down a suspension to Cavalaris. "They are a team, horse and trainer," Fuller said, showing his loyalty to Cavalaris.

"But you know how those things are," Lang said. "Even if Kentucky sets Cavalaris down for sixty days, I think Dancer's Image will go in the Preakness." He sees Cavalaris in the role of the unselfish one, strumming a hearts-and-flowers plea to owner Fuller that the colt not be deprived of a chance to win the Preakness. The script would call for Cavalaris to step aside in a personal sacrifice.

It's going to be the richest Preakness since the beginning of the whole thing in 1873. No fewer than 14 colts are now entered, with the total purse soaring above $200,000.

It's the biggest Preakness field since 18 went to the post in 1928, and because the turns are sharper than those in the Derby, the best broken field runners among the 14 entries could have an advantage. Dancer's Image, if he goes, could find it a deal tougher beating Forward Pass in the Preakness than in the Derby.

●

Not only will the distance, shorter than the Derby by a sixteenth of a mile, be more to the liking of Forward Pass, but this time he can make his own pace. The blazing 1:09⅘ for the first six furlongs at Churchill, the fastest Derby three-quarters in history, found Forward Pass trying to keep up and took something out of him in the stretch.

Those Derby pace setters, Kentucky Sherry and Captain's Gig are passing up the Preakness. The Kentucky Sherry stable was psyched somewhat by the $10,000 supplementary entry fee, and Captain Gig's trainer candidly said he didn't think his colt was up to another tough race right away. Forward Pass may thus cut out a slower pace for himself, and when, and if, looked in the eye by a stretch runner in the last sixteenth, simply continue on his merry way to the Preakness purse.

Turner Gives Colony Edge to Beat Lions

Pitcher Rod Turner gave Colony Inn the edge needed for a 4-2 win over Red Lion Inn Tuesday at Central Park in the Victoria Senior Men's Softball League.

Turner spaced six hits in the first five innings, allowing Colony to take a 4-0 lead before Lions could score.

Roy St. Dennis cut this margin to three runs by doubling in Jack Lusk in the sixth inning. Bob Labelle saved Turner's win when he came on to halt a Lion rally in the seventh.

Colony's two first-inning runs came from a triple by Steve Bishop, a single by Len Mowat, a hit batter and a passed ball.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

Milwaukee Responds To Baseball Return

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Major league baseball returns to this city tonight after an absence of nearly three years, and the fans are responding.

Chicago White Sox, last in the American League, meet California Angels in the first nine regular season games the Sox plan to play here this year.

They played two exhibition games here earlier in the season.

The advance sale has approached 20,000 tickets—almost double the largest crowd the White Sox have drawn so far this season in Chicago.

Mild weather could bring out more than 30,000.

The game will be the first in Milwaukee to count in the major league standings since September, 1965, when the Braves ended a stay of 13 seasons at County Stadium and headed for Atlanta.

The Braves averaged better than 1,000,000 in attendance each year during their Milwaukee stay, which ended in bitter recriminations and a costly anti-trust suit won by the National League.

THAW DEVELOPS

Now there are signs of a thaw in the once icy relationship between the city and baseball owners.

There are even recurring rumors that the White Sox would like to shift their franchise here. Milwaukee also is considered a strong contender for one of two expansion franchises in the National League.

But the White Sox insist they intend to remain in Chicago.

Milwaukee Brewers Inc., an organization of businessmen seeking a National League expansion franchise, say they want a locally-owned team. That seemingly would exclude the White Sox.

The organization is sponsoring the White Sox games here. It hopes to demonstrate by fan response that Milwaukee is a strong baseball city and that more than novelty was responsible for the over-all success of the Braves here.

During the Braves' glory days in Milwaukee, attendance topped the 2,000,000 mark for four successive seasons.

Mt. Douglas Athletes Continue Winning Pace

Mount Douglas again led in placing starters in "A" flight finals of the inter-high school track and field meet scheduled to start in Centennial Stadium at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Defending champion Oak Bay High, Claremont and Victoria High also continued to pile up entries during qualifying heats Tuesday at Victoria High.

Mt. Douglas placed 15 starters for a total of 30 entries in "A" events. Victoria is next with 26, Oak Bay has 23 and Claremont placed 20 entries.

Claremont, runnerup in two previous years, follows behind by one point the over-all total Oak Bay entry of 48, which is five more than Mt. Douglas.

LACK OF SPRINTERS

Oak Bay's toughest competition in the relays might come from Mt. Douglas. Both placed three teams in the "A" flight of the boys' and girls' 4x110-yard heats and each had one in the "B". Victoria, although disqualified in the "B" flight also placed three teams in the "A" chases.

Claremont has a lack of sprinters which worries coach Gerry Montgomery. They could mean the difference between winning and losing. His contingent placed only one team in the "A" sprint relays and three in the "B" finals during Tuesday's qualifying runs.

RECORD EFFORT

Anne Langdale of Mt. Douglas continued to shine among individual performers. She ran the 440-yard dash in 58.9 seconds, knocking .6 seconds off the mark set last year by Oak Bay's Colleen Davie.

Miss Langdale was also the anchor runner of the school's "A" relay team which had the top qualifying time of 52.3 despite some poor passing.

Dave Weicker of Oak Bay turned in the fine time of 4:32 in winning the mile event in "A" flight while Mount Douglas ace Greg Fraser took the long jump with a leap over 21 feet.

Owners Fail to Settle Question of Overtime

SEATTLE (AP) — Western Hockey League owners wound up a two-day meeting Tuesday without making a decision on a controversial sudden-death overtime question.

Al Leader, WHL president, said after two hours of debate it was decided to put off a final decision until September.

"The owners decided to go home and feel the pulse of their fans and take up the matter again at our Sept. 30 meeting," Leader said.

Several votes were taken and when they always ended in a tie, Leader said, with Seattle, San Diego and Denver favoring overtime and Phoenix, Portland and Vancouver against the sudden-death session.

Leader said there was mixed feeling over continuing the interlocking schedule with the American Hockey League. No action will be taken until officials of the two circuits meet in Montreal, June 10.

Junior Finalists Predict Blow-Up

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The principals in this year's Memorial Cup final are predicting a blow-up at the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association next week.

The Ontario Hockey Association is expected to forward a resolution asking that the age limit for junior hockey players be increased to 21 as of Dec. 31 each year.

The resolution will be in direct opposition to the CAHA agreement with the National Hockey League that the junior limit be reduced to 19 as of Dec. 31.

The present limit is 19 as of May 31 and the CAHA-NHL agreement, reached two years ago, is scheduled to go into effect in June.

"If the agreement goes into effect it will knock 60 per cent of the players in Canada out of junior hockey," says Red Hunter, president of the Western Canada Junior Hockey Association.

Hunter is here for the best-of-seven Canadian junior hockey championship between Niagara Falls Flyers of the OHA Junior A Series and Estevan Bruins of the WCJHA.

The Flyers lead the series 3-1 with the fifth game scheduled tonight.

The CAHA meeting is scheduled for Windsor Monday to Thursday, "and there could be a real battle," says Hunter.

"Campbell (president Clarence Campbell of the NHL) says that if the CAHA goes along with the resolution the NHL will back out of its previous agreement."

The NHL also agreed to turn over $600,000 annually to the CAHA to finance amateur teams in return for the reduction in age limits. The agreement did away with individual team sponsorship by professional hockey clubs.

"Actually, I would like to pull right out of the CAHA," says Scotty Munro, general manager of the Estevan club.

"It's whole format is wrong. I know we need a governing body for junior hockey in Canada but the CAHA isn't qualified to handle the job."

TEAM FREE TO OPERATE NEXT SEASON

OWNERS DON'T PLAN TO APPLY FOR MOVE

Seals Pay Debt to League . . . Will Remain in Oakland

MONTREAL (CP) — Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League's West Division will be back next season operating from the same old stand in the U.S. West Coast city.

The Seals, in financial difficulties throughout their first season in the league, have settled their money problems with the league and will operate under the current owners next season in Oakland.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said Tuesday the approximate amount of $680,000 the Seals owed the league had been paid. Deadline for payment was May 15.

He said that no application has been made by Oakland governor Barend Van Gerbig to move the franchise to another location—presumably Vancouver.

"The matter has settled itself insofar as the financial situation is concerned," Campbell said, prior to leaving for a governors' meeting scheduled later in the week for New York.

"And no application has been made to move the franchise," he added.

The $680,000 was the final payment of the $2,000,000 entry fee the Seals paid in order to join five other clubs to form the expansion division for the 1967-68 season. Had the debt been forfeited, the franchise and the players' contracts would have reverted to league ownership.

"As of now Oakland is free to operate next season," Campbell said.

"They have said they will not apply to move the franchise at this time."

Although Campbell would not confirm it, it is believed the debt was paid by a loan from Labatt Breweries Ltd., which had sought to buy the franchise and move the club to Vancouver.

Since no application to shift the club has been included on the New York agenda, the next opportunity would be the NHL annual meetings here in June.

However, Campbell said that by that time the schedule for next season will have been prepared and approved and there is "no way (Oakland) can be moved."

Oakland, in its first year of operation, operated as a last-place club with scanty attendance. Pittsburgh Penguins, who also finished out of the playoffs, recently re-organized their financial structure.

The Oakland and Pittsburgh clubs are the only clubs in the new division which do not own their own arenas.

Campbell said the New York meetings will deal with next season's expanded schedule of 76 games for each club. In the season just ended, each expansion club met the "old division" teams four times, twice on the road and twice on their home rinks.

If the move to 76 games is approved, it would mean West Division clubs would meet each East Division opponent six times—three at home and three on the road.

Yet to be settled is a firm date for conclusion of next season's schedule.

Tentative plans have the season winding up either March 30 or April 6, which means the Stanley Cup playoffs could extend beyond May 20.

This year's season ended May 11, seven months to the day after it started.

Kentucky Derby Probe Heading Toward Finish

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The climax of the 1968 Kentucky Derby, 11 days late, appeared near at hand today as a stewards hearing into the disqualification of Dancer's Image as the winner neared its close.

The three Churchill Downs stewards, racing's judge and jury, pondered more than 29 hours of testimony from a parade of eight witnesses, with Lou Cavalaris, trainer of Dancer's Image, due back today from a flying trip to work his horse in Baltimore.

Only one day remained before entries were due to Saturday's Preakness and the stewards made it known they wanted to finish the hearing so the colt's name could be dropped into the Pimlico entry box. Involved is an illegal administration of a pain-killer to Dancer's Image.

Kentucky racing rules, honored by all other states, prevent entry of Dancer's Image in any race until the matter here is closed.

CONTINUES TODAY

Tuesday's session of the hearing extended into the early hours today, finally concluding at 2:06 a.m., more than 17 hours after it had begun. But today's session was set to begin at 9 a.m.

The eight witnesses who testified before the stewards were: Peter Fuller, owner of Dancer's Image; Cavalaris, the man whose reputation is at stake in the hearing; Robert Barnard, assistant trainer of Dancer's Image, and Russell Parchems, the horse's groom.

Also, Dr. Alex Harthill, a veterinarian; Kenneth Smith, a chemist, Doug Davis, an owner-trainer, and Dr. Charles Jarboe, an associate professor of pharmacology at the University of Louisville school of medicine.

It was a report by Smith which first brought to the attention of the stewards the presence of phenylbutazone in Dancer's Image's urine. That report in turn led to the disqualification of the grey colt and the placing of runner-up Forward Pass in first place.

GUARD HEARINGS

Smith testified for more than six hours in the closed and heavily guarded hearing room.

Harthill was named by Cavalaris as the man who helped administer two tablets of phenylbutazone to Dancer's Image on April 28, six days before the race and more than twice the time believed needed for the medicine to have worn off.

Jarboe was the final witness to testify in the Tuesday session and his appearance before the stewards was brief.

Other participants in the hearing could be glimpsed from time to time through the windows of an anteroom as the long hours of testimony moved on.

There were four attorneys—Chris Duval representing Smith; Arthur Grafton and Ned Bonnie for Fuller, Cavalaris, Barnard and Parchens, and Millard Cox representing Harthill and Davis.

DID 'IMAGE' GET AZIUM BEFORE RACE?

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that Dancer's Image received azium, a pain-killing drug, two days before the Kentucky Derby according to testimony heard by stewards in Louisville Monday.

The story says informal sources relate Lou Cavalaris, trainer of Dancer's Image and a resident of Toronto, told stewards investigating the colt's disqualification that Dr. Alex Harthill gave the horse a shot of azium on the Thursday before the race.

Asked if he was certain the medicament was azium, Cavalaris said "I hope so."

Azium is used to treat arthritis and rheumatism and its use is not forbidden under the rules of racing. It has anti-inflammatory action similar to phenylbutzone, the illegal drug, which appeared in a urinalysis of Dancer's Image after the Derby.

SKI COACH NAMED

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Bill Marolt, 24, a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic alpine team, has been named ski coach at the University of Colorado.

RETURNING to action with Victoria Shamrocks tonight will be fleet forward Nirmal Dillon, who missed first two games played by club in National Lacrosse Association season. Dillon, who had delayed return since he was not certain he would be in Victoria during season, is slated to work with Rocks tonight against Adanacs in first league game played at Portland.

Financial Crisis in Football

By DAVE BRADY
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Fears of a financial crisis have prompted National Football League teams to declare a virtual moratorium on signings of veterans, Dave Slattery of the Washington Redskins' front office has announced in a surprising development.

"We are worried about the demands of the Players' Association," Slattery, executive assistant to club president Edward Bennett Williams, said as the NFL players association was presenting its demands to representatives of the clubowners in Chicago.

"We ordinarily would have about 50 per cent of our veterans signed at this time of the year, but with the players asking for a $5,000,000 contribution to the pension fund, each of the 16 clubs would have to pay $300,000. That would put a third of the clubs in the red."

The NFL now contributes $1,800,000 annually to the pension fund, or $112,500 dollars per club.

Slattery pointed out that if the players adhere to their demand for $500 pay for an exhibition game, the cost to a club would be as much as $30,000 for early games when the teams carry as many as 60 players. He noted that the guarantees for playing exhibitions in Tampa, Fla., and Raleigh, N.C., this year will be less than $30,000 each, not to mention plane fares, meals and hotel costs.

Slattery illustrated how the players' demand for a minimum salary of $15,000 could affect the individual negotiations of big name veterans. He said the lowest paid Redskin brought a $13,000 contract from another club, when traded. To upgrade such players, the total amount involved would have to come from funds such earmarked for others deserving raises, he insisted.

Slattery said the overall payroll can hardly be increased because there can be no new revenue at D.C. Stadium, which has been sold out for several years, or from the league television contract, which will pay the same for the next two seasons. NFL clubs played to 88.4 per cent capacity last season.

General manager-coach Otto Graham said some players' salaries will be cut this year. He said some were before last season.

Running back A. D. Whitfield was in the Redskins' office, eager to sign a contract. But Slattery said he advised him to wait a couple of weeks because he might be able to offer him more money if the Players' Association retreats from some of its demands.

Slattery said the association is asking that meal money on the road be increased from 10 to 15 dollars a day. He said that the Redskins buy the meals instead, as provided for at present, but that the association now wants the cash paid in addition to the free meals.

He pointed out that the Redskins pay $10 a day in cash and $12 for lodging during the three weeks between the time training camp breaks and the opening game of the regular season, which will amount to nearly $2,000 a day.

He said NFL clubs are continuing to sign rookies, mostly lower draft picks.

AT SAANICH INLET

Derby Campaign Begins Saturday

Planning to work in a bit of salmon fishing with your summer holidays?

The Victoria - Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association may have a derby date that fits in with your plans.

Action on the summer round of VSIAA fishing contests starts Saturday with the opening of the 10-week Qualifying Club Derby. This one carries weekly trophies for anglers entering the largest salmon, plus numerous hidden-weight prizes. All fishermen entering salmon of five pounds or more will qualify for the big derby fish-off on Aug. 18.

In order to compete, anglers must possess a valid 1968 VSIAA membership ($2) and one derby entry ticket ($1) must be surrendered with each fish weighed in. Contestants may enter as many fish as they wish to continue bids for weekly awards.

MEMBERSHIP DERBY

The same membership ticket makes fishing addicts eligible to compete in the annual Membership Derby on May 26, when club trophies and a flock of other prizes will be up for grabs in fishing from dawn until 2 p.m.

Members of the Chinook Club of the VSIAA get into the act with their own derby on June 9. They will be shooting for the Dr. Hugh Clarke Sportsmen's Trophy and will require $1 entry ducats.

Chinooks will also be dunking lures this Sunday, starting at dawn in the second of their summer series of sunburn derbies.

For juniors, the big derby day is July 14. All youngsters who have not reached the age of 17 on derby day are invited to join the chase for fishing prizes and to share the free ice cream and soft drinks that will be available. However, club trophies may be won only by VSIAA junior members.

While those competitions are being staged, the club will continue its series of monthly competitions for trophies and prizes, while making plans to hold the annual VSIAA Executive and Coho-Spring derbies later in the year.

Tickets are available at all Saanich Inlet boathouses.

LEADING GOLF WINNER HAS DATE WITH ARMY

CLEVELAND (AP)—Tom Weiskopf, 25, leading money-winner on the United States Professional Golfers' Association tour this year, has been ordered to report Friday for a United States Army physical.

Weiskopf received his draft notice last week on the eve of the Greater New Orleans tournament, in which George Archer collected the $20,000 first prize to consolidate his hold on third place among PGA money-winners.

Archer's total purses this year are $77,632.

Weiskopf, who finished third at New Orleans, kept his lead with total winnings of $85,552. Weiskopf is trailed by Billy Casper at $78,868.

Totals released Monday by the PGA were the first to drop distinctions between official and unofficial winnings, ranking players by their total winnings whether or not in PGA-sanctioned tourneys.

Others on the list: Miller Barber, $63,568; George Knudson, $57,230; Don January, $51,163; Arnold Palmer, $50,752; Kermit Zarley, $50,518; Tony Jacklin, $49,170, and Gardner Dickinson, $48,338.

Senior League Back in Action

The Senior Amateur Baseball League will continue in the city although the clubs will be unable to use Royal Athletic Park for another full season.

With financial support from the Victoria Baseball Association, Saanich has provided a backstop, playing field and dugouts on the north field at Layritz Park.

Under president Don Jessop, the league presents four new managers — Les Brice, Mike McAvoy, Al Heath and Barry Cosier. Lake Cowichan is back in the fold to make up a fifth team. Four favorites from last year — Kings, Transport, Rawlings and Greaves will be returning.

All Saturday games will be played at Topaz Park or in Cowichan Park when Cowichan is playing at home.

In tonight's opener, Transport faces Rawlings. On Thursday, Kings play Greaves. Both games are at Layritz Park, starting at 6:45.

Folley Fights Rugged Draw

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Al Jones, giant Miami heavyweight, fought to a bloody draw Tuesday night with veteran Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz.

The six-foot-six Jones pressed the action throughout the 10-round bout, but caught heavy leather whenever he got in close. Behind on points going into the 10th, Jones slammed a hard, straight left to Folley's nose and won the round.

Falcons Settle Fuss Over Dues

TORONTO (CP) — The four warring factions in Toronto's tangled soccer scene reached agreement Tuesday night on the official recognition of Toronto Falcons by the Canadian Soccer Football Association.

The CSFA, Toronto City soccer club, the Falcons and the North American Soccer League reached the settlement at a Toronto meeting of the league's executive committee.

The dispute started when the Falcons joined the new North American League. The CSFA claimed the Falcons should pay membership dues because they would be playing in Canada.

But the Falcons said they took over Toronto City's franchise when the United Soccer Association merged with the National Professional Soccer League to become the NASL. Because Toronto City paid membership dues, the Falcons said they were exempt.

The dispute came to a head last Saturday when CSFA president Bill Simpson warned the Falcons he would ask FIFA, soccer's world governing body, for disciplinary action if the Toronto team played against New York of the NASL.

LIGHTS BOOST CROWD

Diamond Angered By Racing Charge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A shareholder's charge that some horses in races at Exhibition Park race track were not "out to win" was hotly denied by the president of British Columbia Turf Ltd. at its annual meeting Tuesday.

"I'm glad you made that statement here at a shareholders meeting and not some other place," Jack Diamond told the shareholder, "or I would throw you off the race track."

The unidentified shareholder had said that every horse in races at the Vancouver race track wasn't out to win and claimed that some jockeys use the races to "prep" their horses.

Mr. Diamond replied: "You don't know what you're talking about." he said horses at Exhibition Park run as well as anywhere else in the world, but they could not all win.

In the year ended Dec. 31, in 1967, the company had a net profit of $110,866, compared with $112,210 in 1966. Total income last year was $1,783,751 against $1,767,676 for the previous year.

Mr. Diamond reported that the installation of lights at the track this year has given a 30 per cent boost to attendance on weekday meets. Attendance at Saturday races was about the same as last year, he said.

GOOD GOAL PRODUCTION

Soccer Loop Stresses Offence

POINT SYSTEM CRITICIZED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The North American Soccer League produces more goals per game than any major soccer league in the world.

Some say it's because of a unique scoring system and others blame offensive minded coaches.

In the first 50 contests this season, the 17 NASL teams scored a total of 179 goals, 3.58 per game.

England averaged 3.21 goals a game last year, Italy 2.11, Russia 2.14, West Germany 2.98, and France 2.64.

The league scoring system gives teams six points for a victory, three for a tie, and one for each goal scored up to three in a game.

Coaches also are stressing the offence rather than defence to gain more points for standings and to lure more customers.

Opponents of the point system say it is possible for a team with a better won-lost record to finish behind a team which merely scores a lot of goals but has a poor defense. They claim winning is more important than the number of goals scored.

A team that loses 4-3 can earn three points, the same as a team playing a 0-0 tie.

Consequently, the NASL standings appear confusing.

In the Lakes Division, standings show Chicago, with one victory, three losses and four ties, ahead of Detroit, 3-3-0. Chicago has accumulated 30 points to Detroit's 27.

Chicago has scored 13 goals but allowed 16. Detroit has allowed only 10 but had scored only 12.

Skilled Whites in Demand As Rhodesia Jobs Expand

SALISBURY (AP) — Rhodesia plans to increase its white population of 230,000 by 10,000 newcomers this year, yet its massive black labor force is suffering from unemployment.

International trade and economic sanctions, aimed at crushing the white-ruling government of Prime Minister Ian Smith and benefitting Rhodesias 4,300,000 Africans, are responsible for this twist.

The economic restrictions imposed by other countries have forced Rhodesia to diversity industries. Many essential goods, once imported, now are locally manufactured. This opens new jobs for skilled white workers.

British European and North American white workers are being sought.

A government spokesman says the target figure is more than double the 1967 inflow of 4,142 immigrants. In the first two months of this year a record 2,000 residence permits were issued to newcomers.

Even South Africa is losing white workers to Rhodesia. During January and February, 716 white South Africans crossed into Rhodesia to work and live while 376 went the other way, back home.

While Rhodesian whites continue to enjoy a reasonably high standard of living, demands for black labor have dropped in many agricultural areas.

Hundreds of tobacco farmers have quit or turned to less labor-requiring crops. Drought has ravaged thousands of acres, adding to unemployment.

Deputy Prime Minister John Wrathall said: "There is little difficulty finding employment for most Europeans of school-leaving age. The African however, by virtue is unlikely to ease in the future."

African employment reached its peak of 640,000 in 1960. By 1966, under the impact of the sanctions, it dropped to 615,000. In 1967 another 10,000 were jobless.

It is difficult to estimate unemployment among Africans because some 60 per cent of the 4,300,000 live in tribal areas where subsistence farming is a traditional way of life.

For those Africans who obtain even primary education, tribal areas offer little attraction. A drift to the urban areas is growing and the abundance of blacks searching for jobs swells the army or urban unemployed.

Commentator Calls TV Nets Second Rate

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian television viewer is "all too often" offered a choice between "two second-rate commercial networks" during peak viewing hours, Stanley Burke, CBC television news commentator, said here.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Club of Montreal, Mr. Burke called for "fundamental re-thinking" of Canadian broadcasting.

He said his own network has a "commercially-minded mentality" because Parliament wants it that way. The CBC is a Crown corporation while its rival, the CTV, is privately owned and operated.

'FIND OUT FIRST'

"In radio, the CBC are years behind the times. It is still trying to offer balanced programming—something for every one at a time when radio is becoming more and more specialized."

Mr. Burke said Canada should hold an international conference on educational television to find out as much as possible about the subject before moving into the field.

He warned that the absence of a sound educational television policy might lead to 12 television networks.

"Two of them would be commercial and 10 provincial educational systems, and perhaps all of them second rate. We simply can't afford it."

Mr. Burke said the electronic age will see the "global village" of communication prophesied by Marshall McLuhan but that the printed media are "essential to the functioning of our system."

'Soak Poor, Absolve Rich' Grit Policy Says Douglas

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, says Canada is the only country in the western world without a capital gains tax.

Mr. Douglas Tuesday night called for implementation of the Carter royal commission report on the Canadian tax structure.

Mr. Douglas, on a tour of interior British Columbia, was speaking to about 600 persons at the Kootenay community of Castlegar.

He said the Liberal government's tax policy is "soak the poor and absolve the rich," putting a burden on lower and middle income groups while $5,000,000,000 of income in 1964 had little or no tax paid on it.

He attacked "freeloaders in our society, insurance companies, banks, mining companies, oil companies and speculators who don't pay their share of tax" and "the fiscal piracy of stock options."

If the Carter report were implemented, more than 3,000,000 would pay at least 15 per cent less tax, he said.

"But the Liberals repudiated the report and the Conservatives are side-stepping the whole issue," Mr. Douglas said.

Seven students from Selkirk Regional College at Castlegar demonstated outside the school where he spoke. They carried a grey coffin and placards reading "Vote NDP, bury Canadian labor unions."

They were protesting a merger of the Canadian Mine Mill Workers Union with the United Steelworkers of America.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Douglas said in Cranbrook that a federal loan grant fund should be established to help industry and municipalities combat causes of water and air pollution.

He said amendments to the Criminal Code—"a big stick as a last resort"—and heavy fines could be used, but he called for a "more reasonable approach."

"It's not enough to pass a law saying that a firm can be fined $10,000 a day for polluting a stream if the cost of correcting it is beyond their resources," he said. "They might need a loan."

Mr. Douglas said at Trail, before driving to nearby Castlegar, that trade unions are becoming aroused over "restrictive labor legislation."

"Many trade unionists who took it for granted they had the right to strike and the right to picket find they don't have these rights at all. Now, they find that by law this can be taken away. It ras shaken people."

He mentioned federal, Newfoundland and Saskatchewan legislation and B.C.'s Bill 33, which provides for compulsory arbitration in some strikes during an attack on "the systematic attempt to destroy the processes of collective bargaining."

PEKING UNIVERSITY 'LIKE BATTLEFIELD'

HONG KONG (AP)—Peking University has been turned into a battlefield by students — armed with spears, daggers, clubs and catapults — who are fighting for control of the university, the Hong Kong Star reports in a story attributed to "sources inside China".

The English-language newspaper reports that two factions, the New Peking University Committee and the Peking University Chingkang-sham group, are fighting for control of the student body which in effect controls the university.

"The two factions have turned their hostels into fortresses and the whole hostel area gives the impression of a state of siege," the Star reports.

ABOUT SEX

Schools Want Intimacies

HAMBURG (Reuters)—West German youths want their schools to deal more openly with the subject of sex—even to making a room available for their first practical experience.

Their call for a liberal approach to sex coincides with an onslaught on the old taboos in popular magazines and movies. The demands call more for an accent on an instructive approach than on promiscuity.

Parents find themselves in a dilemma—what to say and what not to say to their children about sex. One magazine published here believed parents needed some help and offered intimate techniques about making love.

To make sure their children could not read the material, the magazine concealed the intimate reports in uncut pages.

A movie describing every detail of a baby's birth, Helga, was so uncompromising that movie theatres throughout the country had to deal with the problem of fainting spectators —nearly all of them men.

But in most West German schools, conservatism still holds sway. Parents still find it difficult to talk to their children about the mysteries of sex and tend to underestimate the speed with which their offspring find out for themselves.

Contact, the magazine of a Hamburg secondary school, said in one issue: "Sex should no longer be taboo at school because some 50 per cent of the 16-year-olds have already had sexual experience."

The school children demand that thorough and detailed sex education be made a regular subject in their curriculum.

More radical youngsters suggested that schools should make available a room for their first practical experience.

Congo Coup Fails

BRAZZAVILLE (Reuters)—A group of "foreign mercenaries" failed Monday night in an attempt to overthrow the Congo Republic government of President Alphonse Massamba-Debat, a government announcement said Tuesday.

TSOLUM-PUNTLEDGE WATERWAY

Landowners Want Controls

A $300,000 plan to stop flood and erosion control of the Tsolum River in Courtenay was unveiled Tuesday in a preliminary report by the provincial government.

The report is the result of a survey done by the B.C. Water Resources Service under A. R. D. Robertson and was requested by the Tsolum River committee, a group of land owners on the river bank.

The Tsolum River carries the runoff from the north-easterly slopes of the Forbidden Plateau area and drains in a south-easterly direction towards Courtenay where it joins the Puntledge River.

The report outlines river bank erosion as the most serious problem in the Tsolum River valley. Air photographs indicate actual loss of land of about 12 acres in 10 years.

Recommended is construction of bank protection against a flood plus a dam at Wolf Lake to provide storage for summer irrigation.

Cost would be $285,500.

Wolf Lake is located in the Tsolum watershed and drains into the river by way of Headquarters Creek.

The report calls for financial assistance for the project under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act.

With federal and provincial governments underwriting one-third of the approved costs, responsibility of the local area would amount to $95,000 plus annual operating expenses estimated at less than $20,000.

Herbert Hurford of Courtenay, chairman of the Tsolum River committee, said the objective of the group is to find a solution to flood and erosion. Irrigation, recreation, fishery enhancement and pollution control are other problems.

Mr. Hurford, also said the project will augment both sport and commercial fishing.

The report lists two other alternative solutions. Cost of these alternatives range from $275,000 to just over $300,000.

Mr Hurford said the next step would be an approach to the fisheries department as they had the most to gain from the project.

He said Black Creek, just outside the Tsolum watershed, was one of the best Coho fishing spots on the Island but is dry in the summer.

Communists Enter

NEW YORK (AP)—The Communist party of the United States has announced that it would enter candidates for president and vice-president this November for the first time since 1940. Henry Winston, national party chairman, said the party's candidates would be selected at a special convention during the July 4 weekend.

FAKE GUARDS GET $198,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Two men posing as uniformed Wells Fargo armored car guards convinced a teller at a Brooklyn bank they were legitimate and made off with $198,000 Tuesday, police said.

The two took a cloth bag with the money from a First National City Bank branch.

Open School Methods Studied

Five Greater Victoria school teachers are starting to study advanced teaching methods — such as upgrading and individualized instruction — which will be introduced here next fall.

The teachers' group, headed by principal John Robertson of North Ward School, will observe and take part in open-area classes at Chartwell Elementary School in West Vancouver.

The open area of the school has no fixed walls. It can be used by a number of small groups or one big assembly.

Blanshard Elementary, which will replace the old North Ward school in September, will be the first Greater Victoria school to experiment with an open area. All the teachers on the Chartwell trip will teach at Blanshard next year.

The Victoria group consists of Mrs. Freda Knott of North Ward, Peter Hayless and Mrs. Frieda Dickson of Strawberry Vale, and Ruth Donaldson of Oaklands in addition to Mr. Robertson.

From May 21 to 30, Mr. Robertson will tour northern B.C. school districts accompanied by John Hayes, principal of Frank Hobbs elementary, and Roy Lister, supervisor of intermediate instruction for the school district.

They will visit Vanderhoof, Fraser Lake, Smithers and other points.

MUSEUM PIECES

Quiet Thrill To Skills Of Restoring

In February last year I visited a big, high-ceilinged building on Yates Street, where experts in their various fields were restoring artifacts and making careful reproductions for the new provincial museum, now on its way to completion.

Then, John Smyly, who restores totems and creates miniature Indian villages from photographs taken years ago said, "come back in a year and see us. It will be quite different."

I went back the other day. He was right. It is very different. Now the various exhibits and dioramas are taking shape and the place is filled with quiet excitement. Upstairs, where Phil Ward continues to repair Indian rattles and other small historic articles that come to his fingers, Carolyn Case (now Mrs. Smyly) and a young assistant, Lloyd Cook, are assembling displays for what will be known as a human interest exhibit.

Forbes

★ ★ ★

This will be arranged on the third floor of the new museum in a grouping of semi-circular embrasures within a Victorian brougham as focal point. Behind it will be a baffle wall showing line drawings of mid-Victorian scenes.

Town life back at the turn of the century is the theme. There will be a store front. Through the windows you'll see counters and shelves with products of the era.

Another setting will show a bedroom with old-fashioned furnishings. In still another will be an old-time iron wood and coal stove and a variety of kitchen appointments including a milk cooler.

★ ★ ★

Instructions on this strange necessity of the day say "before using cooler soak thoroughly and keep top filled with water."

Articles for house cleaning will be shown in another display. Here will be a hand-cranked vacuum that works something like a bicycle pump.

There is an exhibit featuring the early Chinese community with such unusual articles as doll-like embroidered slippers for women's bound feet, medicine balls as big as marbles, a dominoe and dice set and a silver earpick. Background of dragon's blood red will add excitement to other exotic items.

In the making was a case that will show every-day articles used by men and women from the 1860s on. Among them are tortoise shell and bone hairpins, ornate hatpins, watches with heavy chains and fobs, sealing wax and goose quill pens, an old-time manicure set, a top hot of smooth beaver felt, a bonnet, and a velvet-covered chocolate box.

★ ★ ★

Off in a corner was a toy sewing machine, a china-headed doll with a miniature cameo brooch pinned to its high-necked gown and literally hundreds of other articles waiting to be sorted and tabbed for exhibits.

Wearing apparel of the day will be shown too. It will be placed against backdrops, then padded to resemble human figures. Appropriate heads, hands or feet will be sketched on the back boards in clever line drawings.

Downstairs at the back of the building, I found John Smyly chipping away at a slab of red cedar from which he will create wings for a thunderbird grave totem from Campbell River. He was also working on a two-beam Haida house for one of his miniature villages that will eventually be placed in small lighted cases around the walls of the British Columbia Indian room in the new museum.

Out front on the main floor I talked to Tom Putnam. When I last saw him he was creating (with plaster, liquid fibreglass and special paints) small items needed to ensure that dioramas in the new museum will be authentic in every detail. Now he is assisting to assemble these exhibits.

I saw one case showing climate changes that have occurred since the Ice Age at Rithet's Bog Near Royal Oak.

In another were reptiles and amphibians of our southern interior. There I recognize a skink (western lizard) and a rattlesnake that I watched Tom creating a year ago.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1968—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

Each morning for weeks we have hoped to catch a flicker of wings above the driveway and see a trim little bird in dark coat and silver vest perched on the lead-in wires. But the violet-green swallows that have returned faithfully to the hole under the eaves every spring for 16 years are still missing.

Wondering what might have happened to them, I called provincial biologist Charles Guiget.

"If you want to see swallows," he said, "go down to Dallas Road near Beacon Hill. When I passed that way, they were there by the hundred."

As for the birds whose lively presence we miss, Mr. Guiget pointed that we haven't necessarily been providing nest-space to the same family each spring. The yearly migration takes the swallows far away — sometimes clear on down to South America — in search of good weather and good feeding.

Their life-span is a mere two to three years, and as with all birds up to the size of ducks, the annual swallow "turnover" is about 80 per cent.

"But," said Mr. Guiget, on a more cheerful note, "this is proving to be a very birdy spring. More small birds around than we've had for several years."

That's dandy, but we still miss our swallows, if they're down at the Dallas Road fly-in, I trust they'll soon quit hippying around and come on home.

If venerable St. Louis College fails to open in September — and present prospects for a reprieve could scarce be dimmer — certain side-effects will be inevitable.

For a start, it will be necessary to shoehorn about 180 St. Louis boys into already crowded public high schools.

Also, the provincial legislature may have to look elsewhere for the corps of bright, brisk page-boys which St. Louis College, as a separate school, has supplied from its Grade 8 and 9 honor students these many years.

Before their era Greater Victoria School Board recruited the Legislative messengers whose red-and-blue uniforms lend color to each session. But only by a considerable bending of public school regulations as they now stand could a return be made to the former practice.

At the last extreme, perhaps Speaker of the House William Murray could order some of the smaller Legislative back-benchers into page uniforms for emergency service.

But they'd have to smarten up considerably first.

★

For a period each year that may amount to no more than a few balmy hours, new-hatched black ants test their wings above the Cowichan. The fish go crazy, and so do fly fishermen fortunate enough to coincide with the annual feeding spree.

Two who missed the actual hatch but got in on the tail of this year's big bite are skilled angler Les Leacock and a stream companion.

They limited out last Saturday, and in each brown-trout stomach, they found a mass of half-digested black ants. This evidence indicated that the seasonal black ant binge had taken place only a matter of hours earlier.

On Sunday, when Ted Davis went up to try his luck, the action was all over. Glutted and bloated, the trout refused every inducement.

Still, his trip may prove lucky for an earlier sport, who left his fishing bag behind when he pulled out of the side-road that winds down toward Henderson's Run.

The owner is asked to phone 384-1619.

So much for this day, except to salute a new reporter, name of Susan Mayse, who started work as a summer hand this week. Even though she's not a Timesman, the best of luck to her!

RUMPLED AND CRUMPLED is smashed-in bow of Japanese freighter Yoho Maru. She is being repaired in Esquimalt graving dock after colliding with a Vancouver bridge last week. (Times photo.)

150 Men Hired To Repair Ship

A crippled Japanese freighter will provide a month's work for 150 Victoria shipyard workers.

The Yoho Maru, which ran into the Second Narrows railway bridge in Vancouver last Friday, was towed to the Esquimalt graving dock Monday and repairs began late Tuesday night.

Contract for the repairs was awarded to Yarrows Limited.

TAKE FOUR WEEKS

The repairs will mean two shifts plus overtime for four weeks and the rehiring of about 150 men, said Yarrows manager John Wallace.

Bow of the Yoho Maru was pushed back about 35 feet in the bridge collision. The vessel, built in 1953, is 589 feet long and weighs 12,943 gross tons.

She was carrying 23,000 tons of coal for Japan which had been loaded at Pacific Coast Bulk Terminals ir. Port Moody.

Weston Talks Again Fail

Talks aimed at settling the 52-day strike of driver-salesmen against Weston Bakeries have failed.

A union spokesman said today the company is not prepared to settle on the same basis as the recent agreement with McGavin Toastmaster.

This was confirmed by a company official who said the two firms are not identical. He said the main issue is wages.

Seventy driver-salesmen at several B.C. locations, including Victoria, went on strike March 25 seeking an extra $24 a week over two years. The company offered $13.

The McGavin settlement provided a wage increase of $15 a week plus a 1-per-cent increase in commission which one source said was worth $3.

Previous pay was $115 a week plus commission.

The striking employees are members of the Bakery Salesmen's Union, Local 189, an affiliate of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Dangerous Driver Jailed Two Months

A 21-year old man was sentenced to two months today on charges of dangerous driving and driving while his right to obtain a licence was under suspension.

Ernest Waters, of 1258 Johnson, earlier pleaded not guilty to both charges and defended himself through the trial.

Court was told he forced another car to crash into a fire hydrant on Government Street Feb. 4 causing minor injuries to five persons. He left the scene of the accident without stopping.

Waters told the court he was not aware of the accident until later that day. He said he did not force the car off the road.

In asking for a prison sentence prosecutor John MacIntyre said Waters showed "callous disregard" when he failed to stop.

Call Made To Save Wheel-Meals

A city businessman suggested a financial remedy for the ailing Saanich meals-on-wheels service today.

If 10 businessmen each donate $200, then the service will have the $2,000 it needs after a local service club indicated it won't be providing its previous $2,000 a year subsidy.

Jim Anderson, who runs a hearing aid company in Victoria, said he is willing to give $200 if nine other businessmen do the same.

"I thought it was a good idea," he said.

"A lot of support of business here is by pensioners so let's reciprocate."

Last week, Ald. William Noel said the future of meal-on-wheels was uncertain because the municipality could not subsidize it forever. He hoped another service club would be interested.

The service, unique in British Columbia, brings well-cooked and nutrituous meals to those unable to cook meals for themselves. About 20 persons a day receive the meals and menus vary.

Five RC Schools Will Be Open Next September

Decision Reached At Special Meeting

Five Roman Catholic elementary schools will definitely be in operation next September.

Monsignor Michael T. O'Connell said this morning that the positive decision to keep the schools open was made at a special meeting of various school authorities Tuesday night.

The schools, St. Patricks, St. Andrews, Sacred Heart, St. Josephs and St. Anns, will accommodate grades one to seven. St. Anns Academy secondary school will also be in operation next September.

Msgr. O'Connell said there would be some classroom juggling at the elementary level with use being made of the soon to be closed Catholic secondary school, St. Louis College.

Closure of the 104-year old college, announced last week, has touched off a storm of controversy within the Catholic church.

Telegrams have been dispatched to Pope Paul and the Apostolic Delegate in Ottawa, protesting the closure and appealing for a full investigation of the decision by Bishop Remi De Roo.

A mass meeting to hear the Bishop's reasoning will be held Thursday night at the college.

LACK OF SUPPORT

Critics of the bishop's actions state that the decision was arrived at without full consideration being given to alternatives. They also claim that he and his senate failed to give whole-hearted support to a drive to raise funds to expand the school and keep it open.

Bishop De Roo has been unavailable for comment during the past two days. He is attending a conference at Shawnigan Lake.

But he is known to have stated late Tuesday that he was pleased that local Catholics were at last becoming aware of the seriousness of the situation.

And this morning church stalwart Alan Ritz, State deputy of the Knight's of Columbus, rallied to his bishop's side.

"It is neither fair nor just to place the complete responsibility for the closure on the shoulders of the bishop and his advisers," Mr. Ritz said.

NO TAX MONEY

"Because in British Columbia independent schools receive no support financially from the taxes collected for the cost of education within the province, and because St. Louis College is affected by the same spiralling costs that are so evident in the public schools system, it must surely be obvious to all that a decision had to be made."

Boy, 14, Admits Stealing 3 Cars

A 14-year-old boy who pleaded guilty to stealing three cars was remanded to May 21 for sentence in juvenile court today.

The boy was charged with stealing three cars Monday night, two in the city and one in Saanich.

Police said a car bearing 1966 plates was stopped at Cook and Yates and the driver fled. He was located at Fort and Vancouver.

University Graduation List Will Be Published Thursday

Students graduating from the University of Victoria this month will be listed in the Times Thursday.

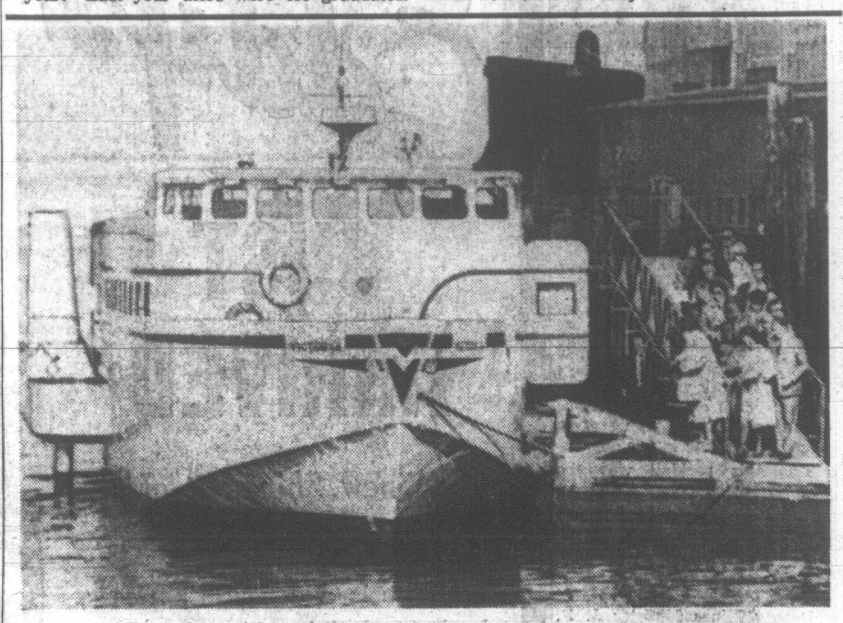
The university senate meets tonight and marks will be mailed to students Thursday morning.

Approximately 465 bachelor's degrees will be awarded in arts, science and education this year. Last year there were 355 graduates.

For the first time this year, master's degrees will be awarded by the university. About a dozen are expected to be granted.

Graduation ceremonies will be held the weekend of May 24-25. Convocation will be in Centennial Stadium.

University of British Columbia graduates will be announced May 23 in the Times.



SHE'S HERE, her triumphant first trip marred by a breakdown, but she's here, the hydrofoil Victoria. She is shown loading passengers at Seattle today and all 36 of them got here finally. (AP Wirephoto)

We Told You There Was One

By PETE LOUDON

The hydrofoil Victoria appeared off Holland Point at 12:15 p.m. today proving again—

You can believe what you read in the papers.

It was touch and go a few times of course, since the first hydrofoil stories began to appear eight years ago.

But the marine reporters of the Pacific Northwest never gave up. ("Keep the faith baby," they'd say.) And the stories appeared every few weeks, followed with regularity by stories recounting the latest postponements.

Tuesday, when an Associated Press dispatch maintained there really was a hydrofoil and Northwest Hydrofoil Lines would start Seattle-Victoria service today, the Times phoned Seattle for assurance.

"We're leaving with 75 passengers aboard at 7:30 a.m. and will arrive at Victoria at about 9:30 a.m.," a company spokesman said.

Victoria shipwatchers were out in force on Clover Point and Dallas Road this morning, waiting for the "fastest passenger vessel on the west coast."

But by noon a weary photographer was muttering, "I could row here faster" and it looked like another false start.

A phone call to Seattle brought word that "they had a little trouble with one of the governors on the port engine."

A Seattle TV station reported later this had been fixed but the vessel couldn't get up on her fins to plane and would be further delayed.

An attempt to phone to the Victoria by radio failed to produce on answer.

But the marine operator placed her just off Smith Island, 18 miles east of Victoria.

Finally she was seen off Holland Point, on the last lap, eating the wind at 37 knots.

She arrived at 12:30 p.m. in Inner Harbor but with 36 passengers only.

And just as we told you would happen in 1960 and every two weeks since, a hydrofoil service between Seattle and Victoria has been instituted.

100 Divers Expected For Tourney

Divers will be out in force Sunday after ling cod, sea bass, rock cod and wolf eels — and boatmen are urged to stay clear of operations.

Between 80 and 100 divers are expected to compete in the Victoria Day spearfishing tournament from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. off the Ogden Point breakwater.

CARE ASKED

Local boatmen have been asked to watch for surface flags that indicate divers are working below. Flags and patrol boats will be located all along the breakwater to warn against excessive speed in the area.

Prizes in the competition are offered for the largest fish, highest aggregate weight, three-man team aggregate weight. Awards will also be given for the top female diver, the top novice diver and the diver taking the largest wolf eel.

GIVE-AWAY

Divers are coming from Seattle, Portland, Vancouver and Vancouver Island areas. About 50 local divers are expected to enter.

Fish will be given away following the 3:30 weigh-in.

Driver Pleads Guilty

Police seized 1¼ pounds of marijuana from a car parked at the Caledonia St. entrance to the Jaycee fair Tuesday, central court was told today.

A man police said was driver of the car, 20-year-old Rajindar Singh of Vancouver, pleaded guilty today to possession of marijuana.

Maurice Racine, 20, of 739 Kings Road, was charged with possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking. He was remanded to May 23 for election and plea.

RCMP Const. Daniel Creally told the court he and city detective John Markin searched Singh's car parked near the fair Tuesday morning. He said they found marijuana in a plastic bag under the rear seat.

A pound of marijuana makes 600 to 700 cigarettes and is worth about $400 on the illegal market, police said.

With consent of prosecutor Edward Pollard, Singh was released on $500 bail and remanded to May 24 for presentence report.

Bail was set at $1,000 for Racine.

In another marijuana case before central court today, John Seedhouse, 18, of 38 Camden, pleaded guilty to possession of the drug.

The Crown today withdrew similar charges against Leslie Plante, 18, and Mitchell Doyle, 18, both of 2780 Millstream, arrested April 12 along with Seedhouse.

City detective Murray MacArthur told the court police approaching a car parked in Vic West Park saw a plastic bag thrown from the window.

He said Seedhouse admitted ownership of the bag, later found to contain marijuana. The accused was remanded and released on bail to May 24 for pre-sentence report.

Chamber Supports Health Board

A convention centre and beautification programs are pointless until Greater Victoria solves its pollution problems says Chamber of Commerce president William Armstrong.

In a letter to the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health the Chamber went on record as supporting recent anti-pollution moves by the board.

"The civic affairs committee (of the chamber) is very disturbed about the pollution in the lower Vancouver Island area," the letter stated. "It wishes to commend the board of health for placing signs showing the polluted water areas and this in the face of opposition from factions who refuse to accept the problem.

"The building of a convention centre, the talk of the beauty of our city, clean-up of buildings and all other progressive ideas are an exercise in futility until the sewer problem is solved."

Mr. Armstrong pledged the support of the chamber in bringing home the seriousness of the situation to the people and to eliminating the problem.

Compensation Post Filled

R. B. Carpenter of Thetis Island was appointed to the Workmen's Compensation Board Tuesday, filling a vacancy caused by the recent death of E. V. Ablett.

Mr. Carpenter, works manager for Canadian Industries Ltd., was a member of the provincial labor relations board in 1960-61 and served as chairman of the B.C. labor relations committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Children Set Garage Ablaze

A garage adjoining a Fernwood Road home was heavily damaged by fire Tuesday night.

The fire department said children playing with matches were responsible for the blaze at 2533 Fernwood, the residence of Tulio Garcia.

Residents had the fire almost under control when firemen arrived. Fire trucks were at the scene 50 minutes.

THEY'RE SOCKIN' IT TO 'EM TO GET DAD BACK IN HOUSE

Cheering squads, folk singers and bands are old hat in political campaigns but there's something different about the Davie "Groos Gospel" singers.

All three girls are daughters of Grit candidate Dave Groos.

They're lined up in the picture beside the Groos campaign booth at Jaycee Fair, Madeleine 17, Hilary 12 and Laura 19, left to right. And they're socking it to passersby to get Dad back in the House.

Not too many feet from them is the Progressive Conservative booth set up by the Eric Charman campaign committee—close enough to wince at these lyrics:

"Come Along, come along,
"Let us vote for Groos together.
"Come along, Come along,
"Vote in fair and stormy weather,
"Groos and Trudeau are the men
"Who will lead us on much further,
"Leave the rest, Trudeau's best!
"Come along, Come along.

"Canada is growing fast,
"And we've had a glorious past,
"But the future is not dead.
"We've got Trudeau at the head,
"So unite Canadians all
"With the party on the ball,
"And the Liberals sound the call!
"Come along, Come along.

The girls explain that the first verse may be repeated "again and again at four of five year intervals."

Miners Missed Being Crushed 'By Minutes'

WESTVILLE, N.S. (CP)—This Pictou County coal mining town, tempered by tragedy, experienced both shock and deep relief Tuesday as 49 miners entombed by a rock fall in a century-old slope were brought safely to the surface.

In a four-hour rescue operation described as "perfect" by Henry R. Thompson, owner of the Drummond Coal Co., the miners were lifted to the surface unhurt by a bucket-like hoist through a narrow 600-foot air shaft from No. 2 slope.

The chilling report that miners were trapped underground swept through this town of 4,000 shortly after 3 p.m. ADT and hundreds of relatives, friends and neighbors flocked to the mine, fearing the worst.

Their fears were allayed shortly after by mine officials who had received word from the trapped men that they could be reached through the air shaft.

The rockfall, the extent of which is still unknown, occurred as the men were riding a "rake" up the slope after completing their shift.

"We walked down the slope about 1,500 feet and waited," said John MacLeod of Westville. "It was slippery and wet. . . . Everybody kept cool while we waited."

BRING GOOD NEWS

Officials determined the location of the rockfall and prepared to lift the men through the air shaft. About two hours later the first miners were brought up the shaft with news that their companions were unhurt.

Returning miners speculated that they missed being crushed by bare minutes.

Mine manager George (Huck) Dooley, a veteran of 22 years in the pits, said "a split second makes a lot of difference in a situation like this—especially in mining."

Every 15 or 20 minutes another bucketful of miners reached the surface, three or four at a time according to their size.

Veteran miners, carrying out the rescue operation with methodical speed, had all the men on the surface shortly before 9 p.m. ADT.

"There were no problems," said Fred Doucette of Westville as he lit a cigarette after stepping from the bucket. "I feel good. This is a common occurrence. What's all the excitement?"

PARRIED QUESTIONS

Mr. Thompson parried reporters' questions by saying:

"This is just normal. There's nothing to worry about. There has to be two ways out of a mine and they're coming up the second way—it's as simple as that. I can't understand why there's so much excitement."

He said work would begin immediately on clearing the slope and normal operations were expected to resume in two days.

Tuesday's rockfall was the latest in a long history of trouble at the mine known as Scott Pit opened in 1868.

In 1873, 59 men died in an explosion; in 1914 a boiler explosion claimed six lives.

Deputy Mines Minister J. P. Nowlan said Tuesday his department would "carry out the standard mines department investigation" into the rock falls.

JAPAN MINERS' BODIES FOUND

BIBAI, Japan (UPI) — Rescue teams today recovered the bodies of six of 13 miners trapped Sunday in the collapse of a coal mine. Officials said the other seven men are presumed dead.

Two of 49 miners reach washhouse after escaping through air shaft.

WAIT 'IDEAL CONDITIONS'

Heart Switch Planned at UBC

VANCOUVER (CP) — Surgeons at the University of British Columbia are ready to perform a human heart transplant but are waiting for ideal conditions, a member of the UBC heart surgery team said Monday.

Dr. Philip Ashmore of the UBC department of surgery said that the team has been studying recent transplant operations and is in close contact with Dr. Gordon Shumway, head of the heart transplant team at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California.

Dr. Gilles Leparge of the Montreal Heart Institute said recently that Vancouver is one of six Canadian medical centres able to perform heart transplant operations.

Dr. Leparge says the others include his institute, Montreal's Victoria Hospital, and teams at the University of Toronto, the University of Alberta at Edmonton and the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg.

SWABIE IN THE NORTH

Oily Oolichan Great On Fish and Potatoes

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Museum anthropologist Peter McNair doesn't know why non-Indians are taking so long to appreciate oolichan oil—an old and favored Indian delicacy.

"It's delicious," he said on his return to Victoria Tuesday from a three-weeks stay at a remote Knight Inlet Indian camp where he made a scientific study on how the oil was prepared.

He became an oolichan fan after tasting the oil as a dressing on fish and potatoes.

The oolichan is a member of the smelt family that is on the springtime run in teeming millions in mainland coastal rivers.

It is rich in fat and much prized by Indians who use it in various ways. The call the fish "swabie" which means "old woman" to some northern tribes.

It also is called the "candle fish" sometimes because the oil can be used as fuel for lamps.

While the oil is part of the diet of northern tribes, non-Indians have ignored its potentialities as an epicurean dish.

Mr. McNair was fascinated by the way the oil was prepared for human consumption.

The fish was placed in wooden boxes and left to rot for about two weeks.

When it was well decomposed, the oil was extracted by boiling the fish in water. The oil or grease is then stored away for at least three months before it is used for human consumption.

Mr. McNair sampled some of last year's oil.

"It was delicious on boiled salmon" he said.

The anthropologist, however, was unable to confirm whether oolichan is a delicacy when it is melted and poured over porridge—one of the ways it is used by some Indians.

"I didn't have a chance to try that," he said.

'MUST LET IT FLOW OUT'

Highly Personal Statement Comes With Each Drawing

By KATHRINE THOMAS

The pen and ink line drawings of Nancy Edell are highly complex personal statements.

Mrs. Edell's drawings and prints will be on view at The Print Gallery, 1509 Willmot Place, Friday May 17 to May 31.

Mrs. Edell took a degree in art from the University of Omaha and graduate courses at the University of Nebraska.

Her interest in art was coupled with an interest in dance.

To some degree, these concerns are reflected in her work. "I have a great interest in the human body and perhaps some kinesthetic awareness," she says.

"When I do these little drawings, they just come out—are almost automatic, not really cerebral at all.

MRS. EDELL
. . . within the lines

'Must Flow'

"I just have to let it flow out, even the composition when I'm really turned on. But if I start tampering with it consciously, it doesn't really work. In these drawings there are so many small things going on, and in the best ones they just seem to flow."

Mrs. Edell's work is so highly compact, "and all these little things contribute to the composition that it would be difficult to just sit there and plan it."

Growing up in Nebraska, Mrs. Edell, at university was not influenced by the pop art that was then the rage on the coasts. "Everyone in the midwest was still under the influence of abstract expressionism," she says, "and that's how I stumbled along.

"My work was too generalized, vaguely romantic, vaguely sexual but really it had not form—it was not specific enough.

"When I began to formulate a few opinions about things going on in the world, they began to come out in my work."

'Freeing Up'

Mrs. Edell feels her best work to be spontaneous. "I know when I make these drawings which have been very important to me that there has to be a freeing up of a channel somewhere.

"It's as if I were cleaning out a drainpipe out of which come all these things that I must be concerned about—though perhaps not on a conscious level."

Drawings that do not work are ones where "the channel has been plugged up—not free."

But although she feels the content of her drawings comes from her subconscious, "it doesn't mean it's necessarily of any therapeutic value. The thing comes out in a form — everything that's down on paper is form—that's what is important."

Like her husband, Frederick Edell of UVic's theatre department. Mrs. Edell is very interested in film. "That's a big thing—I'd like to do some animation work. I hate going to galleries—there is so much poor work; I'd much rather see a good-bad movie.

Entertains

"My own work really turns me on—entertains me. You have to look at the drawings closely for a long time to become aware of everything that's going on. I find it very amusing to see some of the drawings I haven't looked at for awhile—there are so many strange things happening in it.

"But the activity doesn't impose itself on you until you look closely. The show will be really pale—all these line drawings."

Mrs. Edell had some hesitation over exhibiting the drawings because they are so highly private.

"When I started doing the drawings about a year ago, it was necessary for me to do some really personal things—to make private statements."

Her work came out of an interest in Mexican Pre-Columbian codices. "I got turned on by all these little marching lined up beasts, people and animals doing things, carrying things.

"I started doing bright oil drawings of marching people —some in their underwear.

"Underwear is so funny and people wear it with such seriousness.

"Then I started doing some pencil line drawings—they were big and awkward but began getting more minute, complex and formalized from within.

Amusing

"I really am somehow fascinated by big amorphous animal creatures with huge rolls of fat. I don't know why but human forms and animal forms strike me as so funny that combinations of them are really amusing."

Mrs. Edell also delights in putting food in her drawings. "I just did some neat mushrooms, artichokes, broccoli, potatoes and figs," she says.

Mrs. Edell works all parts of a drawing at one. "I start with big simple shapes all over the paper and work into more detail all the time. I don't really worry about where the lines are going, just whether a line is ugly in itself. In all my drawings, there are some places that are really crummy."

Prints will also be on view at the show. Mrs. Edell has been working with prints from her university days and is the proud owner of a 1300 lb. press brought all the way from New York.

"Painting doesn't really excite me—but etching does," she says. "You can get all kinds of strange tones, lines, by biting metal plate with acid. I suppose my real interests right now lie with linear things that can be done in both drawings and prints."

Keep N-Subs Away, Japan Asks U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Japan has asked the United States to keep its nuclear submarines away until investigators clear up suspicions that one of them contaminated the waters of a Japanese port.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Toshio Kimura said Tuesday the request was made Monday, the day after government scientists said the submarine Swordfish may have caused a radioactivity count 10 to 20 times higher than normal in the waters of Sasebo, site of a U.S. naval base in southern Japan.

The scientists added that the reported radioactivity count was far below the danger level for humans. Initial reports of the possible contamination already have set off new demands from the Socialist opposition that U.S. nuclear powered ships be barred from Japan.

The U.S. embassy declined to comment on Kimura's statement, but the U.S. state and navy departments said earlier they are satisfied that the Swordfish was not responsible for the increase in radioactivity.

The submarine was at Sasebo, 550 miles southwest of Tokyo, May 2-11 for leave for the crew. The Japanese nuclear specialists took their radioactivity reading May 6.

The state department said three investigators from the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission would arrive in Japan Wednesday to help the Japanese scientists investigate the cause of the increased radioactivity.

PEACE IN GUATEMALA

Montenegro Takes Full Control

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

GUATEMALA (AP)—In a daring stroke almost two years after his election, President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro has assumed full control of the government, which he had been forced to share with military overlords.

As a result, a measure of peace has settled over this long troubled Central American country, where political violence between rightist and leftist extremists has taken at least 1,000 lives and possibly as many as 4,000, since Mendez, a Liberal, became president in July, 1966.

The only violent deaths of political significance since the recent shift involved the leaders of a right-wing terrorist organization, slain while in police custody under officially explained but still clouded circumstances.

The move that quashed right-wing extremist influence in the government—at least for the present—came March 28 when President Mendez fired three top officials, including Defence Minister Rafael Arriaga Bosque.

The president's decision, it is generally believed here, has stripped rightist terrorists of official protection and pacified the non-Communist left. It has also neutralized an effective source of Castroite recruiting propaganda: militarism in government.

Still to be seen is just how far-left militants, given a respite from military pressures, will respond to the changes.

DESPERATE BID

The abduction of Guatemala's archbishop, Msgr. Mario Casariego, in March is regarded as a catalyst in bringing the explosive Guatemalan situation to an anti-climax few local or foreign observers had anticipated.

The kidnapping of the 58-year-old prelate was the far right's boldest and most desperate bid to bring down Mendez. The now-apparent objective was to make it appear the abduction was the work of the far left and thus turn Roman Catholic sentiment against the government, which the rightists claim is infiltrated with Communists.

There was little or no public response, however, because it was quickly established a rightist terrorist group was responsible.

The Guatemalan Curia exhorted Roman Catholics to remain calm and refused to deal with the kidnappers who had issued an ultimatum that unless Mendez resigned the archbishop would be killed. He was released March 20.

The circumstances of the abduction—in broad daylight in an area usually alive with armed guards and during a "state of alarm" when official surveillance is supposedly at its sharpest—strongly suggested acquiesence if not direct involvement of high official circles.

The consensus appears to be that the president has considerably fortified his position. But it is still not known how the rightists will react if the president decides to proceed with needed reforms.

Orange Importers Abandon Appeals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nine firms convicted earlier this year on conspiring to reduce competition in the Japanese orange trade abandoned their appeals Monday in the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

The firms were Kelly Douglas and Co., Canada Safeway Ltd., Consolidated Fruit Co. Ltd., David McNair and Co. Ltd., Slade and Stewart Ltd., W. H. Malkin Ltd., Dominion Fruit Ltd., Chess Brothers Ltd. and McDonald's Consolidated.

The were found guilty in supreme court of unlawfully conspiring with one another and firms and associations in Japan and the U.S. between Oc. 1, 1946, and Jan. 1, 1965, to prevent or unduly lessen competition in the supply of mandarin oranges.

ANCIENT MAYAN CITY

1,000-Year-Old Treasure Found

CHICHEN ITZA (Reuters) — Archaeologists have unearthed a gold, jade and copper treasure, more than 1,000 years old, from a human sacrificial site at this ancient Mayan city in Mexico.

Worth an estimated $50,000,000 and of incalculable historical value, the treasure was taken from a sacred well together with the skulls of young children sacrificed to appease Chac, the Mayan god of water.

The find threw new light on the highly-developed Mayan civilization that flourished in the Yucatan Peninsula and parts of Guatemala and Honduras from the fourth to the 10th century AD.

Although they never achieved the highly organized political structure of the Incas and Aztecs, the Mayans were far more advanced than other early American cultures in the development of picture writing, a calendar and knowledge of astronomy.

The treasure was embedded in a 18-foot layer of clay at the bottom of a 60-foot deep pool. It was excavated by an expedition sponsored by the Mexican Institute of Anthropology and History.

Dressed in splendid robes and adorned with copper, gold and jade jewelry, the victims were ceremoniously killed with a knife thrust into the heart and then hurled from a precipice into the well.

Golden idols, sculpture, bells and furniture were thrown in after them.

Prof. Ramon Pina Chan, head of the expedition which just completed its work, reported that 40 skulls, mostly of young children, were recovered from the pool.

CHARRED RUINS OF DAMANT HOME

Semi-Invalid Dies In N. Oyster Fire

LADYSMITH—Semi-invalid Mrs. Beatrice Vella Damant, 65, Tuesday died in her bedroom when fire destroyed the family home at North Oyster, seven miles north of Ladysmith.

She was alone in the house at the time.

Coroner Russ Inkster, Nanaimo, said later Mrs. Damant apparently was a steady smoker and the fire may have been caused by her smoking in bed.

The Damant house on Yellowpoint Road was only a short distance from North Oyster fire hall but volunteer firemen could do little to try and save either Mrs. Damant or the house.

A neighbor, Mrs. Audrey Scofield, reported the fire to her volunteer fireman husband.

A dozen firemen were on the scene in short order but the house suddenly burst into uncontrollable flames.

Nothing was saved from the house, and Mrs. Damant's body was not recovered until early afternoon.

It was lying ten feet from her bed.

Mr. Damant was at work at Nanaimo Lakes logging division when the fire struck, and the Damant's granddaughter Marlene, 15, who lives with them, was at school.

It's believed Mrs. Damant, who suffered from a chronic illness, was in soporific state when the fire occurred.

Mrs. Scofield said: "When the firemen arrived the shell of the house was still intact but the inside was ablaze."

It was a two-bedroom log and frame house.

Mrs. Scofield said she first thought the fire was just smoke from burning garbage, but within five minutes the house was an inferno.

Park Costs Too High

DUNCAN — Development of 11 acres of land known as Centennial Park and as the 1967 Centennial project was dismissed by Duncan city council because of the estimated $25,000 cost of drainage.

But the city recreation commission Tuesday decided to recommend that the area be developed as a nature park with pathways and picnic tables.

Commissioner Mel Massey said: "We feel something should be done with it and the city engineer's study said no major construction could be supported by the peat soil, not even a tennis court.

"We are recommending that next year's recreation budget should allow for clearing of the land and that a certain amount of work be done each succeeding year."

Mr. Massey said: "Instead of the land sitting unused year after year it could be a welcome recreation area for the residents of Centennial Heights subdivision and downtown residents.

"It's too much land to be left undeveloped."

Board, Employees Meet Thursday

DUNCAN—Students normally transported by bus were still having to find their own way to Cowichan district schools today as the clerical staff strike entered its third day.

However, the Canadian Union of Public Employees' spokesman Tom Smith said this morning the union is accepting a school board invitation to meet Thursday evening.

The meeting is set for 8 at Duncan City Hall.

Board chairman Joseph Frumento said today, "We will meet to try and find some areas of agreement and ground for negotiation.

"From our point of view we would like to see the strike settled to everybody's satisfaction.

'COMMON GROUND'

"It's our intention to seek such common ground."

The 28 female clerks of the school board are striking against the board's rejection of a unanimous conciliation board award of a 13.5 per cent wage increase to 18 full-time clerks.

The student transportation problem arises because the school bus depot is within the precincts of Cowichan school board office and senior secondary school which are being picketed by the clerks.

The drivers, as members of Duncan Local 1-80 of the IWA are honoring the clerks' picket lines.

Janitors, engineers and maintenance men are also staying outside the picket lines.

80 PER CENT ATTENDANCE

A department spokesman said there were no problems so far in maintenance "but the strike is only in its third day."

Despite the lack of buses there was an 80-per-cent attendance of students throughout the school district Tuesday, and Mr. Frumento this morning anticipated at least an equal percentage today.

Vice-principal Harold Proctor of Cowichan senior secondary school reported agreement with CUPE regarding arrangements to allow the school graduation ceremonies to take place Friday as planned.

CUPE is also giving special permits for the hauling of water to Tansor school (work is in progress on laying a new municipal water line), allowing a private charter firm to continue to take Indian children to public schools, and a taxi firm transporting students to the Arcadian school for the retarded.

Mr. Smith said the conciliation board award would raise the clerks' minimum wage from $225 a month to $260.

ganizations like the United Nations and UNESCO would swell beyond measure until they disintegrated. The 10 provinces could each send a representative in addition to Canada's.

'NOT DESIRABLE'

The United States would want to send 50 representatives and other nations like Switzerland and Brazil could make similar moves—"something that is not desirable and certainly is not sought by those who hold this theory."

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Johnson's theory would, in short, involve the disintegration of international law. France would be able to invite to conferences Mauritius, whose population is French-speaking but which belongs to Great Britain, or the inhabitants of Belgium known as Walloons who speak French.

"These examples," the prime minister said, "all seem radical except when applied to us.

"In other countries, these absurdities are unthinkable, but they are possible here because the constitution is not clear in that area."

Gabon was involved in an international incident recently when the small West African, French-speaking country directly invited Quebec to a conference of French-speaking education ministers held in February in the Gabon capital of Libreville.

BROKE RELATIONS

Canada quickly suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon because Gabon had not first approached Canada in accordance with international law.

Jean-Guy Cardinal, Quebec's education minister, attended the conference and a subsequent part of the conference held in Paris.

Mr. Trudeau said foreign policy could not be fragmented. International policy was a specific activity accorded to the central government.

"When a foreign country wants to talk to Canada, there is only one address: Ottawa. There is no need for the street number. Ottawa, Canada, is sufficient."

Mr. Trudeau did not accept the theory that Quebec is the spokesman of all French-speaking Canadians. This would involve the province in speaking for French-speaking Canadians not under its jurisdiction.

. . . AIDE

Faribault is firm in supporting it.

Asked if he endorsed Mr. Faribault's views on the international role of Quebec, Mr. Stanfield simply said that, as he understood it, Mr. Faribault and Premier Johnson drew a distinction between the traditional aspects of foreign affairs, such as war and peace, and other more private dealings between countries.

Mr. Faribault said there has been no decision yet on the choice of a riding. Three or four were being considered, he said.

He said he had resigned from the Quebec legislative council and from his special post as constitutional and economic adviser to Premier Johnson.

He was also resigning, he said, from the presidency of two financial institutions, Le Trust General Du Canada and Sherbrooke Trust, and would resign his many directorates if the Conservatives won the election and he were invited to enter the cabinet.

Mr. Faribault is 60. In addition to his career in finance he is a former secretary general of the University of Montreal and has written books and articles on law and constitutional affairs.

AUSSIE PM REJECTS UNION JACK REMOVAL

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Prime Minister John Gorton rejected today a suggestion that the Union Jack be removed from the Australian flag.

H. J. Bate of the governing Liberal party told the House of Representatives that Australians have fought for British interests in a number of wars and Britain secures large benefits from its trade with Australia.

But now while Australian troops are dying in South Vietnam, Britain is "pulling out" of the area.

Gorton said Australian troops have fought side by side with British troops in battles which concerned not only the survival of Britain, but the survival of freedom.

"What has been done is by no means one-sided," Gorton said.

$30 Hike Faces Port Taxpayers

PORT ALBERNI — A tax increase of about $30 is in store for the average homeowner in Port Alberni.

This was indicated when council brought down a general purpose budget totalling $3,627,132.

With the school budget, the total cost of operation for the year will be slightly more than $5,600,000.

Major reasons for the tax boost were:

The hiring of five additional permanent firemen, and one RCMP constable.

The purchase and operation of an ambulance.

Dockers to Back IWA Regardless of Bill 33

By ROGER STONEBANKS

British Columbia longshormen will support coast woodworkers if they strike whether or not Bill 33 is used by the cabinet.

The statement was made by Roy Smith of Vancouver, president of the Canadian area of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, in a communication to Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America.

His comments were prompted by statements by J. V. Clyne, chairman of MacMillan Bloedel, at the annual meeting of shareholders two weeks ago in Vancouver.

At that time, Mr. Clyne said if the IWA persists in demands for large wage and fringe benefit improvements the industry will have no alternative but to refuse and the "inevitable result will be a very lengthy strike."

He also said, "I am not being belligerent in any sense but am merely stating facts so that there will be no misunderstanding."

In his letter, Mr. Smith said the timber company executive "threatened the IWA with a prolonged battle" but woodworkers had the full support of 3,000 dock workers in B.C.

"Whether or not the compulsory part of Bill 33 is invoked, the longshoremen will continue to support the IWA.

"On behalf of the longshoremen in B.C., I am now saying that the longshoremen recognize that J. V. Clyne has declared war against the whole labor movement in B.C.

"We also recognize that the IWA membership this year can be in the front lines of this war.

"We declare to the IWA membership that until their fight and our's is over, Bill 33 or not, we will be in complete support.

"If J. V. Clyne and company force you out on strike, the longshoremen won't touch one stick of lumber which is strikebound."

Bill 33 allows the cabinet to step into a labor dispute, before or after a strike, send it to a mediation commission and order the commission's decision binding on both sides. Strikes can be legally ended with fines for failure to comply.

Tunisia Ousts Syria

TUNIS (AP) — The Tunisian government has accused the Syrian diplomatic mission of inciting Tunisians to subversive activities and ordered it out of the country. The break in relations Tuesday climaxed months of strain between President Habib Bourguiba's moderate, pro-Western regime and more military Arab governments to the east. Among other things, Bourguiba has urged the Arabs to make peace with Israel.

VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

DVA HOSPITAL

More Points For Transfer Than Against

By PETE LOUDON

Among men aged over 30, there are more war veterans in Victoria area than anywhere else in Canada,—41.8 per cent.

And a good proportion of them will object to any proposal to transfer Veterans' Hospital to community jurisdiction.

There might be a storm brewing because the recent Agnew, Peckham report on local hospitals not only recommended integration of the hospital with Royal Jubilee, it labelled the "Vets" as obsolete and gave it a black eye in terms of patient facilities.

Veterans, backed by their senior organization, the Royal Canadian Legion won't take this condemnation lightly.

'DISTURBED'

A former Legion zone commander, Carl Fallas of 3041 Donald says the Legion is disturbed at attempts to take the hospital from veterans affairs and turn it over to community authorities.

He has asked Legion representation here May 29 when Dr. K. S. Ritchie, director-general of treatment services meets with the medical advisory board of the hospital and Royal Jubilee and B.C. health and welfare officials.

The Legion can be expected to point out that the bulk of World War II veterans are still to arrive at the age when they will depend most heavily on the Vets for hospital care.

And that's when the Legion is liable to be told that unless the federal department is ready to almost completely rebuild the Vets, its patients would probably be better off in a more modern community-operated hospital.

DEFICIENCIES

The Agnew, Peckham report will be cited to demonstrate these deficiencies:

- There are 144 beds in six 24-bed wards while more than four beds to a room is not an acceptable standard today.
- There are no washrooms nor even a hand sink in any of these ward areas. Washrooms are "a considerable distance away."
- Few of the rooms have any provision for patients' clothes.
- Communal toilet facilities "leave a great deal to be desired." "In one room with five toilets there is no hand sink."
- "Patients must pass through the main corridor to the next adjacent room where sinks are located. This is a poor arrangement in terms of human dignity and a dangerous practice from the infection control point of view."
- "In another adjacent room the bathtubs and showers are located. There is no toilet or sink.
- In the Pavilion (the section used by domiciliary care vets) none of the beds have toilets immediately adjacent to them and the proportion of toilets to patients is "much too low," varying between one to seven and one to nine.
- All treatment-diagnostic and supporting departments are undersized. Many are inadequate in layout and efficiency.

EXCELLENT CARE

The report devotes more space to criticism of the Vets than it does to any other district hospital except perhaps the other federal government hospital in this area, the Canadian Forces Hospital Esquimalt, which is "entirely unsuitable for hospital use."

The report says patients receive "excellent" care at the armed forces hospital and "high calibre care" at the Vets. But this whisper of praise can't outweigh the criticisms.

The report notes that there are no difinite plans for expansion of the Vets although the defence department is studying improvements to the armed forces hospital.

The point the veterans might consider before rejecting the whole report out of pride in their hospital is made in other sections of the report.

3 STIPULATIONS

First, it is noted that the plan for community integration of veterans' hospitals was first mooted by the Veterans Affairs Department with three stipulations.

Accommodation for veterans must be available at all times with DVA-approved treatment, for those with service disabilities. Community institutions must be available for other classes of veterans in their own communities. There must be continued employment for DVA hospital staffs.

The community hospital report doesn't appear to argue with these proposals.

It just says that if veterans are to enjoy facilities equal to those of other modern hospitals there must be close integration with another general hospital—or the DVA must modernize or build a new plant.

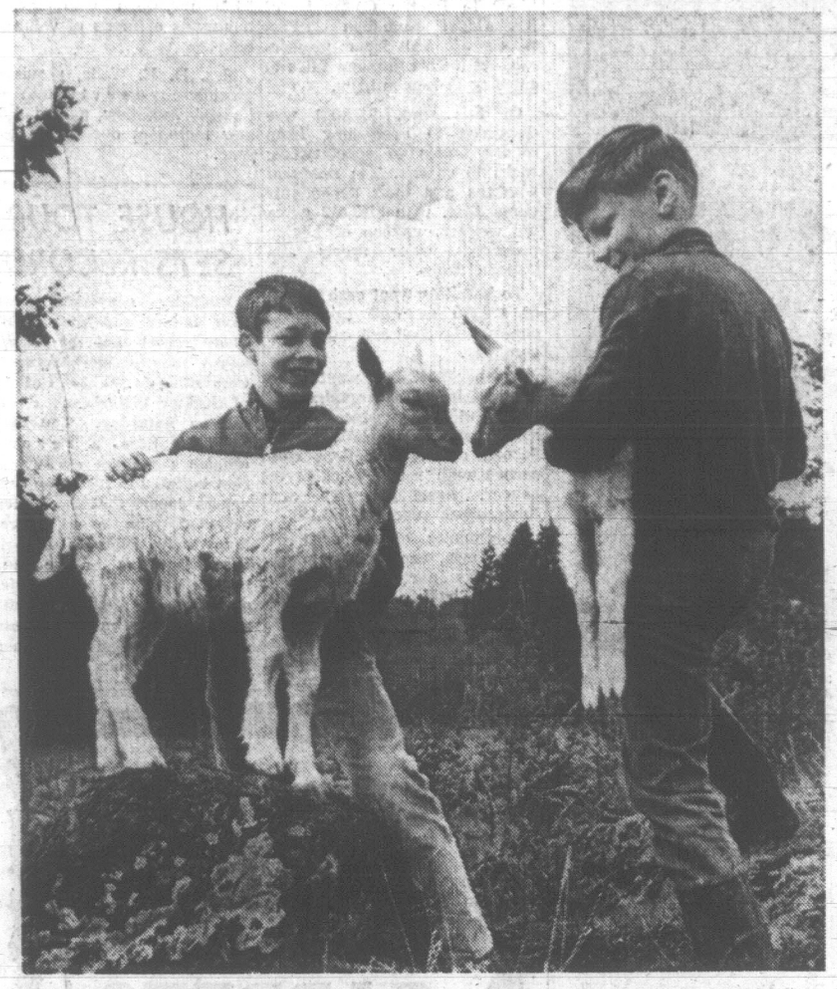
VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1968—PAGE 29



Twiggy and Gidget got a bit excited when photographer Bill Halkett went to take their picture, so instead of walking along nicely as they usually do, they had to be posed by their owner, Bruce Fletcher, right, and his friend, Rob Duffus. They usually follow Bruce and his family around like puppies.

Twiggy and Gidget Try To Clean Up Their Kin's Name

IT REALLY GETS YOUR GOAT

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

Twiggy is a model goat.

With her devoted friend Gidget, she is doing her bit to counteract the unfortunate image of her kin in the eyes of the public.

So far, these two-month old babies with faces like cheeky little camels have been more angels than fiends, which is surprising, considering the stories one hears from ex-goat-owners.

We know quite a few people who used to own goats, but don't any longer for various reasons.

In the case of one neighbor, the reason was simple. The goat died.

The way in which she died was more complicated. She was elderly, a fact that our neighbor didn't realize at first because he'd forgotten to look at her teeth or whatever it is one does to determine the age of a goat.

However, the old girl struggled valiantly up and down the steep bank which it was her mission in life to clear of brush and blackberries, until, one day, she was seen panting, wheezing, struggling and generally acting more peculiarly than usual.

Her problem was to find a suitable spot for delivery of her child, which came as something of a surprise to her owner who hadn't thought to check that aspect, either.

A shot of brandy failed to revive her, and she expired before the kid was born. Our neighbor, trying to save the baby, performed a post-humous Caesarian with make-shift surgical instruments, but without success.

Another family has the opposite problem.

They bought a doe supposedly "with kid" if that is the proper terminology. The doe is a year overdue, hasn't produced a drop of milk of course, and spends her time playfully chasing her owner and her owner's daughter across fields and up trees.

Anyone looking for a woman-hating goat? Free?

Another friend actually has a certain fondness for the animals in spite of the fiendish tricks they used to play.

"They grin like dogs, you know, when they've done something that strikes them as being hilariously funny," she says.

Their senses of humor ran to tricks like getting into the vegetable garden and grinning, or coming up for milking then running a few paces away, and grinning.

But their primary function, clearing the land, was not an unqualified success.

With their perverted sense of fun they dug under, jumped over or wriggled through fences to clear other people's land instead. The fact that the neighbors were growing money-making crops instead of blackberries and bushes made the game even more interesting.

So far, however, Twiggy and Gidget have behaved with charm and decorum.

Twiggy, being two weeks older, is leader and is faithfully imitated by Gidget. Gidget makes embarrassing mistakes sometimes, like the time she watched Twiggy being fed from a bottle and tried to get into the act. Gidget sucked the nearest finger instead.

Besides milk, their diet consists of grass, oats, broom and the usual assortment of unwholesome bushes. They do not eat tin cans, but they are showing a lot of curiosity about some old bits of machinery in their barn.

The two young Saanens were gifts to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fletcher, Chilco Road, from Mrs. W. Christie of Sooke Road. Ten-year-old old Bruce hopes to join a 4-H club and enter his delightful pets in shows.

Canadian Urban Growth May Lead To the Formation of City States

Because of the rapid urban growth in Canada, Mayor Hugh Stephen predicts that in 100 years provincial governments may well be replaced by city states.

He made the prediction when he spoke on "This Job of Mayor" at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, held in the McPherson Playhouse on Tuesday afternoon.

Citing the findings of the Economic Council of Canada, Mayor Stephen said that Canada had the most rapid growth of urban living in the world, and that the Council foresaw an increase of 5.8 million people living in urban areas between the years 1966 and 1980.

He listed what he considered the priority programs of Victoria City Council. They are the provision of good highways leading to the downtown area, planning of subsidiary streets feeding from the area, the replacement of single-family dwelling areas with multiple-family buildings, the provision of recreational programs for senior citizens and youth, substantial support of police and fire departments, and sensible spending of public money in order to encourage private investment.

The speaker was introduced by outgoing president Mrs. H. H. Youson and thanked by Miss Elizabeth Forbes.

The group held its annual meeting prior to the mayor's address.

Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell is the club's new president. Other officers are: Past president, Mrs. Youson; first vice-president, Mrs. Wilfred Davenport; second, Mrs. P. J. Sinnott; third, Mrs. W. Redford; secretary, Mrs. Charles Smith; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Mack; assistant treasurer, Mrs. W. G. Flett, and historian, Mrs. R. R. Jeffels.

Serving on the executive committee are Mrs. A. M. Oswald, Mrs. A. H. Sheard, Mrs. C. H. Howatson, Mrs. L. R. Wright, Mrs. Ray Hadfield, Mrs. Oliver Burton, Mrs. Bruce L. Brown and Mrs. E. Jim Wilson.

Dr. Olga Jardine thanked the outgoing officers and executive committee members.

In her financial report, Mrs. Mack announced disbursements of $3,368.97, receipts amounting to $4,196.33 and a bank balance of $2,452.85.

The secretary's report of Mrs. Charles Smith showed a total membership of 745, including 13 life members and 10 honorary members.

Mrs. Smith said that $600 had been realized from the sale of "Pioneer Women," a book on British Columbia pioneers which had been sponsored by the club years ago.

Of this amount, $250 had been awarded to Times' columnist Elizabeth Forbes for research. Miss Forbes has been commissioned by the club to write a second edition.

COOKING CAN BE FUN By MARY MOORE

Introduce Asparagus With New Party Dress

Roast beef, Yorkshire pudding and fresh asparagus with sour cream are hard to beat — especially in a family of beefeaters.

My sister-in-law served it to six of us and in her gracious way let me put the finishing touches to the vegetable dish full of freshly cut perfectly cooked asparagus.

Fresh Asparagus with Sour Cream and Herbs. (Serves six.)

Rightly asparagus should be cooked tied in serving bunches and stood upright in bottom of double boiler. To two pounds add one cup boiling water and cover with inverted top of double boiler and cook about 12 minutes. The steam cooks the tips sufficiently — they will still be slightly crisp. Drain. Reserve liquid for soup. Carefully place in preheated vegetable dish, tops at each end, bottoms touching at centre. Pour over centre portion ½ pint dairy sour cream which has been gently heated until quite warm. DO NOT OVERHEAT OR IT MAY CURDLE.

Moore

Sprinkle with either ½ cup finely chopped chives or dill leaves (fern is a better word). Serve at once.

If you are leisurely dining this asparagus dish makes a delicious separate course. If you do serve it as a separate course a salad course may be omitted.

There are nearly as many different recipes for Yorkshire Pudding as there are cooks of British descent. I like all varieties — thick and stodgy, thin and puffy, medium and custardy. Wyn's seemed perfect so I will give her recipe here for Yorkshiremen to try.

Yorkshire Pudding (courtesy Wyn). (Serves four to six.)

Three large eggs, ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups milk.

Beat all ingredients together until smooth. Butter 13x9" pan generously with cold butter, pour pudding batter into cold pan and bake at 450-deg. Fahr. 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 400-deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes longer.

This Yorkshire Pudding puffs and has a tender custardy texture and cuts and lifts easily from pan at serving time.

Eyes light up and mouths water when perfectly cooked bright green asparagus appears on the dinner table. In this recipe, Mary Moore "gilds the lily" by adding fresh dairy sour cream with a sprinkling of herbs.

MANY PROJECTS

Legion Auxiliaries Make Community Contributions

Last year the Ladies' Auxiliary to Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Legion raised $406,790 from projects ranging from rummage sales to catering in Legion halls.

Of this sum, $359,020 was dispersed to everything from soccer teams to scholarships, socks to shawls. The needs of veterans and their dependants came first, with $143,612 going for welfare, upkeep of Legion property, junior sports and senior citizens.

To hospitals went cash grants of $22,779 as well as wheelchairs, television sets and other comforts.

Another $12,321 went into scholarships while organizations outside of the veterans, such as Red Cross, CNIB, SPCA, cadets, Scouts, and organizations concerned with retarded children, cancer, heart diseases and tuberculosis received $13,180.

Community efforts such as Teen Town, centennial triplets, Christmas parties, May Day parades, baby clinics and welfare received another $24,982.

The Ladies' Auxiliary with its 159 branches from the Yukon through British Columbia to the northwestern states includes 9,319 members who put in thousands of hours of volunteer effort.

Mrs. D. E. Wells, provincial president, reports that the Ladies' Auxiliary gained 1,504 new members during the past year.

HOUSE TOUR SETS RECORD

Publicity conveners Mrs. Don Telford and Mrs. Frank Shore report that the annual house tour of the Women's Committee to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria set a record on Saturday. The tour realized $1,530, a record amount since the event was first initiated in 1953. The conveners report that more men attended than ever before. Many made sketches of various attractions in the four homes open to the public, others took pictures, while some paced out measurements of swimming pools and other features.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Foot Health Plays Role In Your General Health

In the United States, May 10 to May 17 is Foot Health Week, sponsored by the American Podiatry Association. These specialists are launching this education and information program to make people more aware of the relationship between foot health and general health.

Few people recognize the importance of this relationship, nor do they know what a complex thing the foot is. It consists of 26 bones held together by many muscles and ligaments. These must support the weight of the body when you are walking or standing.

Lowman

It has been estimated that if you walk as much as the average person does, your feet will have supported a load of several hundred tons daily. It has also been estimated that during a lifetime, the average person walks a distance equal to 2½ times around the earth. Think what a burden, then, you impose on your feet if your shoes are not properly fitted.

The importance of good foot care is becoming more and more apparent. Congress, at President Johnson's request, voted that services of podiatrists be made available to medicare beneficiaries beginning on Jan. 1, 1968. Many school systems now have screening programs to discover foot disorders, and many health departments include podiatric care in their clinics.

A podiatrist is a specialist responsible for the care of the feet. He helps prevent, and treats foot disorders by medical or surgical means. He is also often the first one to discover chronic disease, since these are frequently reflected in the feet before other symptoms appear.

When we realize that foot disorders can not only be painful in the foot but also cause backaches, headaches, and even face wrinkles, it does seem that we should take care of our feet. When abnormalities of the feet are neglected this can be literally crippling.

Studies indicate that 80 per cent of all women have had, or will have, foot trouble of some sort. Be wise and take your foot problems to a specialist. Also consider making a trip to the podiatrist a part of your yearly physical checkup.

The following exercise is one recommended by the American Podiatry Association.

Stand a little away from a bureau or a mantelpiece. Hold onto it for balance. Rise high on your toes. Now roll back onto your heels, toes in the air. Continue rising on toes and rolling back on heels. If you do not have a bureau the right height, or a mantelpiece, stand in an open door and hold onto the door jamb.

If you would like to have my exercises for the feet send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Take Care of Your Feet." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Annual Session In Princeton

Delegates from all over British Columbia met in Princeton, B.C., for the 46th annual session of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association recently. Mrs. R. Pelly of Chilliwack presided.

The association contributes to the Loyal Protestant Home for Children in New Westminster, serving needy children throughout the province. A senior citizens' home in Vancouver will soon be completed.

The reports showed that the association donated well over $5,000 to charitable causes during the year.

Attending from Victoria were Mrs. M. Joyce, Mrs. L. Cuthbert, Mrs. E. Bell, Mrs. A. Hamilton, Mrs. J. Johnston, Mrs. E. Harker, Mrs. B. Lewis, Mrs. F. Martin and Mrs. E. Hume.

The next session will be held in Vancouver, May, 1969.

SEW WITH EUNICE FARMER

DON'T TRY TO SEW CHIFFON UNLESS YOU'RE AN EXPERT

Dear Eunice Farmer:

My daughter wants a chiffon formal for a graduation prom. Do you have any helpful suggestions on sewing with chiffon? This will be my first attempt with this fabric.—Mrs. L.A.B.

Dear Mrs. L.A.B.:

My first suggestion would be to forget chiffon, unless you are an expert seamstress. For a graduation dress, organza, organdy, dotted swiss, and many new sheers are available and you may find the dress would have a much newer and certainly more youthful look.

Chiffon slips badly when cutting. It is best to lay it on a sheet on a large cutting table. Be sure to use a new machine needle so the fabric won't snag. You may have to pin the seams to a piece of paper (such as a paper napkin) in order to hold the shape, or if possible, use two layers of chiffon, or one layer pinned to a layer of china silk.

Be sure to allow the dress to hang for several days before attempting to hem the skirt. Most chiffons are cut with very full bias skirts that never seem to hang evenly, but because of their fullness, they still have a pleasing effect.

Allow yourself plenty of time and practice before tackling the dress. I very seldom discourage anyone from anything as adventurous as your undertaking; on the other hand, I don't want you to begin something you can't finish and then get out of the mood for further sewing.

Dear Eunice:

My latest suit had a top collar that was cut on the bias with a seam at the centre back. The fabric had a narrow diagonal stripe, and when I stitched the centre back seam, one side had the stripes horizontal, the other vertical. I still don't know what to do about it. Please help!—Mrs. C.S.

Dear Mrs. C.S.:

You probably should have looked at the pattern envelope where they have fabric suggestions. If a pattern will not work out in a stripe or plaid, no matter how simple it seems to be, you had better take the advice on the pattern. You can correct your collar be recutting the top collar and eliminating the centre back seam. Place on the bias as previously suggested.

Sleepy-Time Gal Must Learn to Rise

By PENNY SAVER

My elder daughter has just learned that she has a summer job waiting for her as soon as school finishes. It is a job as a waitress in the dining-room of a resort up-Island and she considers herself lucky to have such a chance. Unfortunately the waitresses have to anticipate early-rising guests and the resort owner has warned my daughter that she will have to rise around 6:30 a.m. every morning. What a calamity for someone who loves to sleep as much as she. Every morning I must wage a battle against Morpheus to get her off to school. As soon as whoever is waking her leaves the room, she rolls over and falls back into a deep sleep. It was obvious I would have to buy her an alarm clock and train her to wake up to it before she leaves.

Since the jangling bell would be trial enough for her, I decided to make the clock as attractive to look at as she could wish. I was pleased to find some German-made clocks at $7.99 that are the perfect thing for a teen-aged girl. The faces of these clocks are absolutely circular, about two and a half inches in diameter, with a gold-colored alarm bell on top and tiny gold legs on the bottom. The cylindrical metal case is enamelled in bright, clear shades of orange, green, and blue. The white face is clearly marked in black Roman numerals with the Arabic numerals written overtop to reassure people like myself who have forgotten all they have learned about the numerals. The barest touch of phosphorescent paint makes them glow in the dark. The alarm is loud but not too jangling. Since this clock winds, it can travel anywhere.

Wet-Look Stockings in Town

Shine seems to be the thing this year. Once a girl powdered her nose to take off the shine, now she is likely to make it shine all the more. Special shiners have been produced for the lips and the hair. The latest shine comes from wet-look stockings. It was my daughters who introduced me to this latest in hosery. I recently bought a party dress in a bright print and they decided I should pick out the apple green by wearing hose of that shade. A pair of these "wet" stockings, which are $1 a pair, were their Mother's Day gift. These non-stretch stockings come in a sizzling orange, shocking pink and sunny daffodil shades as well as the green I wear. They are perfect for parties.

The grandmothers in our family came in for some bright presents this year as well. The children chose for each of them a lined chiffon scarf costing $5. These scarves are printed in designs using all the colors of the rainbow. The main color in each pattern is picked out for a lining. Made in France, these scarves make an attractive gift for any occasion.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where these items may be found.

DEAR ABBY . . .

It's Girl's Choice About Adoption

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I believe that unwed mothers should be forced by law to place their children for adoption. Unmarried mothers are emotionally disturbed, and they feel that it will add to their guilt feelings to "abandon" their children by adoption, and that will create more censure by other people. So the unmarried mother attempts to assuage her guilt feelings by becoming a "martyr" and keeping her child to raise.

She finds out too late that the little fertilized egg is not a toy doll, but a searching, screaming, demanding, expensive little person. The young mother, because of her burdensome responsibilities and cooped-up life, is likely to make the same mistake again. This is not theory—the records speak for themselves.

While the girls of today well understand the mechanics of sex, they know less than their grandmothers did about the psychology of the male, which explains why the predatory male, who does not have access to the outlawed facilities of the red light district, is able to persuade some "nice" girl to behave like an alley cat and ruin the lives of herself and her family.

REALISTIC.

DEAR "REALISTIC": Your first sweeping generalization that "all unmarried mothers are emotionally disturbed" is absurd. From the thousands of letters I have received from girls in trouble, I have concluded that very few were "persuaded" by a predatory male to behave like an "alley cat." They are mostly nice girls who thought they were "in love' and were going to get married anyway, or girls who became too intimate, too soon with a boy who wanted too much and had too little control. This is not a case in favor of unmarried mothers keeping their illegitimate children—that remains, as it should, a personal matter.

DEAR ABBY: Our only daughter is to be married in three weeks, and my husband has the "jitters."

It will be a small, informal church wedding. My husband wants me to walk down the aisle on the other side of our daughter because he's afraid he might break down and cry if he walks down the aisle alone to give her away. We have always done everything together, and if he needs me for moral support I don't think I should let him down.

We have heard this is done in Jewish ceremonies but we are Methodists. When we asked our minister about this, he laughed at us and said he had never heard of such a thing. I would like your views.

DADDY'S PAL.

DEAR PAL: If your daughter is being married in the church you had better take your cues from the minister who will perform the ceremony. But he shouldn't laugh. I am told that in the Old World orthodox Jewish marriage ritual it was traditional for the bride to be escorted by both her parents.

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column in which a father badgered his five-year-old son to "act like a little man," interested me.

Why must a five-year-old act like a "little man"? What's wrong with his acting like a five-year-old child? Which is what he is.

As a psychoanalyst, I know that many of my patients' problems began when they were prodded by impatient parents to "act like a little man" at the age of four or five. They couldn't, of course, so having failed, they felt guilty for disappointing their parents.

Please, Abby, advise young parents to take heed. Children will—and should—act like children.

Even men aren't immune to the trend of fashion designers to hark back to the old days. Here is a Jantzen swim suit that is reminiscent of the fisticuff king John L. Sullivan and Chester Conklin. Milady, with the addition of a bikini, is right in the swim with the new trend to the old.

Women Could Win a Waistline And Lose Their Lien on Equality

By ELIZABETH BENNETT

Does the return of the waist herald the end of emancipated women?

My grandmother can speak with pride of the day when she sported an 18-inch waist a man could circle with his hands.

The last time my husband tried that trick with me he almost sprained his wrist. He never did succeed.

The fashion moguls are reaching back into the past to set the styles for the future.

Just a few years ago designers were looking to a future of paper and metallic mesh clothing. They were titivating mini-dresses with electric strips that demanded portable power-packs and speculating on what the girl of the future would wear on a trip to the moon.

The result was the form-fitting tunic seen on such space-oriented shows as "Lost in Space" and "Startrek."

But right in the middle of this, designers began to look back in time for their inspiration—first to the days of Dr. Zhivago, where they seemed to find the midi-dress, then to Bonnie Parker and Scarlet O'Hara.

Why? And in a paranoid frenzy I find the answer: The designer knows something I don't know.

It becomes more and more clear to me that the designers have foreseen the end of emancipated women.

It's not just the waist, it is the longer skirts as well. It is the insidious invitation to return to the graceful look and styles of our grandmothers.

So with an eye to preparing for the future I dipped into the past.

My time-machine was a women's fashion magazine from the summer of 1905. When I cautiously opened it in the middle I came across an article on "Making and Finishing a Bathing Suit."

No thanks! That attractive tucked bathing dress took 10 yards of material—and that didn't include the jaunty sailor collar. The recommended materials were waterproof silk (very expensive) or, failing that, mohair. And, of course, a corset underneath!

That is another thing, those corsets! Women of 65 years ago were convinced that the corsets that kept them in the hour-glass shape (literally) also kept them in health.

The corsets gave no support to the "fleshy parts" which were tactfully ignored but would "naturally throw your chest forward, shoulders back and cause you to stand erect—thus broadening the chest, expanding the lungs and strengthening the heart and stomach."

I don't believe it.

And who would be making the beruffled, floor-length, tiny-waisted dresses that went over those corsets? You and me, the housewives, of course.

The article on making a bathing suit is topped by a touching picture of milady preening in front of a mirror with her loyal dressmaker at her feet, but that article was directed at the housewife. That means you and me.

There is practically no mention in the whole magazine of the working woman. All the work went on inside the home.

After all, with 11 or 12 yards of dress to carry around it was all they could do to drag through the housework. Perhaps because of this my magazine even includes an article on how to survive the summer by cooling "the hot blood which is pulsing through your body."

Ugh and double ugh.

Fellow wives—I urge you to spurn all midi-dresses. Let your comfortable waists stay hidden in tents and shifts.

Remember, most dress designers are men.

A New You by Emily Wilkens

IN THE "NEW YOU" MAIL-BAG

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

Views on Eyes

In a recent article you stated that eye cream should never be left on overnight because it will make your eyes puffy. I have just started using an eye cream and noticed that the directions specified leaving it on overnight. Since my eyes are very sensitive I want to be especially cautious. I'm a bit confused.

S.T

I suggest that you apply the cream and blot off gently with a tissue after 10 or 15 minutes. This still leaves just the thinnest film to keep the area moist but eliminates the possibility of too much cream "disturbing" the hair follicles of the eyelashes, which can cause puffiness. Incidentally, if the eye cream bothers you try castor oil, a non-allergenic lubricant recommended by many plastic surgeons.

In the Stretch

In the past few months the undersides of my thighs have become very rough and almost feel "goosefleshy." I usually wear stretch pants around the house and for marketing. I can't understand why this should happen since my legs aren't exposed to "the elements." I've tried smoothing on hand lotion but it isn't really helping. What causes this condition and how can I correct it?

M.G.

Your trouble may very well be caused specifically by the stretch pants!

For one thing, the elastic fabric can be somewhat abrasive.

Secondly, the fact that your legs are "snugly" covered may be causing your sweat glands to act up. Switch to skirts for a while.

When bathing, scrub thoroughly with a loofah sponge or rough wash cloth using a superfatted soap. Follow through with a thorough application of lanolin or an emollient cream.

Two for the Money

Can a deodorant lose its effectiveness after a time? I've been using the same brand for about a year, but it just doesn't seem to work well anymore. In fact, the skin of the underarm area has become exceedingly dry.

J.L.

Since one can become immune to deodorants and-or anti-perspirants, it is very wise to switch brands now and again. Moreover, if you use a cream type deodorant (particularly when you're wearing a dress with sleeves) it will help eliminate the dryness. Make a point of alternating between cream and liquid products and I think you'll overcome this problem.

Neck Knack

I do a great deal of typing and consequently seem to have a chronic stiff neck. Can you recommend a Yoga exercise for this?

B.F.

Try this neck stretch (to relieve tension) several times during the day:

1.—Sit comfortably, spine erect.

2.—Roll head around to right shoulder. Hold five seconds, keep chin high.

3.—Slowly bend head forward and let chin rest against chest. Hold five seconds.

4.—Slowly roll and twist head to extreme left. Hold five seconds.

5.—Slowly roll and twist head to extreme back and hold five seconds.

6.—Then raise head slowly. Perform movement three times clockwise and three times counterclockwise.

SGRAFFITI WORK entitled "Figure" will be on view at one-man show by local artist Herbert Siebner. Exhibition opens Friday at Pandora's Box.

Wall-Scratching Artist Opening One-Man Show

By KATHRINE THOMAS

An unusual exhibition of sgraffiti by well-known Victoria artist Herbert Siebner will be on view at Pandora's Box Gallery, 1208 Wharf St., Friday, May 17 to June 6.

Explaining the sgraffito approach, Mr. Siebner described it as a "mainly scratching, carving mural technique.

"Many of the pieces in the show are a combination of sgraffito and encaustic, a term which entails heating wax with color into the surface."

The show has already been exhibited in Ottawa and Vancouver but a number of recent works not previously on view have been included.

Mr. Siebner has been working with sgraffito for many years — one of his murals has been designed for the new provincial museum.

The works have many different forms — some can be used as plaques, some are semi-sculpture and some sgraffiti figures carved into a stone surface.

Mother Rock

One huge piece that weighs nearly 250 pounds, Mr. Siebner calls a "mother stone — you can lean on to it."

The approach is "mainly linear in a technique that combines graphics, sculpture and painting.

"I like the combination," Mr. Siebner says. "It satisfies all three images — painter, sculptor and graphic artist.

"Particularly attractive is the durability of the material. You can use it out of doors, in the garden or as a hanging object."

Mr Siebner expressed the hope that in the future architects would use sgraffiti in connection with buildings — a sculptured wall for example.

European

"It has been used in Europe a great deal," Mr. Siebner says, "on the surface of many walls — modern buildings in particular."

"Architects so often use their own means of wall decoration, trying to replace the painter or sculptor. They get expensive mosaics, but it's only a pattern, it doesn't express anything."

Mr. Siebner feels the opportunity given a number of artists to design for the provincial museum is a start in the right direction.

"Incisive"

Describing Siebner's show, Tony Emery, director of the Vancouver Art Gallery, has said: "It is Siebner's creativity and above all his formal inventiveness that compels the attention; his incisive line, in particular, binds and shapes and sings all the time, enclosing and liberating the forms as it imprints the image indelibly on the memory.

"His perennial theme has been and continues to be a humanistic one: man and woman in all their aspects and relationships, spiritual, physical, psychological, spatial and social.

"This theme has been and carried from time to time by a variety of symbols, the centaur, pneumatic fertility figure ... of late he has been working, in a combination of sgraffito and encaustic, on plaques which embody a new symbol — the flying man.

Prof. Emery continues: "Apart from its obvious and superficial reference to the terrestrial and extraterrestrial flight of the space age, it is clear that Siebner's airborne figures are quite literally embarked on a flight of fancy: their flat, floating forms are paradigms for the spirit of man and the ability of that spirit to travel freely and to communicate with other spirits across the space that intervenes or interposes itself between one entity and another.

Prof. Emery concludes that "looking at his work only the most voguish and shallow observer could deny that he deserves an important place on the walls of one of pictorial art's many mansions."

Grass and Incense Mentioned in Court

Five bags of "green-grass-like material" were introduced as evidence Tuesday in the preliminary hearing of two men charged with possession of marijuana for the purposes of trafficking.

Daniel Headdy and Rolland Lock, of Summerland, have elected trial by judge without a jury.

Court was told Saanich police stopped a car containing the accused and two girls on Douglas Street April 21. The car smelled of incense, they said.

When the four persons were brought to the police station Headdy produced the green plant-like material which was wrapped in a large plastic sheet. Police said there was also a match box containing green seeds.

The hearing continues Friday.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

U.S. Control Fear of NDP Candidate

Domination by the United States, not national unity, is the most important problem facing Canada, the federal NDP candidate for Victoria claimed Tuesday night.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, a scientist with the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich, was chosen officially at a nomination convention in Sir James Douglas auditorium.

Dr. Richardson said the nation must create programs to prevent economic and political integration with the U.S. by default.

He said a government-controlled capital resources fund to provide financing and guide investment in Canadian development is needed.

He added that Victoria would be a natural site for encouragement of scientific research industries that are needed by the country at large.

"It is a ridiculous situation when your young people must go to America to find employment," he said.

"We go to the trouble to educate our young people and then they have to help our competitors on world markets in order to find employment."

Grace MacInnis, seeking re-election in Vancouver-Kingsway as an NDP MP, told the meeting that the party would make inroads into both Liberal and Conservative strength in the June 25 election.

And Lloyd Brereton, Victoria NDP campaign manager, claimed the Social Credit decision not to contest Victoria would help the NDP because "many people vote Social Credit provincially and NDP federally."

Cyclone Toll Climbs

AKYAB, Burma (Reuters)—Burma's cyclone death toll rose to 837 Tuesday as government relief parties pushed into five towns along the devastated Bay of Bengal coast. The parties said the figure represents the dead from only five towns.

Defections Spark Marathon Debate

Ministers' Actions Shake Newfoundland Grit Govt.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's Liberal government, severely shaken Tuesday by two cabinet defections, got a confidence vote from the legislature early today after a marathon debate on economic policy and Premier Joseph Smallwood's leadership.

The vote at 2:20 a.m. NDT ended a nine-hour, emotion-charged debate in which 39 of the legislature's 42 members spoke. Liberal members voted solidly against four Conservatives and the two defectors to carry the motion 28-6.

Two lawyers brought into the cabinet under a wholesale rejuvenation prior to the 1966 provincial election bolted government ranks to sit as independent Liberals.

They were Health Minister John Crosbie (L—St. John's West), 37, and Clyde Wells (L—Humber East), 30, a minister without portfolio.

Mr. Crosbie had been regarded by political observers here as a fast-rising star in the Smallwood cabinet and a possible successor to the 67-year-old leader. Mr. Wells was a former labor minister.

They said at a news conference they disagree with fundamental government economic development policy. Most recently, this involved a planned $5,000,000 fund for interim financing of an oil refinery to be built at Come-By-Chance, 90 miles west of here.

Their announcements followed by about an hour a statement from the premier that he had called for Mr. Crosbie's resignation from the cabinet.

ACCUSES CROSBIE

The premier released a letter to Mr. Crosbie which charged him with being disloyal and trying to use his political office to further the business interests of his family.

Mr. Crosbie said in a letter of resignation that he found "there is only one master" in the provincial cabinet. "The views of one man, yourself, must always prevail."

Mr. Crosbie denied in the legislature "unspeakable" allegations that he tried to acquire government contracts for his family's firms or to block the Come-By-Chance project when he couldn't get contracts from it.

He suggested such charges were "an attempt to destroy me" and said he would fight such attempts. He would seek an inquiry unlesss the charges are withdrawn.

Mr. Wells was not asked to resign. He gave similar reasons for his decision to do so. He also objected to the legislation before the house to permit the cabinet to lend up to $5,000,000 to Newfoundland Refining Ltd., backed by John Shaheen of New York. It was unnecessary and there was no protection for this public money if the project failed, he said.

Both former ministers said Newfoundland needs formal economic planning along the lines recommended by a royal commission on economic prospects in its report handed to the government in February.

DEFEND PREMIER

A parade of government members defended the development policies and the premier against "innuendo" that he was a dictator. Many of them said development often involves gambles which must be taken.

The premier said the actions of the two would unite the party which had grown complacent in Newfoundland after six consecutive election wins. Liberals would be angry and every Liberal voter would be out to vote in the June 25 federal election.

Mr. Smallwood said he had been warned two years ago he would "have trouble with John Crosbie" because the latter was "strong-minded, strong-willed and politically ambitious . . . but I thought I'd be a match for him."

He said there were two precedents for Mr. Wells' resignation —his association as president of the provincial Young Liberals several years ago and his relinquishing after only a few months the labor portfolio he was given in 1966.

"Now he has three scalps hanging from his belt. . . . I don't think his mind is settled," Mr. Smallwood said.

The premier didn't understand why the ministers left the government side of the legislature completely.

He said Mr. Crosbie knew before he entered the cabinet that the government's broad development policy was: "We'll develop her come hell or high water."

Civic Pay Boost

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city's 1,300 inside civic workers were given a 6.65 per cent pay increase by city council Tuesday. The inside workers' union had decided to take a strike vote if council did not accept the increase recommended in a conciliation board report. Total wage increases for all civic employees this year will total $2,000,000.

Heart Transplant No. 12 Dies of Earlier Ailments

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — John Stuckwish, the world's 12th heart transplant patient, died Tuesday night. Doctors said ailments existing prior to surgery caused his death.

Stuckwish, 62, who received his new heart May 7 at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, underwent the third heart transplant operation in five days at the hospital.

Surgeons said he was dying when they implanted the heart of a 32-year-old welder, whose death was ruled a homicide.

Hospital administrator Newell France said:

"Mr. Stuckwish, ill on admission to St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, improved following the heart transplant but not sufficiently to overcome the diseased processes existing prior to surgery.

"The total cardiac performance remained excellent throughout the post-operative course.

"Death is attributed to progressive liver failure with deepening jaundice and extension of his pre-existing peripheral arterial disease."

VINYL MAPS BEAT MOISTURE HAZARD

By ALAN WHITE

On Stan Williamson's map, Victoria is underneath the side-plate beside the cereal bowl.

The rest of southeastern British Columbia is spread across the breakfast table.

Sounds like a strange place for a map? Well, it was until Mr. Williamson put seven years of thinking into action and began producing vinyl maps of the province.

He's been advertising them since October as tablecloths, great for teaching the kids geography. They just sit there looking over the map instead of looking boredly around the room—and learn the geography of their province.

But that isn't why he started making the maps. Originally, the idea was to produce a map the hunter couldn't get wet and soggy.

Fed up with wet and torn maps during frequent fishing expeditions throughout B.C., Mr. Williamson hit on his notion and began studying it.

LONG RESEARCH

He went to libraries and spent weeks reading about silkscreen (painting designs through a screen of silk) process.

Vinyl and ballpoint pen ink are both the same basic material, he thought, so why not bring them together?

He went to firms that used the process to see if they could get the accuracy he wanted. There is a shrinkage of the silk used for patterns, and this would take away the accuracy of the maps.

Finally Mr. Williamson developed his own process—unequalled in the industry for fineness.

His maps aren't like others that have been printed, in one color and out of scale. He worked from the beginning with the B.C. department of recreation and has reproduced faithfully their own survey maps.

And to top it all off, he's added some small lakes and roads into fishing spots that he knows about himself.

"I'm always looking for suggestions or new roads to add on . . . the province is much too large for me to find all these roads."

In addition, he has marked all campsites in the areas covered by the maps and indexed them.

APPROVED MAP

After selling out his metal manufacturing business and researching his idea for years, he now has a map approved by the province that won't fall apart when its dropped in the water.

It can be wiped clean, or put through the washing machine. The only things that might mar the finish are strong cleansers or bleach.

Mr. Williamson hopes to have maps covering the central and northern parts of B.C. into production by next fall. And soon after that to be turning out accurate copies of navigation charts.

The whole enterprise was a matter of persistence, from the time the idea first occured to him until the first map was turned out.

He used to carry maps in his travel trailer, spread on the table and covered with a sheet of clear plastic. One day the plastic slipped off the table unnoticed and someone spilled coffee over his maps.

"It hit me then that I could use plastic for the maps themselves."

Once he had developed his technique for accuracy—it is still a close secret—he was turned down by all the silk screen processors he talked to.

DUMPED IN STREAM

He began to think of dropping the whole idea—until a bridge fell from under him on a fishing trip and dumped his jeep into a stream: The only thing open was his mapcase.

"I said then 'I'll get this son-of-a-gun on the road.' "

He did. He formed Open Trails Industries Ltd. of New Westminster.

He has the maps, and vinyl fish and animals he has designed, on display at the Jaycee fair this week.

And two local stores picked them up to sell after seeing them at the fair.

PM Seeks Early Meeting Of Constitution Advisers

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau wants the federal-provincial constitution committee of senior advisers to hold its first meeting here by the end of the month or in early June, informants said Tuesday.

They said Mr. Trudeau wrote the provinces within a week after taking over from former prime minister Pearson asking them to name their representative to the committee and to agree to a date for its first session.

Five provinces are said to have agreed to Mr. Trudeau's plan. They are Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

The decision to set up the committee of senior advisers was made at the February federal-provincial conference on the constitution.

Other committees also were agreed upon to help in a far reaching review of the British North America Act, in effect Canada's constitution.

It was agreed that the review should include division of powers, possible reform of the Senate and the Supreme Court of Canada, and the status of the two official languages.

The idea behind the meeting of senior advisers is that it will pave the way for a meeting of premiers in Ottawa toward the end of the year.

Gordon Robertson, 50, secretary to the cabinet and thus Ottawa's top-ranking civil servant, was named federal representative on the committee.

Canada Prepares Germ War Shield

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Archie Pennie, deputy chairman of operations for the Defence Research Board, says Canada has antidotes for known nerve gases and other chemical and biological warfare agents.

He said in an interview that Canadian scientists here and at the board's 1,000-square-mile station at Suffield, Alta., are working to improve the antidotes so that they are more effective, quicker-acting and with fewer side effects.

Nearly all of this research is conducted in co-operation with the United States and Britain though Canada has done some pioneering on antidotes for biological and chemical warfare agents.

To find antidotes, scientists of the Defence Research Board must work with "live" nerve gases and similar agents which attack humans, animals and crops.

Mr. Pennie, a former chief of the Suffield station, stressed that "live" agents are confined to laboratories and are never used in field trials.

"It could never happen here," Mr. Pennie said of the recent incident near Dugway proving ground in Utah when 6,000 sheep were killed by faulty discharge of liquid nerve gas.

USE SIMULANTS

He said field tests are conducted at Suffield but with simulants only. A simulant could be as simple as colored rainwater.

The simulants are used to test equipment such as gas mask and protective clothing.

Mr. Pennie said Canada has no offensive capability in the field of germ warfare. It held no stocks of chemical and biological warfare agents.

He said Canada's work in this field is purely defensive.

Defence department officials have disclosed that Canadian troops on peacekeeping jobs for the United Nations are equipped with tear gas, now known as "riot" gas.

However, this gas had never been used and in any event it would be employed only as a defensive measure, they said.

Mr. Pennie said that in the research laboratories at Suffield there are ampules of antidotes close at hand for any scientist who might be exposed to "live" chemical or biological agents.

Voting Reports Raise Eyebrows

Children Marking Ballots At Tory, Grit Nominations?

OTTAWA (CP) — Reports of children and outsiders casting ballots in local nominating meetings have raised some eyebrows here, but both Liberal and Conservative officials say they have no plans to clamp down.

Only the NDP of the three largest parties has country-wide regulations on voting eligibility. The Liberals and Conservatives traditionally have left this to the riding association to a large extent.

The NDP has a minimum age of 18 years.

"We try to keep the teeny-boppers within the youth groups," says the party's federal secretary, Cliff Scotton.

Senator Richard Stanbury, president of the National Liberal Federation, says his party has pressed local associations to adopt age and residence restrictions and most have done so.

But the federation can't "move in" on those who have not, he says.

"It's true that some ridings will mess up the situation. But our attitude is that if we had central control it would only be messed up by experts.

BLAME 'AMATEUR'

"We'd just as soon the amateurs messed it up."

Malcolm Wickson, Conservative national director, says his party provides a draft constitution for local associations but does not require that it be followed.

The draft includes a stipulation that members must be residents of the riding, but Mr. Wickson said he did not know how many ridings have adopted this point.

There is no mention of an age limit.

"It has never really been a problem—you don't normally get eight- or nine-year-olds turning up wanting to vote."

Should the regulations be changed?

"Not unless we get a problem with it—and we don't seem to have that yet."

But it was ridiculous for children to vote or for busloads of outsiders to be brought in, he said.

"It's fair ball to go out in your own riding and sell as many memberships as you can and bring these people in to vote for you.

BETTER ORGANIZED

"If you do that you probably deserve to be the candidate because you're better organized."

Senator Stanbury said he believed a great majority of local Liberal associations have adopted residence restrictions—although some allow a small percentage of outside memberships.

Many also had rules stipulating that those voting in a nominating rally must have been members for two weeks or for a longer period.

The Liberal organization in Ontario has set out minimum standards in some areas, including holding membership for a minimum of 48 hours before voting.

But there were no firm requirements on age or residence.

Mr. Scotton said the NDP requires that voters be registered members of the party before the date of the nomination convention. Members of a union affiliated to the party may also vote if they register with local constituency officials three months before the nominating date.

However, only those who actually live in a constituency can vote in that constituency's NDP nominating convention.

TITLE MEET FOR SURFERS ON WEEKEND

There's action of a different sort this weekend at Wreck Bay, situated approximately two miles south of Long Beach on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Several Australians, South Africans and local representatives of the West Coast Surfing Club vie for honors in the annual Canadian west coast surfing championships held over three days.

Jim Sadler, defending senior men's champion from Long Beach, is expected to have a lot more competition this year than ever before.

Ex-Governor Turns Down Passport

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Patrick Crawford, a former British colonial governor stripped of his British passport, rejected Tuesday night a government offer to give it back to him if he denounced the Rhodesian government as illegal.

His refusal was announced by Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson during a noisy Commons debate in which the Opposition Conservatives condemned the government for seizing the passport.

The government said last week it confiscated Sir Frederick's passport because he supported the government of Premier Ian Smith in the breakaway British colony.

Crawford, 62, governor of Uganda from 1956 to 1961, is resident director in Rhodesia of the Anglo-American Corp. of South Africa, a mining and finance group.

Priests Injured

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) A 15-foot high temporary bleachers collapsed at the Catholic youth centre here Tuesday, throwing 224 Catholic priests to the floor and injuring many of them. Estimates from clergymen at the scene were that between 10 and 20 were hospitalized.

NOVA SCOTIA AREAS

Rum Is Popular Bribe for Votes

HALIFAX (CP) — While some politicians proclaim the value of massive publicity campaigns and setting the proper image, elections are still fought with quarts of rum and $5 bills in some parts of Nova Scotia.

The provincial Conservative and Liberal associations say they do not condone the use of such inducements, but they do not deny it happens on the constituency level. The New Democratic Party is opposed to it.

The usual inducement is a quart of rum, but some people have asked parties in exchange for their vote, for jobs, mattresses, driveway gravel, clothing, loads of wood.

Not long ago, people asked for loads of coal and, in 1965 federal election campaign, one voter asked for a furnace, new or used, for his new bungalow. The ladies are offered stockings and chocolates.

John Shaffner of Berwick, N.S., provincial president of the Liberal Association, said he is "violently" opposed to the practice of offering inducements.

But he said it is not the sort of thing that can be stopped by giving an order.

"You have to work at it, carrying it through all channels to the constituency level. It is one thing to say it, but another to do it."

Maurice Flemming, provincial Conservative party president, said his party did not condone it, but added that it occurs in both parties during election campaigns.

He said he wondered if bribery could be eliminated along with Senate and judicial appointments as political inducements.

Dr. James Aitchison, provincial leader of the NDP said his party is opposed to the use of such inducements.

Political inducements have no place in a democratic society, he said.

"If I were education minister of the province, one of the first things I'd do would be ensure that children at an early age in school would be taught to abhor such practices."

In at least one Nova Scotia riding, Annapolis Valley, officials of both parties are making efforts to cut out the practice.

Donald F. Ripley, a vice-president of the provincial Liberal Association, said in an article in the Kentville, N.S., Advertiser May 9 that the practice occurs in his party.

Buying votes is ridiculous, he said. The party has no way of knowing how someone votes after they are paid.

The night the article was published, J. Patrick Nowlan, Conservative candidate for Annapolis Valley, challenged the Liberals to meet with his workers to stop the use of inducements.

Mr. Ripley said he called the Conservative officials and they agreed to a meeting. He said no date has yet been set.

Even if a meeting is not held with the Conservatives, his party will not use inducements in this election, Mr. Ripley said.

He said he thought Annapolis Valley was one of the worst areas of Nova Scotia for the use of inducements. He would like to "see the people get their dander up and say 'we won't stand for this.'"

107 Candidates In Bermuda Vote

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Bermuda's voters will choose among 107 candidates for 40 parliamentary seats May 22 in the British colony's first general election under one-man, one-vote rules.

Qualifiers were announced Tuesday. The campaign has been proceeding quietly following rioting April 25-26 attributed to youths complaining of "police brutality" and top jobs going to immigrants.

The end of a weighted system which gave property owners two votes each is expected to help the predominantly Negro Progressive Labor party, which advocates independence and an end to British immigration.

Performer Has Bag Full of Acts

By ALAN WHITE

Earl Grant was worried about his thraot when The Times caught up with him Tuesday.

He had just returned from doing a live radio show at 8 and was waiting for breakfast in his hotel room. Following this interview, a television crew wanted him for a show.

Mr. Grant sings in his act and wanted his throat to be in good shape for his first show at 4.15.

"I want to rest it to be in good shape for my audience."

But with a smile he said: "Sit down. You can ask me questions while I'm eating."

The obvious question first — how did he find the audience reception at his first two shows at the Jaycee fair?

WONDERFUL PEOPLE

"The people were wonderful. They were ready for me last night."

Most of the audience was standing in the centre of Memorial Arena for the show.

"They were more responsive, because they're casual and ready for anything I do."

Mr. Grant had been in town only one day, and already wanted to come back. He plays Vancouver every year but had never made it across the Strait.

He came here from a five-week tour of Australia. In a week or so he heads down the coast to San Diego to start another tour.

He has been travelling on the professional circuit that way for 10 years — tour after tour with a week or so off in between.

"And that doesn't count the lean years.

"I like to remember them . . . they were lots of fun."

This MA student in music (University of Southern California) and ex-high school teacher has gone a long way on his unmatched talent at the Hammond organ.

One of 16 children of a minister father, he was brought up playing the piano by his musical parents.

LEARN, DISCIPLINE

The size of his family alone has given him something — "you learn to get along, share and discipline yourself."

And the upbringing also helped.

"My father had a great philosophy that's helped me in show business — keep an open mind to all people.

"Prejudice — I know it's there — but I don't let it be part of me because that would hurt my art."

"I like the nightclub act. There you are dealing with people and can bring something across to them."

He began his musical career on the piano as a basic instrument. He then began playing the organ — for which he is now most famous — in church meetings.

"I have a more secure feeling with the piano in my background. I studied both instruments very sensitively . . . I had a classical background."

But when he moved to the Hammond from the church organ, he upset his teacher.

"He asked me 'You're not going to play that, are you?' "

FOLLOWING

Of course, he stayed with the Hammond — the only organ he will play for his show — and built up a world-wide following.

He received his BA in music in 1951 and taught high school for a few years — social studies and music.

"I even taught chemistry for a day.

"I told them it wouldn't work, and one of the students proved it for them the first day. I went back to teaching social studies."

He took his MA in 1956.

All the training and hard work — church work, church school, teaching, even playing the organ for weddings and funerals — he connects in explaining the success of his show.

"They were all a help . . . It was a good background and I put all these things into my act.

"I know how to go out and reach that audience."

And audiences of all ages have stood enraptured by his performance on stage at the fair. This Mr. Grant puts down to a simple fact about audiences:

"Basically, psychologically, everybody likes good music, likes a melody.

Most young people brought up on rock and roll have never heard an organ played the way Mr. Grant plays it. They like it when they finally do.

And they're going to hear a lot more of the same if they get back to the fair before Saturday night. Mr. Grant has a whole selection of separate acts.

"I'm going to change every day — I've only got one week here and I want to give them a bit of everything."

4-H Project Judging Thursday

Judging of projects of 18 4-H clubs will continue at the Jaycee fair Thursday.

Preliminary judging — of garden products, beef, goats and poultry — was conducted today.

Dairy cattle, sheep, home arts and tractor displays will be judged from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Thursday, at the agricultural tents just north of Memorial Arena.

Visitors have been wandering through the displays for two days looking at the animals. And toddlers in tow have been enthralled by the young in many of the pens.

Along with lambs and kids, exhibitors have entered geese with their fuzzy yellow goslings, hens with their young, ducklings and kittens.

Next to the animal tent the poultry and game birds from Monday's judging are still on display. Here are every variety of chicken, duck and goose.

The game birds — many of them exotic breeds of pheasant — present a stunning array of reds, blues, yellows and golds.

Scrambles Event Carded Monday

Sports fans seeking something new for holiday viewing might try a Monday visit to the Albert Head army camp, where the Victoria Motorcycle Club will hold its annual Victoria Day scrambles event.

Top-calibre competition is on the menu, with riders from mainland and Up-Island areas scheduled to compete for honors against aces from the host club.

Skids and wheelstands start Monday at 2 p.m. in the meet, sanctioned by the Canadian Motorcycle Club.

FOR FESTIVAL FUNDS

Schools Offer Comedies

A special presentation of two plays by Victoria and Oak Bay Senior Secondary Schools will be given Thursday at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior Secondary auditorium.

The plays are the tongue-in-cheek comedy, A Resounding Tinkle, by N. F. Simpson, directed by Bert Farr for Victoria Secondary, and The Lesson, a bizarre comedy by Eugene Ionesco, directed by Phyllis Dulmage for Oak Bay.

Selected as among the top four at this year's Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival by adjudicator Richard Courtney, they are being performed Thursday to raise money for the two teams' trip to Vancouver to participate in the British Columbia Secondary Schools festival finals.

The finals will be held at Metro Theatre Centre, May 20 and 21. Others participating will include groups from Fort Nelson, Kamloops, Vancouver and the Cowichan Valley.

Adjudicator will be Martin Jenkins, BBC producer and former assistant director of th the Royal Shakespeare Company, who is Summer Theatre Workshop co-ordinator at University of Victoria for the second successive year.

In the casts of the two Victoria plays are best actor award winners Barry Flatman, Ian Pool and Janet Yellowlees and Janet Purcell, Joanne Lundy and Annette Readshaw.

Tickets will be available at the door.

BEATLES CUT OUT ON MAHARISHI

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Two of the Beatles, John Lennon and Paul McCartney, said Tuesday their recent involvement with the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi was "a mistake."

"He was human—for a while we thought he was not," McCartney told a press conference here.

The Maharishi is an Indian mystic whom the four pop-singing Beatles visited at his retreat in the Himalayas in February for a course in "transcendental meditation."

The Beatles' statement came as they introduced a new international company called Apple Corps Ltd. which will sponsor unknown literary, graphic and performing artists.

HOME GARDEN

'Cool' Plants Gradually

By HILDA BEASTALL

The home gardener who is raising geraniums and tuberous begonias for outside planting will be wanting to put the plants outdoors. Since they have been raised in the house, or in a greenhouse, the plants will be well advanced and it may seem logical that they are big enough to go into planters or into borders.

Hilda

We must remember, however, that the home temperature at night is usually above 60 degs. F., while outdoors during the last nights ground-level thermometers have registered lows between 31 and 38 degs. F.

If the plants are in an unheated greenhouse with vents partly open at night, and all vents and doors wide open from early morning, the begonias and geraniums will be in a better condition for putting out.

In either case, the pots should be stood outside during the day to get them accustomed to wind movement over the leaves.

The first thing noticeable is that they will require watering perhaps twice during the day if in small pots. On overcast nights, the plants can be left outside unless frost is expected at dawn.

Taking them in and out for a few days will soon prove whether indoor temperatures have been too high. If growth is soft and weak it will become limp, and there's not much to do except cut down on water, keep in strong light, out of wind and in a cool temperature.

If the plants are strong, gradually get them used to outdoors. By the end of the month, it should be safe to put them out permanently.

After spending the summer outdoors tuberous begonias and geraniums will take several light frosts without flinching, but not in spring when their growth is soft from indoor living.

YOUR HEALTH

Shingle Pain Troublesome

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In almost every mail I get letters from unhappy elderly people who say that they have gone a year now after an attack of shingles, and still they are suffering much pain. They wonder what they can do to get relief.

Alvarez

As most people know, shingles is a layman's word for a row of little blisters—a row which follows the course of a nerve that runs from the spine down between two ribs. When the trouble occurs in other parts of the body, it is called herpes. Sometimes it comes on the side of the face and in rare cases it attacks the eyeball. Fortunately, today we have a good drug which tends to protect the eyeball.

Many people ask what their shingles are due to, and the answer is that they are due to the virus of chicken pox. Some men today suspect that people who had chicken pox in their youth have kept the virus in their body until they get elderly and then the virus started growing again, and made the row of blisters. The impression is that the virus has damaged the ganglion (node on the nerve) perhaps alongside the spinal cord.

What is curious is that when a young person gets shingles, the little blisters generally dry up in 10 days, and that is the end of the trouble, except for the fact that the blisters can leave scars. But unfortunately, in older people, after the blisters heal, the person can go on having miserable pain for a year or more, and there is nothing curative that we doctors know of. Because the disease is apparently in the spinal cord or even in the brain, it is useless to cut out the scarred skin or to cut the nerve to this bit of skin. That has been tried many times, but it does no good.

Today, about all we know to do is to give pain-relieving drugs. I have found Percodan is an excellent one. Some doctors are afraid of it because it is related to codeine, but the funny thing about that is that in my 63 years of experience I have never seen anyone with a codeine habit. Some people even hate codeine because it makes them jittery and badly constipated. Actually, I have been prescribing Percodan for some two years now, and I have not seen any sign of addiction. What I do in these cases is to give the person three or four pain relievers and have him shift from one to another so as not to run any risk of an addiction.

Sea Dogs Evicted From Dock

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor's $2,600-a-week floating kennel was kicked out of its mooring besides the Thames River today.

The Port of London Authority ordered the $500,000 yacht Beatriz away from the Tower of London pier where the actress and husband Richard Burton have been keeping their four dogs.

The authority wants the space for itself and is also fed up with jokes about "going into the kennel business."

"We're pretty broadminded, but enough's enough," said a port official.

The Burtons rented the white yacht so their two Pekingese and two Yorkshire terriers wouldn't have to go into quarantine for six months, required of all animals landing in Britain.

The Burtons stayed at the Dorchester Hotel and visited their pets frequently.

The Beatriz, which is rented, was moved to an anchorage in the river, and the Burtons will now have to take a small boat out to their dogs.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Sandra Williams, age 10, of Asheville, North Carolina, for her question:

How are baby rattlers nourished?

Mrs. Rattlesnake gives birth to a litter of live babies and her sprightly infants are ready to cope with life within the hour. They are born with built-in complete rattlesnake education. Mama doess not have to teach them a thing. Kindergarten training, class instruction and learning under guidance are not required courses.

Herpetologists classify more than 20 species of rattlesnake and all of them are native New Worlders. They range from southern Canada way south to Uruguay and each species favors a large or small territory that may be hot or cool, dry or tropical. All of them belong to the minority group of snakes that bear live babies. Nature's birthing events are always wondrous and the rattlesnake maternity procedure is no exception. Motherhood begins at the age of two-and a-half to three years, and thereafter Mrs. Rattler may bear 20 litters, one each year of her life.

Rattlers, like all other animal species, have their own notions of family life. When they are active, togetherness does not appeal to them and most of their lives are spent in solitary independence. However, nature decrees that they must pair off and get together when time comes to hand on life. Mr. Rattler comes courting in the spring. Mrs. Rattler carries her developing embryos through the summer and usually gives birth in early fall. As her time approaches, she is restless but when the birthing begins she is calm.

Seeks Out Food

Each baby rattler is born neatly encased in a membrane that looks like a sheath of transparent polyethelene. The mother twists her snaky body to help him emerge and then usually rests a while before the next youngster makes his debut. There may be two to more than 30 babies in the litter and the maternity process may take several hours. But the mother takes no interest in her newborn. When the birthing is complete, she rests a while and then serenely departs to live her usual life of solitude. Each newborn rattler rests maybe an hour and then pokes himself free from his shiny wrappings.

His life begins at once and the sprightly infant is fully equipped to cope with it. He is an exact miniature copy of his parents and born with a full set of built-in instructions for coping with rattlesnake problems of every kind. At the age of ten minutes, he may catch a grub and enjoy his first snack. He knows how to sneak up on a victim and how to bite and stun his prey with his little poisonous fangs. In a very short time, the little hunter may catch and devour a small frog. The infant rattler finds his own live meaty nourishment for himself. Nature has given him coded instructions to feed and fend for himself from the hour of his birth.

Probing the secrets of any animal always leads a student to its links with other creatures, friends and foes. We are coaxed farther and farther afield to behold the intricate web of life within the vast and varied scheme of nature. Life is our planet's supreme triumph and nature cherishes it. The inborn life force is strong, determined to survive and hand itself on to new generations. It strives to overcome hardships and setbacks and to adjust itself to ceaseless changes. And every animal expresses the survival and reproductive forces of life according to its own particular instructions.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Martha Herrings, age 11, of San Bernardino, California, for her question:

Are the pyramids of Egypt and Mexico exactly alike?

The Magi of ancient Babylon erected flat-topped pyramids from which they studied the stars. These buildings went out of style and crumbled away. Some 5,000 years ago the Egyptians were building pointed pyramids as tombs for their departed kings. The pyramids of Egypt were erected from neatly hewn, carefully placed blocks of durable stone and they have stood the test of time. Explorers of the New World were astonished to find many massive pyramid buildings still in use and the ruins of countless others. They were flat-topped pyramids and quite unlike those of Egypt or ancient Mesopotamia.

The Mexican pyramids were not so high as those of Egypt though some have wider bases. One New World pyramid stands less than half the height of Egypt's tallest but its base covers three times the area. The pyramids are piles of rubble and mortar plastered over with fitted layers of stone. Most of them are not older than 1,500 years.

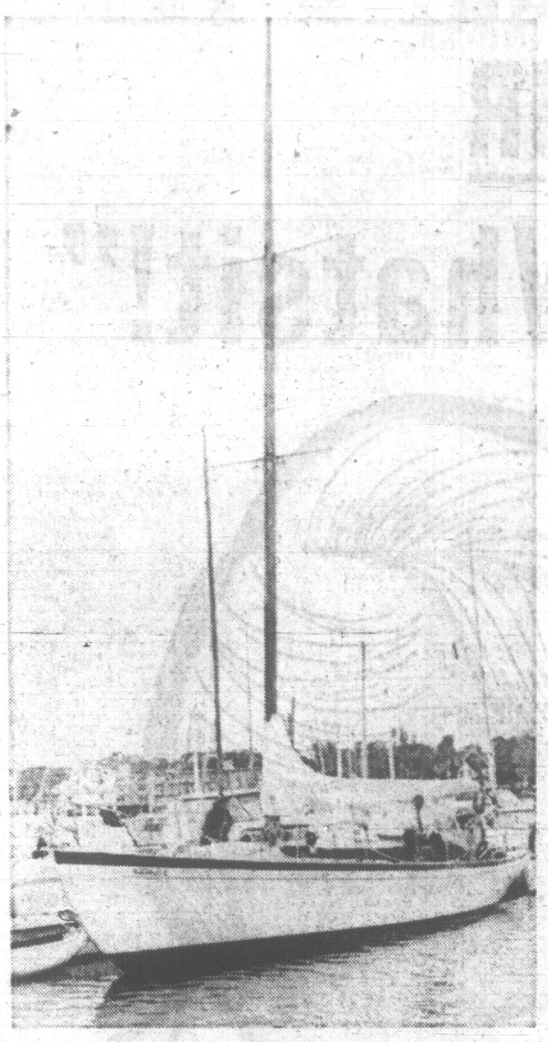
Graceful Swedish Yacht to Enter Swiftsure Race



Gabrielle II Comes to Victoria

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

The graceful 48-foot sloop Gabrielle II is the newest member of Victoria's fast-growing fleet of yachts in the Ocean Racer Category.

Brought over from Vancouver last weekend by her new owner, Ralph Higgins, Gabrielle II will be a glamorous addition to the local sailing scene.

Built in Sweden in 1947, reportedly to specifications for the King of Denmark, she is mahogany planked with glued seams. Craftsmanship, in typical Swedish fashion, has every second rib of galvanized steel. Decks are teak, with mahogany cabin and trim. Cabin interiors are finished in hand-rubbed mahogany hardwood.

Gabrielle II carries 1,040 square feet of sail, and is powered by a 70 h.p. Volvo Penta engine with a feathering prop.

Ralph Higgins, an ardent racing skipper at the helm of his 37-foot Sea Smoke, plans to keep the Gabrielle II in action on the racing circuit.

Carrying a CCA rating of 36.3, she is in PIYA Division II, along with 1966 Swiftsure winner Mary Bower; 1966 Maui Race competitor Velaris; and other Swiftsure regulars like Kialoa, Penelakut, Concerto, Serada, and Courageous.

Gabrielle II's inventroy includes some very sophisticated racing gear (including 3 spinnakers). A wind direction gauge situated in the cockpit automatically indicates windshifts, so the skipper does not have to rely on telltales and mast head pennants.

SPECIAL POLE

Another refinement installed by Sandwell for the 1965 TransPac Race is a spinnaker pole system which doesn't require jibbing. Special pole end fittings connect with leads which run to the mast. Each lead is snapped onto the spinnaker clues. The secret of success lies in lowering the pole under the forestay and dipping it correctly to co-ordinate the topping lifts.

Gabrielle II will enter Swiftsure 1968 on June 1 flying the RCNSA banner. Navigator will be Captain Peter De Cunha. Crew members will include Glen Higgins, John Cooper, Dune McPhail, Louis Lindholm, Peter Campbell and Bern Stillborn.

Sea Smoke, the Warrior Class sloop built and raced actively for the past two years by Ralph and brother Glen, has been sold to Percy Thurlow of Victoria. The Smoke will head off in August with her new skipper to cruise the South Seas.

Glen Higgins has joined the Thunderbird fleet, with Tahola, formerly owned by Ted Bowers.

16-Year-Old Sentenced To Term of 10 Months

A 16-year-old was sentenced to 10 months in the Young Offenders Unit Tuesday on six counts of breaking and entering and one count of theft over $50.

Douglas Aason, 16, 90 Linden, previously faced sentence on seven counts of breaking and entering but Tuesday changed his plea to not guilty on one and the Crown entered a stay of proceedings.

His sentence had been put over from Friday pending pre-sentence report. He also received a sentence of six months indefinite.

Last week he pleaded guilty to entering seven homes in the Victoria area between April 13 and 24 and taking various amounts of money.

He also stole a car which subsequently was demolished in an accident.

HAIR NETS HEIRS $456 AT SOTHEBY AUCTION

LONDON (AP)—A lock of Lord Nelson's hair, perhaps the only one in existence, was sold at auction Tuesday for $456. A London dealer, acting for a private purchaser, bought the hair at Sotheby's from heirs of an officer named Rotely, who served with Nelson aboard HMS Victory in the triumph over the combined French-Spanish fleet at Trafalgar in 1805. Nelson was wounded in the fighting and died on his ship.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many relatives and friends for their kindness and sympathy extended to us on the sudden passing of our beloved father and grandfather, Tommy Peden, also for the many beautiful floral tributes. We are deeply grateful to Rev. Norman Archer, Garden City Ambulance, and staff of Royal Jubilee Hospital for their help at this time.—Jean, Mary, May, Eileen and families.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DEE—In memory of our daughter, Sylvia, who passed away 6 years ago today.

There is someone who misses you sadly and finds the time long since you went,
There is someone who thinks of you always and tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face I loved, silent the voice I loved to hear;
Tis sad but true we wonder why
The best are always the first to die.

—Always remembered and sadly missed, Mom, Dad and your brother Alan and Ada.

McINTYRE — May 15th, 1965, at Edgecliff, Sydney, Australia.
In treasured memory of Mary Winifred (Billie); ever adored and devoted wife of Allan, daughter of William (deceased) and Mary Chadwick, sister of Thelma and Betty.

MOORE — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Lily B. C. Moore, who passed suddenly and peacefully away May 15, 1967.

We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No eye may see us weep.
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her daughter and family, Mrs. and Mr. B. L. Clayton.

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Live TV Debate Set For Two Leaders

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadians will get their first nationally televised political debate June 9, if both major parties can agree on ground rules with the privately-owned Canadian Television Network (CTV), it was learned today.

Rules for the debate, featuring Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Conservative leader Robert Stanfield in a 90-minute discussion, will be hammered out Thursday in Ottawa.

Due to meet with CTV's public affairs and news director Charles Templeton, are Senator John Nichol, national Liberal campaign chairman, and Edwin Goodman, national chairman for the Tories.

The main problem appears to be one of language.

Trudeau's backers want the debate to be presented in both English and French. Conservative leader Stanfield has agreed to a simultaneous translation.

The insistence on the two languages is seen by observers as a decided advantage for the Prime Minister. Fluently bilingual, Trudeau wants to address viewers directly in both languages. Stanfield, who has a limited facility in French, would have to rely on the translation service.

Another problem is the format. CTV has offered two arrangements where both men would present prepared statements on policy issues and then be given time to rebut each other's, or face a panel of moderators who would pose questions.

The CTV network is known to favor the latter idea as it would probably provoke sharp exchanges between Trudeau and Stanfield and appeal more to viewers.

Another problem is the exclusion of New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas and Creditiste Party leader Real Caouette.

A spokesman in Douglas' office said the NDP leader plans to protest officially his being left out of the affair and Caouette insists he is entitled to take part as the leader of a recognized party in the House.

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield officially begins his campaign for the June 25 general election with a four-day swing through Western Canada starting Tuesday, May 21.

The Opposition leader will spend the first day of his tour in Winnipeg, where he will hold a news conference and attend a campaign rally in the Civic Auditorium.

On Wednesday he will visit the Saskatchewan communities of Regina, Yorkton and Melville. In the evening, he will attend a rally at the Regina Armories.

Mr. Stanfield moves to Calgary and High River, Alta., on Thursday. He will be installed as an Indian chief at High River.

The next day Mr. Stanfield will campaign in the British Columbia communities of Quesnel, Kamloops and Kelowna. He flies back to Ottawa following an evening meeting in Kelowna.

TORONTO (CP)—Dalton Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative party, Tuesday night accused Prime Minister Trudeau of damaging peace prospects in Vietnam by calling for a halt to American bombing while peace talks are under way.

Speaking to a nomination meeting in Toronto's Don Valley riding, Mr. Camp said that when one argues Canada should be independent of the United States, one does not mean "to suggest Canada should be indifferent or intolerant of American circumstances."

★ ★ ★

BURNABY (CP) — Mayor Alan Emmott has formally quit the New Democratic Party, provincial party headquarters revealed Tuesday.

Bert Hill, aide to national NDP leader T. C. Douglas, said Mr. Emmott sent provincial headquarters a letter stating he was not going to renew his NDP membership, said Hill.

Mr. Hill said the move "was probably for the best."

Mr. Emmott has opposed NDP plans to enter civic politics in British Columbia.

★ ★ ★

PENTICTON (CP) — Davie Fulton, former justice and works minister in the Conservative government, indicated Tuesday night that David Pugh may become minister of veteran affairs if the Tories win the June 25 federal election

Mr. Fulton was speaking at a Conservative meeting which nominated Mr. Pugh as a candidate in Okanagan Boundary, a constituency he has represented since 1958.

FIRST COURSE ENDS

Pupils Show Parents Speaking Abilities

Claremont students who took part in the first compulsory public-speaking course to be tried in city schools celebrated completion of the program with a banquet for their parents at Holyrood House Tuesday night.

The 32 Grade 12 business students from the senior secondary school discussed "table topics" ranging from shoplifting to legalizing Sunday movies with their parents during the meal.

Later in the evening, students and parents were entertained by two dancing routines and five student speakers, who demonstrated what they had learned in two 50-minute classes a week over the past eight weeks.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Sponsored by Camosun Toastmasters 757, the youth leadership training course introduced the fundamentals of chairmanship, public speaking, and listening. Students who took it range in age from 17 to 20.

These students will probably move into the business world after this school year, and it is important for them to have some confidence in the way they handle themselves in public, explained Mrs. R. G. Phillips, head of Claremont's commercial department.

This is the first time a whole class has taken part in a public-speaking program during school hours, Mrs. Phillips said.

Voluntary evening classes have been provided by other Toastmasters clubs for students at Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt high schools in previous years.

PIONEER PROJECT

The Claremont students met twice a week during their office orientation class with Camosun Toastmaster Walt Mertton, who described "this pioneer project" as highly successful.

Claremont principal J. W. Lott said the public speaking training illustrates "a new trend, and a very good one" in education.

"It is part of a program to take the school into the community more and more, and bring the community into the school," he said.

Such a program requires two elements, Mr. Lott said, teachers in the schools with progressive ideas and organizations in the community to welcome these advances in the schools.

Mayor Hugh Curtis represented the municipality of Saanich at the banquet.

FLEXIBLE FEDERALISM FARIBAULT'S POLICY

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Faribault, who has brought joy to Quebec Progressive Conservatives, is a learned and long-time advocate of flexible federalism—in all kinds of political weather.

Having eschewed active politics for many years, Mr. Faribault, 59, now has jumped in twice in eight months.

Why? The business financier gave an eminently French-Canadian first reason for being ready now to campaign for the June 25 general election under the Progressive Conservative banner.

Previously he had seven children dependent on him, but now five of them are "able to fetch for themselves," Mr. Faribault told a sweating group of reporters while Robert Stanfield beamed at his side.

But the constitutional expert touched on another profoundly important factor when he said the constitutional problem is "pregnant" today, as it was not in the past.

And the third reason was that Canada's economic position now is worse, in the view of Mr. Faribault, than it was in the past and Mr. Stanfield is the man to tackle economic regional disparities.

MOVE DRASTIC

Mr. Faribault's present move, which involves resigning the presidencies of General Trust of Canada and Sherbrooke Trust, is more drastic than the one he made last October in joining Premier Daniel Johnson's Union Nationale government as constitutional and economic adviser.

Mr. Johnson appointed him to the legislative council, Quebec's upper house, at a time when the many-sided man of much prestige could help shore up confidence in the provincial government.

The business community had been wary of the Union Nationale position on separatism though Mr. Johnson announced from a Hawaii vacation retreat that he had no mandate to build a "great wall of China" around Quebec. Sources say that announcement followed a flying visit by Mr. Faribault.

In a recent speech at Loyola College here, Mr. Faribault discounted worries in some quarters arising from Mr. Johnson's policies as summed up in the title of the premier's book, Equality or Independence.

SAYS ANSWERS PLAIN

The "astounding thing," said Mr. Faribault, is that questions keep coming up about the two-nation theory and "equality and independence" though the answers are "plain enough."

"Separatism is an extreme and should be taken as a warning that the present constitutional chaos cannot continue," he said.

"To speak of equality or independence is to give a choice but at the same time to make one, and to relegate the other possibility to the realm of the undesired, the dire and the ill-fated, which one does not select but must envisage."

Mr. Faribault's first major tasks were to advise Mr. Johnson at the Confederation of Tomorrow Conference, the Toronto meeting of premiers called by Premier John Robarts, and then the federal-provincial constitutional conference in Ottawa in February.

"I believe in Canada," Mr. Faribault told reporters then. "Canada and I are inextricably linked. I believe in Canada for myself, for my children, for my compatriots, for everybody."

A seventh-generation Faribault to practise law in Quebec, the heavy-set Marcel, who wears rimless glasses, became a notary in 1930 and won a doctoral degree in civil law in 1936 at University of Montreal which he later served as secretary-general 1950-55.

Joining General Trust as a director in 1946, he became president in 1955 when the firm had assets totalling $171,000,000 compared with $675,000,000 in 1966.

Serving on the Canada Council in 1959-66, Mr. Faribault rose to national prominence within the federal Conservative party in 1963 for his speech-making at the party's Fredericton thinkers conference, urging greater constitutional powers for the provinces.

FARIBAULT
. . . answers 'plain enough'

A recent book, Unfinished Business, is a collection of his speeches over 14 years or so, showing a firm and consistent conception of Canada with a federal system that could be an example to the world.

The Montrealer, however, kept distance from the Conservatives under John Diefenbaker, who is reported to have considered the possibility of inviting Mr. Faribault to join his cabinet.

Mr. Faribault wrote a book, Dix pour un-Ten for One — on constituional change along with Robert W. Fowler of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association in 1965, urging a new federal constitution.

'Seat Red China On UN Council'

MONTREAL (CP) — Geoffrey A. H. Pearson, son of the former prime minister and deputy head of the United Nations division of the department of external affairs, said Tuesday Canada should advocate recognition of only one China in the UN—the one on the mainland that has its government in Peking.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Montreal branch of the United Nations Association in Canada, Mr. Pearson said Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese government should be seated in the UN General Assembly as the representative of "Formosa," not of China as it is currently designated.

He said Red China should be seated on the Security Council as well as in the assembly.

The current detente between the United States and the Soviet Union had strengthened the world body over the last few years. There had been more agreement on major issues as evidenced by infrequent use of the veto, formerly used by both nations with relatively great abandon.

FEARS UPSET

Mr. Pearson admitted that seating a Communist China could possibly upset the delicate balance of power within the UN.

"But we must take that chance if the UN is to be truly representative of the world's peoples."

In an interview prior to his address, Mr. Pearson predicted Red China will soon be asked to take a seat in the UN, but may not accept the offer.

"China has shown scorn for the UN and if she were to be admitted, she would demand there be one China representing all Chinese people including the Nationalist island of Taiwan."

Recognition Plans Disturb Ambassador

OTTAWA (CP) — Chinese Nationalist Ambassador Yu-chi Huseh expressed "distress" Tuesday over statements by Prime Minister Trudeau about Canada initiating bilateral discussions with Communist China that may lead to diplomatic recognition.

At a news conference in Edmonton Monday, the prime minister said he believes such discussions are necessary and added that approaches will be made discreetly.

Ambassador Hsueh, representing the Chiang Kai-shek government, said the people of mainland China soon will be able to express themselves on the type of government they want.

Farmers and workers had taken advantage of the unrest caused by a power struggle in Communist China to begin to make their anti-Communist sentiments known.

The ambassador, when asked for comment on Trudeau's statements, said one reason for recognition the prime minister has advanced in the past is that it would contribute to international order and stability.

Britain and France, motivated by this thinking, had granted recognition. But last year the British Embassy in Peking was burned down. A few days ago, he said, responsible French sources reported that student riots in Paris were engineered by Peking to disrupt the Vietnam peace talks.

NO CONTRIBUTION

"These facts show that recognition has not contributed to order and stability. I don't see how recognition by Canada would make things any different."

A number of people advocated recognition on the basis that Canada must not ignore the 700,000,000 people on the mainland. "But the Chinese Communist regime does not represent these people or even exercise effective control over them as chaotic conditions on the mainland have shown."

Recognition would "contribute to further isolation of the Chinese people from the outside world."

Dodger Surrenders

PORT HURON, Mich. (CP) — A 21-year-old opponent of the war in Vietnam, charged with violating U.S. military draft laws, is in custody after being arrested when he got off a train from Canada in this Michigan-Ontario border city.

David Michael Schwartz of Prairie Village, Kan., a suburb of Kansas City, was arrested Monday night by the border patrol. He was indicted by a federal grand jury last November for failing to report for induction into the U.S. Army in February, 1967.

The government said he fled to Toronto the previous month, worked for an insurance company and then quit that job to write about the Nuremberg war crime trials. His wife, Ann, accompanied him.

Last month he announced in Toronto that he was returning to the U.S. to face the charges to dramatize his opposition to the Vietnam War.

Making presentations this morning were the Institute of Victoria Librarians, the Parent-Teacher Association Council and the Consumer Association of Canada.

Scheduled for this afternoon were kindergarten and elementary school teachers, and a report from the GVTA executive committee.

The commission, set up by the British Columbia Teachers Federation, travels through the province to hear briefs and examine educational issues.

Faculty Supports Student Protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The president of Florida State University has resigned in the wake of student protests in a censorship controversy as militant youths across the United States continue to disrupt academic life.

Fourteen Negro students at the University of Miami were arrested after they refused to leave the school president's office where they were demanding increased "blackness" on campus.

In Tallahassee, President John Champion of Florida State resigned after faculty members narrowly defeated a motion calling on him to step down. Three other administrators also said they are quitting.

From 20 to 200 students had stayed on the lawn in front of the administration building since Thursday to protest Champion's preventing publication of a story in the campus literary magazine.

HAVE SUPPORT

Their action was overwhelmingly supported by the faculty which called for an over-all review of the policies governing student publications at the university.

Of the 14 arrested in Miami, 12 were men and two women. They demanded that courses in Negro history and culture be added to the curriculum and an increase in the Negro student body.

University President Henry King Stanford replied that the university "cannot agree that any certain percentage of the students and faculty will be black by September" and said he could not initiate curriculum changes.

A university spokesman said there now are 165 Negro students out of an enrolment of 16,000.

Roosevelt University in Chicago suspended 21 more students, bringing to 45 the number so disciplined for staging a sit-in in the president's office last week.

PICKETS AT PLANT

At the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville about 25 demonstrators picketed the entrance of a printing plant to protest the failure of the student newspaper to print a letter from a Negro student.

They said the letter in question was in rebuttal to an earlier letter the paper printed which attacked Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

At the University of Maryland, 174 faculty members signed petitions asking for equal treatment for Negroes and urged President Dr. Wilson Elkins to issue a blanket order barring racial discrimination by any group on campus.

Student demonstrators in Durham, N.C. maintained a "silent vigil" in a resumed attempt to get Duke University to agree to collective bargaining for its non-academic employees.

LAST DAY FOR LOTTERY

MONTREAL (CP) — Today is the deadline for entries in the first month's drawing of Montreal's voluntary tax assessment scheme, a city hall spokesman said Tuesday.

Entry forms and $2 tax contributions to the city's treasury must be in the city's hands by then, but those who miss this deadline will be entered in the next month's draw.

Those successful in the draw can win part of $150,000 in silver ingots.

Drapeau Plan Irks Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau has "a lot of nerve" asking other citizens of Canada to pay taxes to Montreal, British Columbia Premier Bennett said in an interview Tuesday.

"Why should the people of B.C. pay taxes to Montreal?" the premier asked.

Commenting on Mr. Drapeau's "voluntary tax assessment" program, Mr. Bennett said the provincial government will not pay any attention to the scheme and does not have any policy on the so-called lottery.

"I won't buy a ticket," he added.

NIGERIA TALKS SET UP

LONDON (CP) — Biafra has finally agreed to the presence of Arnold Smith, Commonwealth secretary-general, at Nigeria-Biafra peace negotiations to open in Kampala, Uganda, next week, informants disclosed today.

A full communique on the arrangements was expected to be issued tonight.

It is understood that Smith, former Canadian diplomat, will move a big contingent of his secretariat to the Uganda capital in anticipation that the negotiations will drag on for a lengthy period.

Smith has been at the centre of preliminary talks between high representatives of both sides in the 11-month Nigerian war. Chief Anthony Enaharo, Nigerian information commissioner, and Biafra Chief Justice Sir Louis Mbanefo were reported to have finally agreed Tuesday night to the full Kampala agenda, including the presence of Smith to "service" the formal peace negotiations.

Most of the sessions in this initial phase of sensitive and secret diplomacy took place in Smith's apartment near his office, with haggling continuing well into the night.

Some Commonwealth officials had hoped negotiations could be held in London where the services of the full secretariat could be used. Biafra steadfastly rejected this proposal, saying it wants no part of London because, it alleged, Britain has been supplying arms to the Nigerian troops.

It refused to allow Smith to participate in the formal peace talks, suggesting that President Milton Obote of Uganda should preside.

It is understood that under final arrangements, Obote will make the opening speech at the peace bargaining to open May 23 and that Smith will move in to administer the meetings thereafter.

TEACHERS PROTEST POLICE PROTECTION

NEW YORK (AP)—Five white teachers dismissed by an experimental local government board re-entered a predominantly Negro junior high school in Brooklyn today, backed by a heavy police detail which barricaded an entire block.

But about 50 teachers who had shown up at the school Tuesday walked out, complaining of the police presence.

School superintendent Bernard E. Donovan, with the support of Mayor John V. Lindsay, asked police to escort the teachers past demonstrators.

Police showed up at the school before the demonstrators. There were no clashes reported.

Press Magnate's Ouster Demanded By Labor MPs

LONDON (AP) — More than 140 Labor members of Parliament have signed a motion demanding the dismissal of press magnate Cecil King from the board of Britain's state-run coal industry.

King, head of the newspaper empire that includes the mass-circulation Daily Mirror, angered many Laborites last week by demanding the ouster of Prime Minister Wilson and predicting that Britain is headed for its greatest financial crisis.

King later resigned as a director of the Bank of England but remains a part-time member of the National Coal Board.

MARCHAND ATTACKS

'Political Lies' Hit By Quebec Minister

QUEBEC (CP) — Manpower Minister Jean Marchand said Tuesday night the campaign for the June 25 federal election is proving to be a brawl, but he prefers to fight rather than to continue living in an atmosphere of constitutional confusion.

In an address to a nomination meeting in Langelier riding where he was chosen Liberal candidate by acclamation, Mr. Marchand spent most of his time attacking the constitutional policies of Premier Daniel Johnson.

The federal minister said: "We cannot live any longer in a vitiated atmosphere where political lies have a priority — and by lies I mean the natural instinct of some politicians of never telling the truth because it is not politically rewarding."

He said Mr. Johnson and Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield are unjustly trying to portray Prime Minister Trudeau as an inflexible man whose constitutional policies are anti-Quebec.

He said Mr. Trudeau and the Liberals are in fact pro-Quebec but disagree with the Quebec government on the question of how French-speaking Canadians should achieve certain goals.

"We are for Quebec in Quebec and in Ottawa even in the field of international relations," but such relations would have to be conducted within the authority of the federal government.

He said Mr. Trudeau is "clearer and more honest than certain other politicians but when he states issues clearly, his opponents say: "My God, what an inflexible man."

It would be more honest for some politicians to become clear-cut separatists.

He said Mr. Stanfield and the Conservatives are, in effect, saying in Quebec that they recognize special status for Quebec but are serving up "tortured" explanations of their views in the West.

"We no longer accept to live in this confusion. Political problems are solved at election time. This is what we intend to do . . . We are going to force everyone to express the basis of his thinking."

At a news conference prior to the nomination meeting, Mr. Marchand said any decision by Premier Johnson to campaign for the Conservatives in this election would add nothing new because the Union Nationale has always been a provincial arm of the Conservatives in Quebec.

ALDERMAN FORESEES NO CHANGE

Disturbed Children Still Locked Up

Ald. Lily Wilson Tuesday told the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Health Board she has little hope of a change in government attitude towards mentally disturbed children.

She said the board had tried for years to persuade the government to provide adequate facilities for holding mentally disturbed youngsters for short terms.

Ald. Wilson noted that former health minister Eric Martin had recognized the need but had done nothing about it.

"Now it's Mr. Loffmark (recently appointed health minister) and I can't say that I hold out much hope here, either. Meanwhile we go on locking these emotionally upset children in what is, after all, a jail. It sure doesn't make much sense to me."

Emotionally disturbed children breaking the law are at present confined in the juvenile detention home.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, told the board he felt a partial solution to the problem would be found when the Eric Martin Institute opened this year.

It would, he said, have facilities for 20 to 25 mentally-ill children on a short term basis.

Ald. Wilson answered that after so many years of waiting she would believe it when she saw it.

In other health board business members were told that during the recent measles vaccine campaign 6,100 shots were administered to pre-school and school-age children.

The board also went on record as fully endorsing the anti-pollution signs posted in the Gorge and other areas.

"We don't have to defend our actions in this matter and I see no reason why we should get into further debate or hassle," said Mayor Gordon Lee, chairman of the board.

MAKE CURRENCY CONVERTIBLE

Czechs Seeking Western Trade

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new premier, Oldrich Cernik, said Tuesday his liberal government wants continued close co-operation with other Communist countries and economic links with the West as well.

"I want to emphasize," Cernik told a news conference, "that the government plans to do nothing to change" the traditional ties with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries.

At the same time, he said, Czechoslovakia is interested in more effective co-operation with capitalist countries and would like to work to remove barriers seperating East and West.

Both Cernik and Prof. Ota Sik, the architect of planned economic reforms, said individual businesses will soon be free to trade abroad with only loose government guidelines and supervision.

Also they said the government plans to make the Czechoslovak crown, its main currency unit, convertible in the West, although Sik said this would take five to seven years.

MUST COMPETE

First, they said, Czechoslovak goods have to be able to compete in price and quality on the world market.

Czechoslovakia's new Communist leaders have been trying to calm Moscow and assure it that their country will remain Communist despite the liberalization process. One highly-placed Communist source said Tuesday he does not regard the exchanges between Prague and other Communist capitals as anything more serious than "polemics."

"Perhaps there are too many Americans in Prague these days looking for sensations every day," he said. "In everything that happens they see some kind of pressure from our neighbors."

In Moscow, meanwhile, the Soviet bloc's economic co-ordinating body, the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, or Camecon, opened talks Tuesday on the economic expectations of the Prague regime. Informed sources said the Czechoslovak delegate asked the council to reconsider the old Stalinist "division of labor" among the one-time satellites.

By this system each Eastern European country specializes in producing certain items the Soviet economy needs. The system has been breaking down. Romania for one, has rejected the predominantly agricultural role assigned it.

ALBERTA PROBE TOLD

'Just Gesture Of Sympathy'

EDMONTON (CP) — E. W. Hinman, former Alberta provincial treasurer, testified Tuesday that of $11,000 which came from Edmonton businessman Jake Superstein, $5,000 had been deposited to his bank account as "a voluntary gesture of sympathy."

Mr. Hinman also testified the other $6,000 was for equity in 2,000 shares of a Cardston, Alta., service station.

A deposit slip for $5,000 and a cheque for $6,000 were entered as exhibits at a judicial inquiry into allegations that Mr. Hinman used, or attempted to use, his public office for personal gain.

Mr. Hinman was elected to the legislature in 1952 as a Social Credit member for the Cardston constituency and was appointed provincial treasurer in 1955. He resigned from the cabinet at Premier E. C. Manning's request in 1964 and continued to sit as a member but was not nominated for last May's provincial election.

Mr. Hinman told the inquiry the deposit was made after Douglas Layton, his brother-in-law, was killed in an automobile accident July 24, 1962. The deposit slip was dated July 27, 1962.

'GLAD TO LEND IT'

Mr. Hinman said that Mr. Superstein heard of the accident and expressed his sympathy, saying that "if I needed a little money to keep these affairs going . . . he would be glad to lend it."

The affairs referred to business enterprises shared by Mr. Layton and the former provincial treasurer, said Mr. Hinman in reply to questioning.

The enterprises were ranching operations, a garage at Pincher Creek, Alta., and one at Fort Macleod, Alta. None of the companies ever drew on the $5,000, Mr. Hinman said. The funds were used to settle the personal things that were outstanding."

He said a cheque for $6,000 from Mr. Superstein was payment for shares in B and R Service (Cardston) Ltd. It was dated July 3, 1961, and payable to B and R Service.

HAD CAPITAL NEED

Mr. Hinman said Mr. Superstein volunteered the money after Mr. Hinman told him the business was in need of fresh capital: "I'd told him the could either have equity or make it a loan."

A B andR annual report entered as evidence showed Mr. Superstein received 2,000 shares of stock for $6,000.

Mr. Hinman said he had no further dealings or differences with Mr. Superstein between 1962 and 1966, when Mr. Superstein filed a statement of claim against him for $11,000 plus interest and costs. The action was discontinued in 1967.

The statement was also entered as an exhibit and said Mr. Superstein loaned $5,000 to Mr. Hinman in July, 1962, and $6,000 to B and R Service in July, 1961, at Mr. Hinman's request.

The hearing is continuing.

Young Driver Fined, Suspended

An 18-year-old was fined $150 Tuesday after a head-on collision on the Trans-Canada Highway Feb. 7.

Wayne Balcombe, 63 Gorge, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Police said he was the driver of a car which collided head-on with a Canada Safeway highway truck. Two people were injured and damage to the truck amounted to $9,000.

Magistrate Byers also suspended Balcombe's driver's licence.

Cease 'All Acts of War' Firm Line of N. Vietnam

Next Session Set Saturday

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam demanded in talks here today that the United States and its allies halt all attacks across the so-called demilitarized zone into North Vietnamese territory and withdraw from the area.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy in a statement directed at U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman specifically demanded that the United States stop all firing of artillery across the six-mile-wide zone separating the two Vietnams.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said Thuy linked the demand with North Vietnam's insistence that the United States must halt the rest of the bombing of the North and stop "all other acts of war" before the talks here can go on to other issues.

The United States and South Vietnam have forces just south of the zone to counter North Vietnamese Army regulars who U.S. and South Vietnamese commanders say infiltrate through the zone and around its western end via Laos.

In his opening remarks at the first full session Monday, Harriman called for a restoration of the zone as a non-military buffer zone.

The two sides met for 3½ hours today and Harriman described the discussions as extensive and active. He did not elaborate. The negotiators decided not to meet again until Saturday.

Harriman spoke first today for an hour and Thuy for an hour and a half, each time including translations.

Returning to the U.S. Embassy, Harriman was asked by correspondents whether the United States favors a coalition in South Vietnam as one measure to bring about a peaceful settlement of the war.

"We have never been for a coalition government," he said, "and we will never be for a coalition government."

While the North Vietnamese briefing was under way on the Left Bank of the Seine, an American report to correspondents by spokesman William Jordan was given at the U.S. Embassy.

Harriman, Jordan said, told Thuy that there are "some specific and urgent steps which are vital to peace, and on which it should be possible to agree."

Restore Neutral Zone

Harriman, in renewing his proposal of Monday that the warring countries could make a demonstration of peaceful interest by restoring peace to the demilitarized zone, said:

'Certainly one of the prime steps toward the strict observance of the military provisions of the 1954 Geneva accords should be to restore the demilitarized zone in its original and proper status. We agree on the legal existence of that zone and its prescribed boundaries.

"We propose that we agree now on making it function the way it should. Are you prepared to join in achieving this? The prompt restoration of the demilitarized zone as a buffer is an essential step."

Harriman said that the North Vietnamese on Monday referred to the 1962 agreement on Laos, and he proposed "that we agree now that all parties should comply meticulously with the 1962 agreement on Laos."

"Let us call upon the two co-chairmen (Britain and the Soviet Union) and the three countries which are members of the International Control Commission (India, Canada and Poland) to make prompt arrangements to assure that these accords are respected."

Harriman asked for a prompt answer from Thuy and then brought up the issue of Cambodia.

"We propose that all armed elements from outside Cambodia should fully respect the territorial neutrality and integrity of Cambodia. Let us join in requesting the International Control Commission to strengthen its functions in this regard."

Harriman said there are five areas in which both sides have similarities of interest:

—An independent, prosperous, neutral South Vietnam.

—Peace on the basis of the Geneva agreements of 1954.

—Settlement of the affairs of South Vietnam by its own people.

—Eventual reunification of North and South by peaceful means.

—Strict respect for the military provisions of the 1954 Geneva agreements.

BILL 33 PRAISED

Socred Vote Rally Held On 'Safe Side' of Picket

(Special to The Times)

VANCOUVER — A Social Credit election rally was held on the safe side of a picket line Tuesday night while Labor Minister Peterson praised Bill 33.

Premier Bennett, several cabinet ministers and almost 750 Vancouver South residents held the rally outdoors.

It had been scheduled for a high school auditorium but was diverted to the nearby field because janitors were picketing the school, along with 21 others in Vancouver, as part of a wage dispute with the school board.

STABILITY

Mr. Peterson said Bill 33 was designed to bring stability to labor-management relations and represent the public interest.

He said the NDP and Liberals opposed the bill so they "must of necessity be in favor of a monopoly of labor or monopoly of management being able to paralyze the economy of this province.

"Those who oppose this bill must of necessity say the government has no right to protect the interest of the public or the welfare of the people of this province.

"It's as simple as that."

NO 'SPLIT'

He also denied reports of a cabinet split.

"When there is strong leadership there is no rift in the cabinet," he said while Premier Bennett looked on.

"There is no rift in Social Credit," added Mr. Peterson.

"We are satisfied with our leadership and other parties wish they had W. A. C. Bennett to lead them."

Mr. Bennett repeated the theme that his government represents all people and not just labor or management. He said 16 years of his administrations had brought B.C. from a "have-not province" to "No. 1 have province in the whole of Canada."

"Today we have the highest standard of living in Canada," Mr. Bennett said.

"Tomorrow we'll have the highest in the world."

Mr. Bennett told a heckler that the government has for-

CAMPBELL TO SEEK MEDIATOR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Mayor Tom Campbell said he will ask British Columbia Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today to appoint a mediator in the six-day-old strike of engineer-custodians in city schools.

"The schools can't stay open much longer," said Mr. Campbell. "If they close down, the time will have to be made up by extending the term into the summer holidays," he said.

PERRAULT
. . . resigns B.C. post

Perrault-Douglas Battle Looming

Ray Perrault, leader of the Liberal party in B.C. for the last nine years, officially resigned his post today and announced he will seek the party's nomination to oppose NDP leader Tommy Douglas in the federal election.

His announcement at a press conference in Vancouver, confirmed earlier speculation of his intentions and left the provincial party leaderless for the next several months, until a convention can be held.

The Liberal nomination meeting in Burnaby-Richmond, where Douglas is a candidate, takes place Thursday night.

The riding includes 8,000 voters in the North Vancouver-Capilano provincial riding which Mr. Perrault held.

Mr. Perrault, 42, became the youngest political leader in the province in 1959 when he was elected party leader — but without a seat. At that time the Liberals held only two seats in the legislature in which Premier Bennett's Social Credit party has held sway since 1952.

But the following year Mr. Perrault took on Newton Steacy, the Social Credit government's agriculture minister, and beat him in the Vancouver area riding.

That year the Liberals increased their number in the provincial house to four. They now occupy five of the 55 seats, with a sixth, a former Liberal seat, vacant.

Asked what he would do if he did not get the nomination he said he would have to make a decision whether to maintain his North Shore provincial seat, however he would not reconsider his resignation as party leader.

"Should I become a candidate," Mr. Perrault said, "I will resign my provincial seat, and my formal resignation as leader of the party of British Columbia will be tendered at the next leadership convention of the provincial party."

3 Million Strike In U.K. Wage Row

LONDON (CP) — Three million British engineering workers went on a 24-hour strike today, delivering a warning to Prime Minister Wilson of more trouble if he pushes through his wage restraint policies.

The strikers demanded wage increases in excess of the 3½-per-cent ceiling laid down by the Labor government. They paralysed large sections of Britain's motor and other industries and kept the big national newspapers from printing their usual 10,000,000 copies in London. The Communist Morning Star was the only national newspaper to appear.

The strike followed publication Tuesday of the government's bill to hold down increases in prices, wages and dividends for 18 months at least.

Scores of plants came to a standstill in the Midlands, Scotland and Wales.

All vehicle production by the newly formed British Leyland Motor Corp. was halted and 110,000 workers were idle.

Work on parts of the British-French Concorde supersonic airliner stopped at the British Aircraft Corp's plant in Weybridge when only a handful of the 4,500 workers turned up.

The one-day token strike was called by leaders of 30 labor organizations in the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions. They are demanding across-the-board wage increases and longer vacations for all classes of engineers.

'Sovereign State' Idea Condemned by PM

Johnson's Aide Joins Tory Team

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Bureau

MONTREAL — Marcel Faribault, until this week a constitutional adviser to Premier Daniel Johnson, carried his opposition to the policies of Prime Minister Trudeau into the federal election campaign Tuesday.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield announced here Tuesday that Mr. Faribault would be a Conservative candidate and Mr. Faribault lost no time in getting into the fight.

He attacked Mr. Trudeau's policies as "unduly socialistic," "unduly centralizing," and "bad for the country."

"The future of Canada is at stake, directly and indirectly," he said.

He attacked the federal government's record as "pitiful" in social and economic matters as well as constitutional affairs but said the constitution was the fundamental question.

"The modern constitution is not something imposed from on high," he said.

Reflect Realities

It must reflect the human realities of the country and must recognize the existence of "two nations, in the sociological sense."

Mr. Stanfield was received warmly at the party's provincial campaign here but he won his most enthusiastic applause when he announced that Mr. Faribault would be a candidate.

The Conservative leader spoke only briefly to his Quebec workers. He told them that Quebec held the key to the election and a "reasonable number" of successful Conservative candidates in the province would put the party in power.

He said later that a "reasonable number" meant "as many as possible."

Mr. Faribault said that the "presence of Mr. Stanfield seems to me an unquestionable guarantee from the constitutional standpoint."

Mr. Stanfield, who had formerly rejected an invitation by John Diefenbaker to become a Conservative candidate, said that he did not think Mr. Diefenbaker's decision to run again threatened the party with division. He said the party was big enough to leave room for differences.

Mr. Diefenbaker is as firmly opposed against the "two nations" principle as Mr.

JOHNSON ROLE PASSIVE – PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today he did not think Premier Johnson of Quebec would take a personal part in the June 25 federal election "and risk a humiliating defeat".

"After all, Mr. Johnson is the leader of a provincial party which makes it a point not to take part in federal elections," Mr. Trudeau told reporters after a cabinet meeting.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Tuesday blistered the theories in international relationships held by Premier Daniel Johnson and his constitutional adviser Marcel Faribault.

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Johnson's theories could lead to the "disintegration" of Canada and Mr. Faribault's to the "disintegration" of major international agencies.

Mr. Faribault later announced his candidacy as a Progressive Conservative for the federal election June 25.

Mr. Johnson believes that Quebec has an international role to fulfil and Mr. Faribault believes the provinces must become full members of great international organizations like UNESCO, Mr. Trudeau told a luncheon organized by the Montreal district Chamber of Commerce.

That meant Quebec could act as a sovereign state and each province could set up its own foreign policy in those fields within its jurisdiction, ignoring Ottawa.

SEVERAL POLICIES

Mr. Trudeau said in an off-the-cuff French speech the first consequence of this theory is that Canada could have several foreign policies, each contradicting the other.

"If Canada has several contradictory foreign policies, that means the disintegration of Canada because then one country speaks with several voices."

Canada has certain restrictions against Rhodesia, but since Quebec could undertake direct relations with Gabon—which no longer has diplomatic ties with Canada—then Ontario could deal with Rhodesia.

British Columbia could decide to undertake regular relations with Peking, capital of mainland China, which is not recognized by Canada.

Mr. Trudeau said the consequence of Mr. Faribault's theory is that international or-

WAITED 15 HOURS TO TREAT 'ABRASIONS'

5 Bullets in His Head—He Didn't Know It!

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An Alaskan public health official was shot five times in the head early Monday, a physician disclosed Tuesday, but did not seek aid until 15 hours later because he thought he had only been mugged.

Dr. Ralph B. Williams, 57, of Juneau, director of laboratory services for the Alaska health and welfare department, was listed in serious condition Tuesday night at St. Mary's Hospital.

An attending physician said he and police pieced together this story:

Williams was walking home Sunday night and apparently was accosted by two men. He said he was knocked to the ground, but could not remember what else happened.

Williams hailed a cab and was taken back to his hotel.

The next day Williams saw a doctor to treat what he thought were oozing abrasions.

The doctor said he, too, first thought his patient had been beaten only, and sent him for x-rays which disclosed the bullet wounds from a small-calibre weapon.

The doctor said one bullet entered beneath the left eye and lodged in Williams' neck between the jugular vein and carotid artery. Another entered the top of his head and lodged in the right lobe of the brain. A third bullet penetrated the roof of the mouth—the gun having apparently been put in Williams' mouth—and lodged at the base of the skull. A fourth bullet entered near the side of the right eye and came to rest where the jawbone attaches to the skull. The fifth shot entered under the right nostril and went into the hard palate.

"Anyone of those bullets could have killed him," said the doctor.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1968—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

Each morning for weeks we have hoped to catch a flicker of wings above the driveway and see a trim little bird in dark coat and silver vest perched on the lead-in wires. But the violet-green swallows that have returned faithfully to the hole under the eaves every spring for 15 years are still missing.

Wondering what might have happened to them, I called provincial biologist Charles Guiget.

"If you want to see swallows," he said, "go down to Dallas Road near Beacon Hill. When I passed that way, they were there by the hundred."

As for the birds whose lively presence we miss, Mr. Guiget pointed that we haven't necessarily been providing nest-space to the same family each spring. The yearly migration takes the swallows far away — sometimes clear on down to South America — in search of good weather and good feeding.

Their life-span is a mere two to three years, and as with all birds up to the size of ducks, the annual swallow "turnover" is about 80 per cent.

"But," said Mr. Guiget, on a more cheerful note, "this is proving out to be a very birdy spring. More small birds around than we've had for several years."

That's dandy, but we still miss our swallows, if they're down at the Dallas Road fly-in, I trust they'll soon quit hippying around and come on home.

If venerable St. Louis College fails to open in September — and present prospects for a reprieve could scarce be dimmer — certain side-effects will be inevitable.

For a start, it will be necessary to shoehorn about 180 St. Louis boys into already crowded public high schools.

Also, the provincial legislature may have to look elsewhere for the corps of bright, brisk page-boys which, St. Louis College, as a separate school, has supplied from its Grade 8 and 9 honor students these many years.

Before their era Greater Victoria School Board recruited the Legislative messengers whose red-and-blue uniforms lend color to each session. But only by a considerable bending of public school regulations as they now stand could a return be made to the former practice.

At the last extreme, perhaps Speaker of the House William Murray could order some of the smaller Legislative back-benchers into page uniforms for emergency service.

But they'd have to smarten up considerably first.

For a period each year that may amount to no more than a few balmy hours, new-hatched black ants test their wings above the Cowichan. The fish go crazy, and so do fly fishermen fortunate enough to coincide with the annual feeding spree.

Two who missed the actual hatch but got in on the tail of this year's big bite are skilled angler Les Leacock and a stream companion.

They limited out last Saturday, and in each brown-trout stomach, they found a mass of half-digested black ants. This evidence indicated that the seasonal black ant binge had taken place only a matter of hours earlier.

On Sunday, when Ted Davis went up to try his luck, the action was all over. Glutted and bloated, the trout refused every inducement.

Still, his trip may prove lucky for an earlier sport, who left his fishing bag behind when he pulled out of the side-road that winds down toward Henderson's Run.

The owner is asked to phone 384-1619.

So much for this day, except to salute a new reporter, name of Susan Mayse, who started work as a summer hand this week. Even though she's not a Timesman, the best of luck to her!

RUMPLED AND CRUMPLED is smashed-in bow of Japanese freighter Yoho Maru. She is being repaired in Esquimalt graving dock after colliding with a Vancouver bridge last week. (Times photo.)

150 Men Hired To Repair Ship

A crippled Japanese freighter will provide a month's work for 150 Victoria shipyard workers.

The Yoho Maru, which ran into the Second Narrows railway bridge in Vancouver last Friday, was towed to the Esquimalt graving dock Monday and repairs began late Tuesday night.

Contract for the repairs was awarded to Yarrows Limited.

TAKE FOUR WEEKS

The repairs will mean two shifts plus overtime for four weeks and the rehiring of about 150 men, said Yarrows manager John Wallace.

Bow of the Yoho Maru was pushed back about 35 feet in the bridge collision. The vessel, built in 1953, is 589 feet long and weighs 12,943 gross tons.

She was carrying 23,000 tons of coal for Japan which had been loaded at Pacific Coast Bulk Terminals in Port Moody.

Weston Talks Again Fail

Talks aimed at settling the 52-day strike of driver-salesmen against Weston Bakeries have failed.

A union spokesman said today the company is not prepared to settle on the same basis as the recent agreement with McGavin Toastmaster.

This was confirmed by a company official who said the two firms are not identical. He said the main issue is wages.

Seventy driver-salesmen at several B.C. locations, including Victoria, went on strike March 25 seeking an extra $24 a week over two years. The company offered $13.

The McGavin settlement provided a wage increase of $15 a week plus a 1-per-cent increase in commission which one source said was worth $3.

Previous pay was $115 a week plus commission.

The striking employees are members of the Bakery Salesmen's Union, Local 189, an affiliate of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Dangerous Driver Jailed Two Months

A 21-year old man was sentenced to two months today on charges of dangerous driving and driving while his right to obtain a licence was under suspension.

Ernest Waters, of 1258 Johnson, earlier pleaded not guilty to both charges and defended himself through the trial.

Court was told he forced another car to crash into a fire hydrant on Government Street Feb. 4 causing minor injuries to five persons. He left the scene of the accident without stopping.

Waters told the court he was not aware of the accident until later that day. He said he did not force the car off the road.

In asking for a prison sentence prosecutor John MacIntyre said Waters showed "callous disregard" when he failed to stop.

Five RC Schools Will Be Open Next September

Decision Arrived At Special Meeting

Five Roman Catholic elementary schools will definitely be in operation next September.

Monsignor Michael T. O'Connell said this morning that the positive decision to keep the schools open was made at a special meeting of various school authorities Tuesday night.

The schools, St. Patricks, St. Andrews, Sacred Heart, St. Josephs and St. Anns, will accommodate grades one to seven. St. Anns Academy secondary school will also be in operation next September.

Msgr. O'Connell said there would be some classroom juggling at the elementary level with use being made of the soon to be closed Catholic secondary school, St. Louis College.

Closure of the 104-year old college, announced last week, has touched off a storm of controversy within the Catholic church.

Telegrams have been dispatched to Pope Paul and the Apostolic Delegate in Ottawa, protesting the closure and appealing for a full investigation of the decision by Bishop Remi De Roo.

A mass meeting to hear the Bishop's reasoning will be held Thursday night at the college.

LACK OF SUPPORT

Critics of the bishop's actions state that the decision was arrived at without full consideration being given to alternatives. They also claim that he and his senate failed to give whole-hearted support to a drive to raise funds to expand the school and keep it open.

Bishop De Roo has been unavailable for comment during the past two days. He is attending a conference at Shawnigan Lake.

But he is known to have stated late Tuesday that he was pleased that local Catholics were at last becoming aware of the seriousness of the situation.

And this morning church stalwart Alan Ritz, State deputy of the Knight's of Columbus, rallied to his bishop's side.

"It is neither fair nor just to place the complete responsibility for the closure on the shoulders of the bishop and his advisers," Mr. Ritz said.

NO TAX MONEY

"Because in British Columbia independent schools receive no support financially from the taxes collected for the cost of education within the province, and because St. Louis College is affected by the same spiralling costs that are so evident in the public schools system, it must surely be obvious to all that a decision had to be made."

Call Made To Save Wheel-Meals

A city businessman suggested a financial remedy for the ailing Saanich meals-on-wheels service today.

If 10 businessmen each donate $200, then the service will have the $2,000 it needs after a local service club indicated it won't be providing its previous $2,000 a year subsidy.

Jim Anderson, who runs a hearing aid company in Victoria, said he is willing to give $200 if nine other businessmen do the same.

"I thought it was a good idea," he said.

"A lot of support of business here is by pensioners so let's reciprocate."

Last week, Ald. William Noel said the future of meals on wheels was uncertain because the municipality could not subsidize it forever. He hoped another service club would be interested.

The service, unique in British Columbia, brings well-cooked and nutritious meals to those unable to cook meals for themselves. About 20 persons a day receive the meals and menus vary.

Boy, 14, Admits Stealing 3 Cars

A 14-year-old boy who pleaded guilty to stealing three cars was remanded to May 21 for sentence in juvenile court today.

The boy was charged with stealing three cars Monday night, two in the city and one in Saanich.

Police said a car bearing 1966 plates was stopped at Cook and Yates and the driver fled. He was located at Fort and Vancouver.

Pound of Marijuana Found in Rear of Car

Driver Pleads Guilty

Police seized 1¼ pounds of marijuana from a car parked at the Caledonia St. entrance to the Jaycee fair Tuesday, central court was told today.

A man police said was driver of the car, 20-year-old Rajindar Singh of Vancouver, pleaded guilty today to possession of marijuana.

Maurice Racine, 20, of 739 Kings Road, was charged with possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking. He was remanded to May 23 for election and plea.

RCMP Const. Daniel Creally told the court he and city detective John Markin searched Singh's car parked near the fair Tuesday morning. He said they found marijuana in a plastic bag under the rear seat.

A pound of marijuana makes 600 to 700 cigarettes and is worth about $400 on the illegal market, police said.

With consent of prosecutor Edward Pollard, Singh was released on $500 bail and remanded to May 24 for presentence report.

Bail was set at $1,000 for Racine.

In another marijuana case before central court today, John Seedhouse, 18, of 38 Camden, pleaded guilty to possession of the drug.

The Crown today withdrew similar charges against Leslie Plante, 18, and Mitchell Doyle, 18, both of 2780 Millstream, arrested April 12 along with Seedhouse.

City detective Murray MacArthur told the court police approaching a car parked in Vic West Park saw a plastic bag thrown from the window.

He said Seedhouse admitted ownership of the bag, later found to contain marijuana. The accused was remanded and released on bail to May 24 for pre-sentence report.

University Graduation List Will Be Published Thursday

Students graduating from the University of Victoria this month will be listed in the Times Thursday.

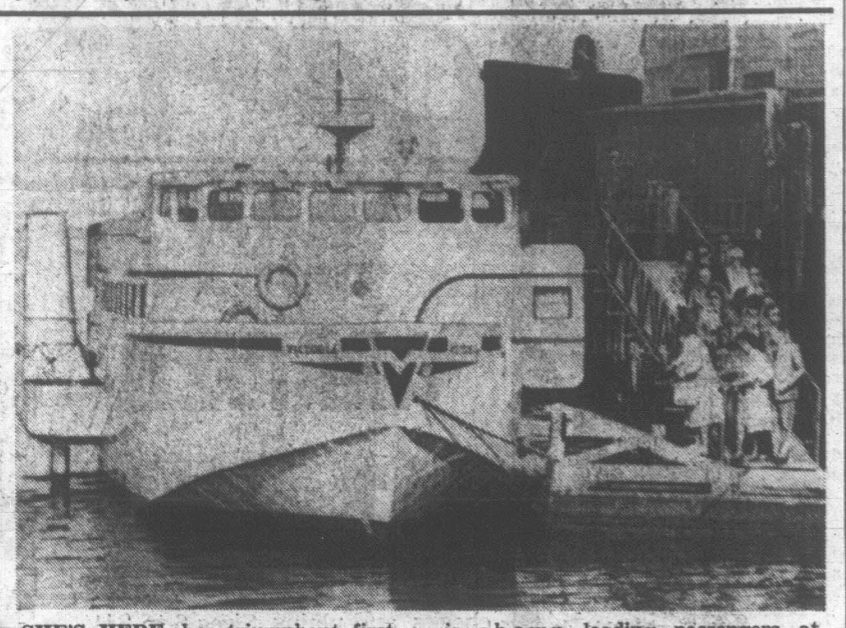
The university senate meets tonight and marks will be mailed to students Thursday morning.

Approximately 465 bachelor's degrees will be awarded in arts, science and education this year. Last year there were 355 graduates.

For the first time this year, master's degrees will be awarded by the university. About a dozen are expected to be granted.

Graduation ceremonies will be held the weekend of May 24-25. Convocation will be in Centennial Stadium.

University of British Columbia graduates will be announced May 23 in the Times.



SHE'S HERE, her triumphant first trip marred by a breakdown, but she's here, the hydrofoil Victoria. She is shown loading passengers at Seattle today and all 36 of them got here finally. (AP Wirephoto)

We Told You There Was One

By PETE LOUDON

The hydrofoil Victoria appeared off Holland Point at 12:15 p.m. today proving again—

You can believe what you read in the papers.

It was touch and go a few times of course, since the first hydrofoil stories began to appear eight years ago.

But the marine reporters of the Pacific Northwest never gave up. ("Keep the faith baby," they'd say.) And the stories appeared every few weeks, followed with regularity by stories recounting the latest postponements.

Tuesday, when an Associated Press dispatch maintained there really was a hydrofoil and Northwest Hydrofoil Lines would start Seattle-Victoria service today, the Times phoned Seattle for assurance.

"We're leaving with 75 passengers aboard at 7:30 a.m. and will arrive at Victoria at about 9:30 a.m.," a company spokesman said.

Victoria shipwatchers were out in force on Clover Point and Dallas Road this morning, waiting for the "fastest passenger vessel on the west coast."

But by noon a weary photographer was muttering, "I could row here faster" and it looked like another false start.

A phone call to Seattle brought word that "they had a little trouble with one of the governors on the port engine."

A Seattle TV station reported later this had been fixed but the vessel couldn't get up on her fins to plane and would be further delayed.

An attempt to phone to Victoria by radio failed to produce on answer.

But the marine operator placed her just off Smith Island, 18 miles east of Victoria.

Finally she was seen off Holland Point, on the last lap, eating the wind at 37 knots.

She arrived at 12:30 p.m. in Inner Harbor but with 36 passengers only.

And just as we told you would happen in 1960 and every two weeks since, a hydrofoil service between Seattle and Victoria has been instituted.

Ask The Times

Q. What was the population of Canada including the Yukon and Northwest Territories, in the last census?—J.W.

A. The population of the country, in the June 1, 1966 census, was 20,015,000. Since then, according to Dominion Bureau of Statistics calculations, it has risen to 20,630,000 (At Jan. 1, 1967), and increase of 3.1 per cent. Breakdown of estimates from the bureau is: Newfoundland 502,000; Prince Edward Island 110,000; Nova Scotia 760,000; New Brunswick 623,000; Quebec 5,910,000; Ontario 7,252,000; Manitoba 963,000; Saskatchewan 959,000; Alberta 1,511,000; British Columbia 1,990,000; Yukon 15,000 and Northwest Territories 30,000.

Q. Could you please give me the address of Jacques Cousteau, underwater explorer? —E.B.

A. The French naval officer who commands the oceanographic research vessel Calypso; invented the aqualung device for underwater breathing, and a process to use television underwater; is president of the Compagnies Oceanographiques Francaises; and founded other institutes for under-sea research lists his address in the International Who's Who as: 233 Faubourg, St. Honore, Paris 8e, France.

100 Divers Expected For Tourney

Divers will be out in force Sunday after ling cod, sea bass, rock cod and wolf eels — and boatmen are urged to stay clear of operations.

Between 80 and 100 divers are expected to compete in the Victoria Day spearfishing tournament from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. off the Ogden Point breakwater.

CARE ASKED

Local boatmen have been asked to watch for surface flags that indicate divers are working below. Flags and patrol boats will be located all along the breakwater to warn against excessive speed in the area.

Prizes in the competition are offered for the largest fish, highest aggregate weight, three-man team aggregate weight. Awards will also be given for the top female diver, the top novice diver and the diver taking the largest wolf eel.

GIVE-AWAY

Divers are coming from Seattle, Portland, Vancouver and Vancouver Island areas. About 50 local divers are expected to enter.

Fish will be given away following the 3:30 weigh-in.

Chamber Supports Health Board

A convention centre and beautification programs are pointless until Greater Victoria solves its pollution problems says Chamber of Commerce president William Armstrong.

In a letter to the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health the Chamber went on record as supporting recent anti-pollution moves by the board.

"The civic affairs committee (of the chamber) is very disturbed about the pollution in the lower Vancouver Island area," the letter stated. "It wishes to commend the board of health for placing signs showing the polluted water areas and this in the face of opposition from factions who refuse to accept the problem.

"The building of a convention centre, the talk of the beauty of our city, clean-up of buildings and all other progressive ideas are an exercise in futility until the sewer problem is solved."

Mr. Armstrong pledged the support of the chamber in bringing home the seriousness of the situation to the people and to eliminating the problem.

Compensation Post Filled

R. B. Carpenter of Thetis Island was appointed to the Workmen's Compensation Board Tuesday, filling a vacancy caused by the recent death of E. V. Ablett.

Mr. Carpenter, works manager for Canadian Industries Ltd., was a member of the provincial labor relations board in 1960-61 and served as chairman of the B.C. labor relations committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Children Set Garage Ablaze

A garage adjoining a Fernwood Road home was heavily damaged by fire Tuesday night.

The fire department said children playing with matches were responsible for the blaze at 2533 Fernwood, the residence of Tulio Garcia.

Residents had the fire almost under control when firemen arrived. Fire trucks were at the scene 50 minutes.

THEY'RE SOCKIN' IT TO 'EM TO GET DAD BACK IN HOUSE

Cheering squads, folk singers and bands are old hat in political campaigns but there's something different about the Davie "Groos Gospel" singers.

All three girls are daughters of Grit candidate Dave Groos.

They're lined up in the picture beside the Groos campaign booth at Jaycee Fair, Madeleine 17, Hilary 12 and Laura 19, left to right. And they're socking it to passersby to get Dad back in the House.

Not too many feet from them is the Progressive Conservative booth set up by the Eric Charman campaign committee—close enough to wince at these lyrics:

"Come Along, come along,
"Let us vote for Groos together.
"Come along, Come along,
"Vote in fair and stormy weather,
"Groos and Trudeau are the men
"Who will lead us on much further,
"Leave the rest, Trudeau's best!
"Come along, Come along.

"Canada is growing fast,
"And we've had a glorious past,
"But the future is not dead.
"We've got Trudeau at the head,
"So unite Canadians all
"With the party on the ball,
"And the Liberals sound the call!
"Come along, Come along.

The girls explain that the first verse may be repeated "again and again at four of five year intervals."

DVA HOSPITAL

More Points For Transfer Than Against

By PETE LOUDON

Among men aged over 30, there are more war veterans in Victoria area than anywhere else in Canada,—41.8 per cent.

And a good proportion of them will object to any proposal to transfer Veterans' Hospital to community jurisdiction.

There might be a storm brewing because the recent Agnew, Peckham report on local hospitals not only recommended integration of the hospital with Royal Jubilee, it labelled the "Vets" as obsolete and gave it a black eye in terms of patient facilities.

Veterans, backed by their senior organization, the Royal Canadian Legion won't take this condemnation lightly.

'DISTURBED'

A former Legion zone commander, Carl Fallas of 3041 Donald says the Legion is disturbed at attempts to take the hospital from veterans affairs and turn it over to community authorities.

He has asked Legion representation here May 29 when Dr. K. S. Ritchie, director-general of treatment services meets with the medical advisory board of the hospital and Royal Jubilee and B.C. health and welfare officials.

The Legion can be expected to point out that the bulk of World War II veterans are still to arrive at the age when they will depend most heavily on the Vets for hospital care.

And that's when the Legion is liable to be told that unless the federal department is ready to almost completely rebuild the Vets, its patients would probably be better off in a more modern community-operated hospital.

DEFICIENCIES

The Agnew, Peckham report will be cited to demonstrate these deficiencies:

- There are 144 beds in six 24-bed wards while more than four beds to a room is not an acceptable standard today.
- There are no washrooms nor even a hand sink in any of these ward areas. Washrooms are "a considerable distance away."
- Few of the rooms have any provision for patients' clothes.
- Communal toilet facilities "leave a great deal to be desired." "In one room with five toilets there is no hand sink."
- "Patients must pass through the main corridor to the next adjacent room where sinks are located. This is a poor arrangement in terms of human dignity and a dangerous practice from the infection control point of view."
- "In another adjacent room the bathtubs and showers are located. There is no toilet or sink.
- In the Pavilion (the section used by domiciliary care vets) none of the beds have toilets immediately adjacent to them and the proportion of toilets to patients is "much too low," varying between one to seven and one to nine.
- All treatment-diagnostic and supporting departments are undersized. Many are inadequate in layout and efficiency.

EXCELLENT CARE

The report devotes more space to criticism of the Vets than it does to any other district hospital except perhaps the other federal government hospital in this area, the Canadian Forces Hospital Esquimalt, which is "entirely unsuitable for hospital use."

The report says patients receive "excellent" care at the armed forces hospital and "high calibre care" at the Vets. But this whisper of praise can't outweigh the criticisms.

The report notes that there are no difinite plans for expansion of the Vets although the defence department is studying improvements to the armed forces hospital.

The point the veterans might consider before rejecting the whole report out of pride in their hospital is made in other sections of the report.

3 STIPULATIONS

First, it is noted that the plan for community integration of veterans' hospitals was first mooted by the Veterans Affairs Department with three stipulations.

Accommodation for veterans must be available at all times with DVA-approved treatment, for those with service disabilities. Community institutions must be available for other classes of veterans in their own communities. There must be continued employment for DVA hospital staffs.

The community hospital report doesn't appear to argue with these proposals.

It just says that if veterans are to enjoy facilities equal to those of other modern hospitals there must be close integration with another general hospital—or the DVA must modernize or build a new plant.
